CONG. SHERMAN REMAINS THE SAME

Princeton, N. J., June 24.—Former President Grover Cleveland died at 8:40 o'clock this morning, succumbing to an illness, from which he had been suffering during the greater part of the winter. He recently returned to his home here from Lakewood, where he spent several weeks in an effort to regain his health. The announcement of death was made by Dr. Joseph D. Bryant of New York, the family physician. It stated that Mr. Cleveland had been suffering from gastro-intestinal disorders, organic diseases of the heart and kidneys and heart failure. The statement said that heart failure, pulmonary thrombosis and oedema were the direct causes of death. The patient took a sudden turn for the worse early yesterday, but the news was kept secret by his physicians and family. It was thought that he was rallying last night, but a relapse set in this morning. His wife was at the bedside, but the children were at the Cleveland summer home at Tamworth, N. H., in care of their grandmother, Mrs. Perrine.

Grover Cleveland was born in Caldwell, Essex county, N. Y., on March 18, 1837, being of Puritan descent. His father was a Presbyterian clergyman. In early life he studied law and then settled in the city of Buffalo. His early career really began in 1863, when he became assistant district attorney for Erie county. Then he was successively sheriff of the county and mayor of Buffalo. In 1862 he was elected governor of New York for three years.

The Democratic party, while casting about for a presidential candidate, chose him as their standard bearer. Independent voters were urged to vote for Cleveland, and for the first time in twenty-eight years a Democrat was elected president of the United States that fall, Cleveland beating out James G. Blaine, the Republican nominee. He was inaugurated in 1885, being then 47 years of age. Blaine had been known through a whole generation as a man of great natural gifts, eloquence and charm; yet he was beaten by a man who had but yesterday, as it were, come into public prominence.

Cleveland's popular majority over Blaine was small, but he was regarded as the choice of the people, not of a party. The Democratic politicians were speedily dismayed when he was inducted into office when they found that President Cleveland did not intend to make a full sweep of the offices and give to the victors the spoils. During his first administration, a great many reforms were inaugurated, which stand to this day. On the next election, Benjamin Harrison, Republican, was pitted against Cleveland, and won. Nothing daunted, the Democrats nominated Cleveland again the following convention and the Republicans named Harrison again also. This time Cleveland won out, although the popular vote for him exceeded Harrison's by only 500,000.

The closing days of the second term were darkened by great perplexities which had to deal with foreign policies, chief among which were the difficulties surrounding the Cuban question. During these days Cleveland's party turned partially against him and for two years he carried on the strife alone, practically; and he retired from office with a feeling of relief. The later years of his life have been spent quietly at his home in Princeton, N. J., with his family. It was during his first term in office that he was married to Frances Folsom who survives him, with their three children. He was the only living ex-president of the United States.

TAFT'S TRIBUTE TO CLEVELAND. "A Great and a Great President," Loved and Respected. New Haven, Conn., June 24.—Secretary Taft was told the news of Cleveland's death while he sat on the platform at the Yale commencement exercises, and during the singing of a psalm he wrote, "I greatly regret to hear of Mr. Cleveland's death. He was a great man and a great president, and leaves this life with the love and respect of all his countrymen."

Stated at Lakeside Hospital in Cleveland That His Condition Had Not Changed Since 3 P. M.

Cleveland, Ohio, June 24.—It was stated at Lakeside hospital this morning that there was no change in Cong. Sherman's condition since the official bulletin was issued at 3 a. m., which said "His temperature now is 101.3; pulse 92; respiration 28. The patient is resting quietly."

The following message was dictated by Mr. Sherman late last evening in answer to one of sympathy from the secretary of war, Taft:

"Lakeside Hospital, Cleveland, O., June 23, 1908. Hon. William H. Taft, New Haven, Conn.

"My Dear Mr. Taft:—My illness is not of a critical nature and the doctors this afternoon advised me that I can probably go home in three or four days. I thank you ever so much indeed for your cordial telegram. I expect to see you in Washington on Wednesday of next week. "J. S. Sherman."

