FORESTRY IN FRANCE.

Great Achievement, Her Establishment of So-called "Protective" Forests. The great achievement of France in forestry has been the establishment of protective forests where much destruction had been caused by floods and winds. From various causes large areas were cleared of forests toward the close of the eighteenth century, and only when it was too late was it realized that these lands were not fit for agriculture and should have been left in forest. To repair the mistake a movement to reforest began in the nineteenth century. It was an extremely expensive mistake. Down to the present time, encouraged by wise laws, the state, the communes, and private landowners have restored to forest over 2,500,000 acres, and so saved them from ruin. In addition the resulting forests return an excellent revenue.

Two-thirds of the forests of Europe are in France. In the Alps, the Cevennes, and the Pyrenees mountains there are 1,462 brooks and mountain streams which are considered dangerous. Nearly a million acres of mountain slopes are exposed to erosion by these streams, to say nothing of the flat land below. As far back as the sixteenth century there were local restrictions against clearing mountain sides, enforced by fines, confiscation and corporal punishment. In the main these prevented ruinous stripping of hillsides, but with the French revolution these restrictions were swept aside and the mountains were cleared at such a rate that disastrous effects were felt within ten years. By 1803 the people had become aroused to the folly of this cutting. Where useful brooks had been there now rushed torrents which flooded the fertile fields and covered them with sterile soil washed down from the mountains. The clearing continued unchecked until some 800,000 acres of farmland had been ruined or seriously injured, and the population of eighteen departments had been reduced to poverty and forced to emigrate.

By 1806 the state took up the problem, but in such a way that the burden of expense for reforestation was thrown upon the mountaineers, who, moreover, were deprived of much pasturage. Complaints naturally arose. An attempt was made to check torrents by sodding instead of by forest planting. This, however, proved a failure, and recourse was again had to planting, by the law of 1882, which provides that the state shall bear the costs. Since then the excellent results of planting have completely changed public sentiment. The mountaineers are most eager to have the work go on and are ready to offer their land for nothing to the forest department. In addition to lands secured by gift, the state acquires 25,000 to 30,000 acres a year. Over 500,000 acres have been acquired and more than one-half of this area has been planted.

Already 163 of the torrents have been entirely controlled and 634 are beginning to show the controlling effects of the forest on their watersheds. Thirty-one of the torrents now entirely controlled were considered hopelessly bad half a century ago. It is expected that $50,000,000 will have been spent before the work of reforestation for protection is complete—Scientific American.

THE IDEAL FOR COMPENSATION.

Why Shouldn't Every Industry Carry The Burden of Its Own Killed and Wounded.

There ought to be, and there can be, a system under which the injured employe will know exactly how much he deserves because of his accident, and will know also that he will receive exactly that amount promptly, automatically, in the ordinary course of business administration, without an appeal to the courts, without an appeal to the employer, without becoming a pirate and without becoming a beggar. Mr. Francis H. McLean has recently presented to the New York Conference of Charities and Correction a report on 241 accident cases coming consecutively under the observation of himself and his friends. It was an official report, laboriously compiled. In 47 cases out of the 241 there was a certain amount of compensation, paid by the employer or the injured workman. In the other 194 cases out of the 241 there was no compensation.

Our present law of employer's liability deprives the employe of justice without relieving the employer of expense. It is hideously cruel from one standpoint and frightfully expensive from the other. It cannot endure. Every other important country in the world has put it away in its museum of antiquities. Every other important country in the world has made compensation for accidents an adjunct of business in place of a department of law. In every other important country in the world the burden of the accident, whether due to the fault of the employer, the fault of the employe, or the fault of nobody, is placed on the shoulders of the industry in which it happened.

Every other important country in the world has made compensation for accidents an adjunct of business in place of a department of law. In every other important country in the world the burden of the accident, whether due to the fault of the employer, the fault of the employe, or the fault of nobody, is placed on the shoulders of the industry in which it happened. Carelessness of employer and of employe is inevitable. Both these things, both imperfection of machinery and carelessness of human beings, may be diminished by wise laws, but they cannot be eradicated. Accidents must happen. And therefore the compensation for the accident ought to be inevitable and automatic, like the accident itself. Why shouldn't every industry carry the burden of its own killed and wounded? Why shouldn't compensation for disability be just as much a part of the cost of business as it is of the cost of war? Why shouldn't the workman who goes into his daily fight with modern machinery be assured that his injury will be regarded as an honorable wound, entitling him to decent consideration? Why shouldn't the industrial soldier, meeting his death in forms as terrible as those of any battle-field, die knowing that he will leave, at least a few years' food to his family?—William Hard, in the September Evening Post.

The Aftermath. "My! but there was lots of fire and brimstone in Mr. Bower's sermon this morning." "I expected there would be. Their cook left them yesterday."—Brooklyn Life.

