Back for work next week.

It being a Friday and the 23d of the month, of course the legislature "skidoed."

Some of the voters in New York state now stand between the devil and the deep sea, for on top of Governor Hughes' activity to kill race track gambling his opponent for the governorship has been forced to admit that he does not favor the repeal of the law which Hughes was instrumental in securing.

A Vermont governor usually reaches the United States Senate rather soon after his term at Montpelier, if he is ever to get there. But Senator-elect Page has been out of the governorship nearly 20 years. And in all this intervening time he has simply done business in his home town. What does the Page strength really consist in?—Springfield Republican.

If you lived up this way, you might suspect that it was green calf skins, but of course it isn't. Page really doesn't depend on his business to keep him in remembrance, although it must be admitted that the advertising of the same taught the younger generation that there was a man named Page.

State Fish and Game Commissioner Thomas of Stowe must realize that he has a large-sized task on his hands to thoroughly spread the word that the open season for deer, as well as all game, has been postponed from the last full week in October until November 8. In order to shake a settled custom in the brief period of four days, he must have the co-operation of every weekly newspaper which has not yet gone to press for the current issue, and of every daily newspaper, while the county and local game wardens have a great deal to do along the lines of publicity. Even with all these efforts, it will not be surprising if there shall not crop out during the next two weeks cases of violation of a law so suddenly, yet so adversely, enacted by the legislature now in session. But let us all do our part toward acquainting all peoples with the measures taken to preserve the timber of the state in this period of extreme drouth.

Rutland county lawyers will not be alone in the fervent hope that Judge Henry L. Clark of Castleton may be elected superior court judge. That wish will be shared by all the people of this county. Rutland county has no representative on either the superior or the supreme bench, and this fact should enhance the probability of Judge Clark's election by the general assembly.—Rutland News.

You have Judge Waterman; leastwise you have him by proxy, even if he is still residing in Brattleboro. Don't you remember when Judge Waterman took his position on the bench that it was promised by someone, somewhere, somehow, that the new judge was going to remove to Rutland to relieve the congested condition of the judges in Brattleboro? So rise up in your right, Rutland county, and demand Judge Waterman, now that Zed Stanton has turned your corners quite neatly. Rutland county can't be such a bad place to live in, if the matter is put up to Judge Waterman in the right manner.

THE NEW JUDGE OF THE SUPERIOR COURT. At last Zed S. Stanton has landed. His election yesterday as a member of the superior court bench of Vermont means probably his withdrawal from further candidacy for public office. Judge Stanton's temperament is more adapted for a judiciary position than for the life of a state official, anyway. His profession, predilections and experience have tended to build up a judicial temperament rather than that of an administrative official. He has long been associated with the courts of Vermont in one capacity or another, and is therefore thoroughly conversant with the details of court procedure. He has sat, moreover, as master in innumerable cases in civility. All of which has tended to give him a peculiar fitness for the place to which he has just been elected. There can be little doubt in anybody's mind that Judge Stanton will measure up to the requirements of the superior court bench of Vermont. Whether he is indebted to his friends or to his enemies for his elevation does not matter; Stanton is undoubtedly in the place which he can best fill.

strying fruit may be shot at certain seasons. Should such a bill be passed it would place many of our feathered songsters, destroyers of myriads of insect pests, at the mercy of the farmer boy's shot gun and it is safe to say that an innocent bird which are among the most valuable assets of the farm, would fall to one fruit robber. If our Brattleboro friend will sit out in his orchard some hot July day, after the cherry season is over, he will see the cedar birds industriously chasing insects repaying him many times over for the few cherries they took earlier in the season.—Rutland News.

WILL PLAY CORNELL. Vermont University Foot Ball Team Takes Hard Problem.

The universiety of Vermont football team, accompanied by Coach Herr, Manager Orton and Physical Director Monroe, left yesterday for Ithaca, N. Y., to play Cornell Saturday. The lineup of the Vermont team will be as follows: Read I. e., Cassidy I. t., Hughes I. g., Thomas c., Buckmilled r. g., Lodge r. t., Ewick r. e., Pierce q. b., Kieselk I. b., Watkins I. h. b., Slaven r. h. b. Other men taken on the trip are Back, Gebhardt, Graves, Fraime and Adams.