PRISONER BROUGHT FROM IOWA. Henry Perham of Lunsburg, Charged With Larceny.

Island Pond, June 24.—Henry Perham of Lunsburg, who was arrested in Seymour, Iowa, recently on the charge of larceny of a sum of money from Sarah Somers, at Lunsburg, May 21, was brought here yesterday on requisition papers and is being given a hearing before Justice of the Peace E. J. Parsons today.

It will be remembered that Mrs. Somers, who is of Indian descent and makes and sells baskets, for many years had saved her slender earnings and had accumulated about $150 to provide her with suitable burial when she should die. May 21 she mislaid this money, which she always carried about her person, and the next day Perham suddenly and unaccountably fitted himself with new clothes and started for Iowa, via Portland. An application by State's Attorney H. B. Amey for the requisition of Perham from Iowa was placed in the hands of Gov. Fletcher D. Proctor, and, this being granted, Deputy Sheriff Dodge started for Iowa immediately and brought Perham back to Vermont.

CLOSE LOCAL CONTEST. Judge E. W. Gibson Beat W. H. Vinton in Brattleboro Caucus.

Brattleboro, June 24.—The Republican caucus held yesterday to elect delegates to the Windsor county convention in Newfane July 3, was the hottest thing of its kind ever pulled off locally. The opposing delegations were lined up in favor of Judge E. W. Gibson and of W. H. Vinton for county senator. The result of the vote was 535 for Gibson and 426 for Vinton. Friends of both men have made an active canvass through the county during the past week and it is almost certain that the defeated candidate at the caucus will not carry his efforts to the convention.

GAVE A RAP AT OFFICIAL

State's Attorney of Windsor County Gets Scored

BY RAILROAD COMMISSION

Board Claims That on Three Occasions He Neglected His Bounded Duty Regarding Participation in Hearings.

The Vermont board of railroad commissioners, in today's report on the accident whereby Daniel McPhee was injured while alighting from a Central Vermont train at White River Junction February 17, score the state's attorney of Windsor county for alleged negligence in the performance of duties. The state's attorney is E. A. Buck of Windsor. They say: "This is the third investigation of this kind that we have held in Windsor county this week, and although the state's attorney in each case had full notice of the hearing, including a list of the witnesses who could give information in regard to the accident he neither attended nor produced any witnesses before the board, nor procured anyone to attend in his place, nor gave any reason for his absence."

The board reports that there was no direct evidence before them that there had been an accident, except for a letter from McPhee stating that he had been injured, so add the commissioners "we may safely report at least that he claims to have been injured." That was about all they could find out about the accident. The report is signed by E. H. Porter of Wilmington, John W. Redmond of Newport and S. Hollister Jackson of Barre, commissioners.

The board finds in other cases as follows: That there was no one to blame for the death of J. J. Tibbitts on the Central Vermont near West Hartford on March 26, 1908; that Alice Sparks came to her death while picking up coal in the Central Vermont yard at Burlington on March 30 through her own negligence, being crushed between cars; that Richard Barber, killed on the Boston & Maine railroad at White River Junction May 2, died through his own carelessness; that the Boston & Maine railroad is exonerated of blame in the fatal accident of John Molstrom of East Ryegate April 9, and personal injury to Oscar Johnson at the same time and place.

The verbatim report on the last accident is as follows: "A public investigation into the cause of this accident held at Wells River, May 12, 1908, revealed the following facts: On April 9, 1908, an extra freight train on the Boston and Maine railroad, consisting of a locomotive, 23 loaded freight cars, and a caboose, left Newport, about one p. m., bound for Woodsville. About 5:30 of that afternoon, at a point one mile south of East Ryegate station, while the train was running down grade on its own momentum at a speed of about 25 miles an hour the train separated, the air brakes automatically set and stopped the train. When the train crew went back, they found nine of the loaded freight cars in the ditch and badly damaged. As they looked, a man crawled out from the wreckage, with a slight flesh wound over his eye, and told the train crew that he was a Swede by the name of Oscar Johnson, that he and a companion by the name of John Molstrom had mounted the train about a mile back; that they were without money and were bound for Boston. Further search discovered on the opposite side of the track, the frightfully mutilated dead body of the man whom Johnson recognized as his companion.