A Sure-enough Knocker.

J. C. Goodwin of Reidsville, N. C., says: "Bucklen's Arnica Salve is a sure-enough knocker for ulcers. A bad one came on my leg last summer, but that wonderful salve knocked it out in a few rounds. Not even a scar remained." Guaranteed for piles, sores, burns, etc. 25c at Red Cross Pharmacy, Kickert & Wells' drug store.

ABOUT THE STATE

The fall session of the Burlington district preachers' institute will be held in the Methodist church at Hoosick Falls, N. Y., October 5 and 6.

Gov. Henry C. Lee and his daughter, Miss Marjorie, of St. Johnsbury, will sail for Paris on the Tontonnin September 30 to be absent about two months.

The Rev. Dr. S. G. Barnea and Percy F. Hazen of St. Johnsbury, and Frederick G. Fleetwood of Morrisville, have been elected trustees of St. Johnsbury academy to fill vacancies.

Middlebury college is looking forward to a successful football season. "Dave" Austin, an old Dartmouth man and former Middlebury coach will be with the candidates again this year.

"Tag day" brought in a trifle over $600 to Brighten hospital, St. Johnsbury, last week and the women cleared nearly $200 from their food tables at the county fair. The $800 will be used in making needed improvements at the institution.

The new paper mill at Fillmore & Shide at Bennington began operations Monday. The output of the mill will, it is said, be used to replace the one destroyed by fire, is constructed of concrete and is practically fire proof.

AGED BURLINGTON MAN DEAD.

Louis Germain, a long time resident of Burlington, died Tuesday at St. Hyacinthe, Que. He was in the 92nd year of his age. He had been visiting at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Vines, since last May. Beside Mrs. Vines, he is survived by another daughter, Mrs. Chauvin, and by two sons, C. E. Germain, of Burlington and Eugene Germain. Mr. Germain went to Burlington as a young man in the '30s and his home was thereafter in that city. For many years he was engaged in the retail shoe business. To the last he retained a great measure of physical and mental ability and was active on the streets and about the house.

UNITES VERMONT AND NEW HAMPSHIRE

It will be but a few short months before this town will be united with Vermont shore by a beautiful as well as substantial bridge suitable to carry an electric car line, if the time ever comes that that commodity might be necessary, for the piers and abutments have been completed by Douglas & Parnum, of Woodsville, N. H., says a statement, N. H. Dispatch. To the Vermont Union. The two abutments have been raised several feet, and the one on the Vermont shore is practically new. When they were testing the logs one was cut into and it proved to be in as good condition as if it had been there but a few years instead of more than three-quarters of a century. The piers have also been raised, so that the bridge will be much above the high water mark, and thus be safe from danger in time of high water and log driving as well as from the ice in the spring. The whole extent of the spans, of which there will be five, is 544 feet. The substructure cost $1,500, while the superstructure will cost $2,300. The contract for the superstructure was given the United Construction Co., of Albany, N. Y., and it is anticipated that the bridge will be completed by December 1.

The opening of the bridge will be a blessing to the autoists who are now obliged to go ten miles to Windsor and then six down the Vermont side, while the other way they are obliged to go ten miles to Charlestown, N. H., and six miles up the Vermont side to get to places in the vicinity of Acuteyville, while this bridge route has always been the direct route to Ludlow, Chester, Rutland and many other towns in Vermont from Claremont and vicinity.

MIDDLEBURY OPENS.

The College Head Asks for the Students' Advice. Middlebury, Sept. 25.—The feature of the 109th convocation of Middlebury college yesterday was the address to the students of Dr. John M. Thomas, who was inducted into the presidency of the college in succession to President Ezra Brainerd last June. "I cannot work for a crowd of leaflets," he said. "I cannot do much for a flock of silly imitators of the senseless customs of other places. I can work for Middlebury, Middlebury ideals and Middlebury men and women. That is what I ask you to be. I shall endeavor to administer the affairs of the college in a frank and open manner, as far as possible taking you into my confidence in all my hopes and efforts. I want you to tell me your ideas; I will gladly listen to your criticisms, and ask for your advice."

WASHING WITHOUT WATER

Is Like Trying to Get Rid of Dandruff Without Herpicide. Did you ever see any one trying to wash themselves without soap or water? If you did what would you say of him? It is every bit as foolish to try to get rid of dandruff and to prevent baldness by feeding the germs which cause it, with Cantharides, Yaseline, Glycerine and similar substances which form the principal ingredients of most so-called Hair Vigors.

Newbro's Herpicide is successful because it attacks and kills the parasite germ which feeds on the hair roots. It is the original and only genuine scalp germicide manufactured.

Bold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps to Miehle to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich. Two sizes—30c and $1.00. E. A. Drova, Special Agent.
