The summer is at its zenith.

They Kent find the fugitive from the Waterbury asylum, more's the pity.

President Castro of Venezuela is threatening "to beat the Dutch," but it will turn out to be only wind-jamming.

Now, if President Roosevelt were a jealous man, he would resent the precipitancy of his drop from the public eye and the substitution of Judge Taft. For a fact, we hear now no less than four words about Roosevelt to one about Taft.

It wouldn't be a bit strange if Harry Thaw found his prison quarters not quite so luxurious as he has been in the habit of having at the call of the Thaw millions; but when he's with the Romans he must expect to do as the Romans do.

Northfield-on-the-Dog is again brought into prominence because of the skill of her marksmen in Company F. There are other Northfield residents with unerring aim, among whom may be numbered Frank Plumley, who set Congress as his mark and is going to hit it.

We read that Speaker Tom Cheney has increased the capacity of the dining-room at his home in Morrisstown and that Senator-to-be L. H. Lewis has added a veranda to his house at Hyde Park. Both for the accommodation of their enlarged political families, no doubt.

The Vermont Socialists are not so slow after all. When they found that their vote at the last gubernatorial election didn't entitle them to representation in the ballot, they mustered 800 petitioners, or more than enough, and thus got themselves reinstated. So Vermont will have five tickets to vote for this fall.

The residents about the village of Bridport placed upwards of $50,000 securities in the storekeeper's safe; the storekeeper didn't lock the vault door; the burglars came and walked off with the securities. There appears to be a crying demand for a bank over in Bridport, or a merchant who locks all the doors of his safe.

BIG OFFICES AND LITTLE MEN.

The country is now and then treated to the sight of a man who is sought by a political office, rather than himself being the seeker. It is a pleasing contrast thus afforded. However, the number of little individuals popping up with insatiable ambition to rattle around in a big office so that they may be admired by their friends, envied by some others and ridiculed by still more, is so preponderating that they are become a sore on the body politic. We see it very often in local affairs, many times in state divisions and frequently in na-

Uncollected Taxes Placed in Officer's Hands For Collection.

The uncollected taxes for this year were placed in the hands of the city sheriff Saturday morning, and taxpayers can now square themselves with the city only by paying additional costs. The amount that went into the hands of the sheriff was several hundred dollars larger than it has been in some years, but this was due to thoughtlessness. Twenty or more who have lists of $25 or over let the time go by because they had forgotten the notice that had been sent them. The number of poll taxes unpaid is remarkably small.

Mr. and Mrs. Irad Ellis and daughter and Miss Annie Wheelock went Saturday afternoon to Woodbury pond where they will be in camp for a month.

Mrs. I. C. Vail returned Saturday from Mt. Clemens, Mich., very much improved from her three weeks' treatment there for rheumatism. Mrs. Vail will continue to run the Riverside, at least until after the session of the legislature, and probably until next June.

The check list for the September election, posted Saturday, contains about 500 additional names over the list for the March election. The names of 66 were dropped from the list because of death. About 400 men in the city are eligible to vote if they get their names on the list in time. The first meeting of the board of civil authority for the purpose of revising the check list will be held Thursday evening, August 13, in the city clerk's office.

The Socialists of the state who held a state convention at Barre several weeks ago and nominated a state ticket did not propose to lose their place on

CLASS CONSCIOUSNESS.

Pilkins, full of petty hauteur, Bought a yellow auto motor— Think of it, a yellow!— And its tawdry tints bedizen Half the world and its horizon. How I hate the fellow! For his peaky "honk" comes booming Every time I touch a crossing, And in automobiles There's no honk for "if you please."

So I (by financial rigor) Bought a yellow and bigger— Faster also when it pleases. And the chap who used to blind me Wallows in the dust behind me. He's the fellow now who sneezes! And my "honk" is quite as raucous In the automobile caucous. So I wave my hand and bow Quite politely to him now.

(P. S.—Why do people visit On a crosswalk? Say, why is it? Edmund Vance Cooke in Woman's Home Companion.

On the Highway.

Waggles—Gee, I wonder why dat dorg bit me? His Friend—Oh, well, dere's no accountin' fer tastes, you know!—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Smashing Her Baggage.
 A series of terrific crashes against the front door brought the mistress to that exit, and, flinging it open, she beheld standing calmly before it the new cook, her baggage lying about in confusion, while driving off with a black countenance was the baggageman. "Mercy!" exclaimed the startled mistress. "Why did that rude man hurl your baggage after you like that, Mary? Wouldn't you pay him?" "Oh, it ain't that, mum; but me last job wor at his house."—Judge.

A Useful Tool.
 Gyer—Lots of inventors never fully realize the importance of their inventions. Myer—Don't they? Gyer—No. Take the hairpin, for example. It is said the inventor never intended it to be used in dressing the hair.—Minneapolis Journal.

The Easiest Way.
 "The easiest way to succeed, my boy, is to give the people what they want." "No, sir; you are mistaken. The easiest way to succeed is to make the people think they want what you are giving them."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Pith and Point.

A man hates faint praise worse than he hates abuse. The little things get together and cause big troubles. Every one thinks he gives as much to the poor as his means will allow. A genius is a man who knows how to do only one thing and knows how to do that well. A man is never so humble that his opinion is not worth quoting when favorable to you. Roosters are a good deal like me. A rooster never gives notice of having found a worm until after he has swallowed it.—Atchison Globe.

Plays and Players.

Doris Mitchell will be Norman Hackett's leading lady in "Classmates." George Broadhurst has written a new play, called "An International Marriage." A dramatization of "David Copperfield" may be produced in Paris the coming season. Dallas Welford is to appear in a new piece under the Shubert management called "Her Highness Radish." Andrew Mack will star the coming season again under the management of William Harris in the repertory including "Arrab-na-Pogue" and a new comedy.

Our Indians.

The Indians of the United States own about $35,000,000. The Osage Indians as a tribe are said to be the richest people on earth. Of the 284,000 Indians left in the United States only 60,000 are full blooded.

The Inevitable.
 There was a young fellow named Morse. Who thought he would bet on a horse. He got a sure tip. But he made a bad slip. And he lost all his money, of course. —Baltimore American.

The Kind Gardener.
 "Willie's digging out the lettuce! Bessie's pulling up the peas!" "Precious darlings! Let 'em go!—Anything, you know, to please!" "Johnny's crushing the tomatoes! Flossie's spilling all you've done!" "Well, no matter; let 'em go if 'if they're having any fun." —Chicago Record-Herald.