We find that Molstrom was instantly killed as he rode on the "deadwood" between two cars, by the cars coming together and crushing him. For more than a mile north of the scene of the accident, the grade is very steep toward the south, and for all that distance the train had been "coasting." The roadbed was in no way defective, but, on the contrary, was in good condition. The derailment was probably due to a broken wheel, but whether this was the true cause no one can say with certainty. When the wreckage was removed, a broken wheel was found among the ruins.

We cannot find any negligence in respect of the speed of the train, or its management and operation, nor in respect of the condition and sufficiency of the roadbed.

KERR—MARTIN

Marriage Occurred at Noon Today at Home of Bride in Bethel.

Bethel, June 24.—A very pleasant wedding was celebrated today at high noon when Oliver Stewart Kerr of Northfield and Edna Dians, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Plummer Martin of this town, were united in marriage by the Rev. E. W. Sharpe of Northfield, who used the single ring service. The bride was handsomely gowned in white batiste and carried a bouquet of bridal roses, while her attendant, Miss Bessie Hubbard of Granville wore white over light blue and carried white carnations. John Whitney of Northfield accompanied the groom.

The wedding party entered the parlor, which had been decorated with ferns and daisies, to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, played by Miss Neva Clifton. The ceremony was witnessed by relatives and friends, and at the conclusion of a wedding breakfast was served. The happy couple took the north-bound afternoon train for a short wedding trip, the bride being gowned in blue silk princess dress with hat of Alice blue. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Kerr will take up their residence in Northfield, where Mr. Kerr has been a popular and efficient clerk in the grocery store of C. E. Richards for the last five years. The bride, in her short residence of less than a year in town, has won for herself a host of friends who will wish for them much happiness, as the many beautiful gifts of silver, glass and china received by her give loving expression.

Among those from out of town who were present at the wedding were Mrs. Margaret Kerr, mother of the groom; Mr. and Mrs. Will Kerr, Mr. and Mrs. Horace Whitney of Northfield; Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Perry of Barre; Mr. and Mrs. John Kerr, Mrs. Wallace Bailey, Mrs. Elizabeth Emerson and Mr. Ernest Chase of Rochester and others from town.

KELTY—HUSE

Montpelier Newspaper Reporter and a Barre Young Woman Married.

Marshfield, June 24.—At noon today occurred the marriage of Miss Jessie Emma Huse, daughter of Mrs. Evelyn Huse of Barre, to Laurence A. Kelty of Montpelier, the ceremony being performed at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. E. W. Bassett. Only the near relatives of the contracting parties were present. The bridal party stood beneath an arch of evergreen and wild roses, from the center of which was suspended a wedding bell. The Rev. F. E. Currier of Cabot, a friend of the bride, was the officiating clergyman, the ring service being used. The bride was becomingly gowned in champagne-colored veil over light blue and she carried roses. The bridesmaid, who was her sister, Miss Elena May Huse wore white muslin and carried a bouquet of sweet peas. The best man was Paul Kelty, brother of the groom. Following the ceremony a wedding dinner was served. The dining-room, too, was prettily decorated, the features being white daisies and ferns. Mr. and Mrs. Kelty left on a short wedding tour and on their return will reside in Montpelier, where the groom is employed as a reporter on the Evening Argus.

The wedding is the result of a school romance, they having met at Montpelier seminary as students, the bride, in the stenography department and Mr. Kelty in the academic department. The bride, following her course in the seminary, has been toll operator in the Barre telephone exchange for three years. Mr. Kelty will be remembered as a former conductor on the Barre and Montpelier electric railroad during his school days. On his graduation in 1905 he entered the employ of the Montpelier Argus. Both have many friends in Barre and Montpelier who will join in extending congratulations.