The work of the past week for the team has been light, aiming to develop the outside kick and forward pass which will be used mainly against Cornell. Zwick has been moved from right half back to right end, which makes the team much stronger.

Coach Herr has made every effort to strengthen the team and get into best possible condition for this game and while he does not expect to win the game has confidence that the Vermont team will hold Cornell down to a reasonably small score.

And It's Chickens Again. When you have a good thing, and know it, you're pretty apt to speak emphatically and repeatedly about it, aren't you? "Yes," you say, "Well, that's just our case exactly with these chickens. We know they're good, corn-fed, country-raised, tender, and very palatable—and that's why we speak so often about them. They're every whit as nice this week as they were last, and there's the whole story. Better order early."

Just read these careful pickings from the best fall vegetables and fruits:

900 DELEGATES PRESENT.

At the State Sunday School Convention in Bellevue Falls. Bellevue Falls, Oct. 23.—The annual Vermont State Sunday school convention, continues with over 300 delegates in attendance. The forenoon session yesterday was largely devoted to business. State President Nathan G. Williams of Bellevue Falls presided and the various reports showed prosperity in Sunday school work. State conditions were discussed and plans laid for aggressive work the coming year.

The treasurer, F. H. Shephardson of Richmond, reported the receipts the past year to be $5,554.79 with expenditures of $5,051.70 leaving a cash balance of over $500. General Secretary Edward M. Fuller of Burlington made a lengthy report of last year's progress, and devoted much of his time to advocating measures tending towards the extension of the work. At the close of the business session, the Rev. A. E. Pratt of Bellevue Falls gave an address on "Work Among the Boys." The final address of the morning "How to Reach and Hold Men in Bible Study" was delivered by Marshall A. Hudson, Syracuse, N. Y.

The exercises of the afternoon opened at two o'clock with a praise service. An hour was spent with the home department conducted by Miss Edith M. Balch and Miss Adeline C. Crampton of St. Albans spoke on "A Means to an End." Mrs. M. S. Lamoreaux of Chicago gave an interesting address on "Child Religion." The Rev. C. H. Tyndall of Mount Vernon, N. Y., gave a helpful address "Object Teaching with Children." This evening the Rev. Frank S. Tolman of West Rutland gave an address on "Some Ways to a Child's Heart" and Dr. Tyndall spoke on "Wireless Telegraphy" which was one of the features of the convention.

FRANCHISE DEFEATED. People of Cleveland Turn Down Mayor Johnson's Municipal Traction Scheme. Cleveland, Ohio, Oct. 23.—The franchise under which the Municipal Traction company is operating the local street railway lines upon a three-cent fare basis, was defeated by a majority of 951 in the referendum vote here yesterday. The total vote cast was upwards of 75,000.

The defeat of the franchise may mean that the railway property will revert to its original owners and that the old rate of fare which lasted seven years, will be renewed.

It is said that Governor Prouty's proclamation is so broad that it forbids the hunting of ducks. What? "We'll be here until New Year's if we don't get busy," is Speaker Cheney's slogan nowadays. And he's right. He ought to be. He has been here fourteen years.

Some quiet members are asking about that Howe bill, making it a crime to shoot a human being accidentally, even if you merely clip a piece of cuticle from one ear. On the face of it, they say, it looks like pretty binding legislation.

With the big rush of fish and game bills, now before the House and Senate, the important matters of taxation, highway legislation and the school fund seem temporarily eclipsed. The general committee and the fish and game committee seem to have their work pretty well cut out for them.

That roll call idea is certainly working well, and, strange to say, no one seems to object to it now that it is established. Men are but children of a larger growth, anyway.

