A. A. Smith & Brother have an advertisement on page 3 that should be read by every thinking man who cares whether he gets quality goods at very moderate prices, or whether he gets pained off on his poor, shoddy goods at exorbitant prices. A certain automobile in the city should hereafter be an object of terror to the canine pets in the city, as no less than two dogs met their deaths yesterday afternoon under the wheels of the car. The first mortality occurred on Maple Grove street when a young dog owned by Leon Cole ran out at the machine and was run over, crushing out its life. The second dog met its fate on North Main street. The animal ran at the machine and spectators state that the driver tried his best to stop the car before it struck the dog but was unable to do so. The dog was not killed outright but was so badly crushed that Officer Carlo put out its life with a shot from his revolver.

Artloom Tapestries

A DISCRIMINATING woman recently said, "The curtains and portieres are of more importance than the rugs or carpets used in a room, because the former stand up clearly before you—impress themselves upon you—whereas the floor-coverings do not."

And she was right. Just take a look around yourself and see if your hangings do not make or mar the atmosphere of good taste and refinement in any room.

How imperative then is careful judgment in choosing. The Artloom Tapestries are a guarantee of correct design and artistic effect.

Just make it a point to see the Artloom Tapestries the very next time you go shopping—curtains, table and couch covers.

Their artistic beauty and wearing qualities are out of all proportion to their modest prices.