A DIAMOND RING MISSING

Caused Arrest of Willard McGinley in Montreal

FOR THE BARRE POLICE

S. H. Forsyth Had Complained to Local Chief of Loss of Jewel and Tracers Were Set to Work on McGinley, Who Formerly Worked Here.

Chief of Police David Faulkner has received a telegram from the detective department of the Montreal police that Willard McGinley, a man who is wanted in this city for alleged grand larceny had been arrested there and was being held for the arrival of the Barre police and that he had consented to come to Barre without extradition. The arrest grew out of a complaint made to Chief Faulkner some three weeks since by S. H. Forsyth, who had a valuable diamond ring stolen from his office. McGinley was for a time employed at Mr. Forsyth's office and suspicion pointed to him. Chief Faulkner communicated with the police of Halifax, where it was thought that McGinley might be, and also with the police of Montreal. The local police had received a communication from the Halifax police, stating that McGinley had been there and was wearing a diamond ring, which might or might not be the one that he is alleged to have stolen in Barre, and that he had left for Montreal. The Montreal authorities were then communicated with, and McGinley was spotted by a detective and placed under arrest.

Chief Faulkner left this afternoon for Montreal and will arrive with McGinley tomorrow and he will be given a hearing in city court.

ANNEXED A "V" EASILY

Spectators Held Their Breath Until They Saw The Bronco Jog Peacefully.

The sale of horses conducted by M. T. Senecal of Lowell, Mass., at Johnston & Jones' livery stable yesterday afternoon was attended by horsemen from far and near. The entire carload of 30 horses was disposed of for prices ranging from $42 for a horse that had apparently "been used some" to $108, which William Rock gave up for the pacing mare "Ellie Shannon" at private sale.

C. H. Harmon of Lowell, Mass., was the auctioneer and the way that he rattled off descriptions of the good points of the animals showed that he was no novice at the business.

A feature which attracted considerable attention was the ease with which Clyde Willey annexed five dollars of the money belonging to Charles Barney, who is employed at the stable. H. B. Willey had invested a small amount in a broncho, and this started a discussion as to the "rideability" of the beast and Barney offered to bet a V that Clyde Willey could not ride the cayuse to North Barre and return without severing its connection with the saddle.

Accordingly the horse was led into the yard and saddled and bridled, and Willey straddled the saddle, while the spectators held their breaths. After a tense moment of suspense the man who held the "bronco" loosened his hold and the crowd held their breath some more, but there was nothing doing as the brute took an easy jog to North Barre and back and Clyde annexed the five.

MRS. MELORA E. PERKINS

Died Suddenly Last Evening, Aged 44 Years.

Melora Elvira Perkins, wife of Walter E. Perkins of 24 Academy street, died last evening at 8:10 o'clock at the City hospital, after an apparently successful operation on Saturday of last week. Death came suddenly and was due to a weakening of the heart action, caused by the trouble necessitating the operation.

Mrs. Perkins was the only daughter of the late Chester B. and Elvira Tillotson, and was born in Winoit, February 21, 1864. In 1880 she moved with her parents to East Montpelier, and her life since that time has been spent in this vicinity, living in Plainfield, Montpelier and Barre. She was united in marriage with Mr. Perkins October 14, 1885, and had been a faithful and loving wife.

In her early years she attended Montpelier seminary, but was unable to pursue her course to graduation because of poor health. She became a Christian in early life and united with the Plainfield Methodist Episcopal church, but of late years had been an attendant at the Baptist church in this city.

Besides her husband, Mrs. Perkins leaves two brothers, Olin L. Tillotson of East Montpelier and C. Freelon Tillotson of Morrisville. The sick comes severely to Mr. Perkins, who has the deep sympathy of his many friends and neighbors. Funeral services will be held at her late home, 24 Academy street, on Friday at 12 o'clock. Rev. W. E. Braisted of the Baptist church officiating. Interment will be made in the Center cemetery at Plainfield.