The climax of ladies' week, which, by the way, has been filled to overflowing with social events, was reached last night with the governor's ball at the armory. Thirteen hundred invitations had been issued and most of them were accepted, the armory being crowded, both floor and gallery. Gov. and Mrs. Prouty were assisted in receiving by the former's staff. From eight to nine o'clock a concert was rendered by the Montpelier Military Band orchestra, after which dancing was in order, continuing until an early hour this morning.

The complete list of the Vermont judiciary elected yesterday afternoon at the joint session of the legislature is as follows: John W. Rowell of Randolph was re-elected chief judge of the supreme court; Loveland Munson of Manchester, first associate, John H. Watson of Montpelier, second associate, and Seneca Haseoff of Burlington third associate. Thirteen hundred invitations had been issued and most of them were accepted, the armory being crowded, both floor and gallery. Gov. and Mrs. Prouty were assisted in receiving by the former's staff. From eight to nine o'clock a concert was rendered by the Montpelier Military Band orchestra, after which dancing was in order, continuing until an early hour this morning.

There was but one contest in yesterday afternoon's election, David L. Morgan of Rutland being elected judge-advocate-general over B. G. Williams of Bellevue Falls by a vote of 180 to 129. Mason S. Stone of Montpelier was unanimously re-elected state superintendent of education, as were Charles H. Ferrin of Montpelier, sergeant-at-arms, and W. H. Gilmore of Fairlee, adjutant and inspector general. W. P. Drilling of Waterbury, George Aikin of Woodstock, and Z. M. Mansur of Newport were elected trustees of the university of Vermont for six years from December 1, next. Redfield Proctor of Proctor was elected for four years to fill out the unexpired term of Redfield Proctor, his father.

Some Gowns at the Ball. The gowns of the ladies in Governor Prouty's party at the ball last night were unusually beautiful. They are thus described by the society reporter of the Burlington Free Press: Mrs. Prouty wore an imported Paris gown of heavy white satin trimmed with real lace. Her ornaments were diamonds. Mrs. James Franklin Blanchard of Newport was gowned in pink crepe de chene over pink silk. Mrs. Thelma Kinley wore white silk messaline with blue silk trimmings and diamond ornaments; Miss Helen Clark, white chiffon creation over white silk; Mrs. Dudley W. Davis, imported costume of gray ottoman silk with trimmings of duchess lace and silver, ornaments, diamonds; Miss Lina Harding, pink chiffon over pink satin; Mrs. Harry Hamilton, light blue embroidered messaline; Mrs. Clarence E. Nelson, an imported gown of white Chinese crepe, heavily embroidered, pearls and diamonds; Miss Miriam Nelson, blue chiffon cloth over blue silk; Mrs. Henry Roll Brown, pink Dresden satin trimmed with lace, ornaments, diamonds; Mrs. George F. Flint, heavy white satin gown with silver trimmings; Mrs. Edgar Prouty, pink embroidered net over pink satin; Miss Agnes Bailey, embroidered chiffon over yellow silk; Mrs. Charles Bigelow, silver gray lace over yellow satin with diamond ornaments; Miss Beatrice Bigelow, yellow silk messaline; Mrs. George Root, pink messaline satin

NOTES AND COMMENT ON LEGISLATURE

It is not every afternoon that visitors to the State House can be treated to a joint assembly, elections of judges and state officers, a contest on such an office as judge-advocate-general, and then high class opera bouffe with Ed. Flint as the bright and scintillating star.

"What splendid music," was a frequent expression of guests at the governor's ball, a good many going as far as to say that the Montpelier band orchestra was the best organization of its kind in the state.

Governor and Mrs. Prouty will be remembered as charming hosts, while the present session seems likely to go down in capitol history as the most brilliant in a social way that the state has seen in several decades. Now for business!

The farmers' club, despite its hilarious meeting the other night, is probably destined to have an important place in the business of the session. It is not a lobbying body, but its rough cast, effective method of getting at questions of public interest, especially to the agricultural workers, will have a marked result in matters of legislation.

That bill for the profligate Gibson, senator from Windham county, which provides for the killing of deer which are destroying property on cultivated lands, will stand an excellent chance in the House. As a matter of cold fact, how long would a decision stand in law which undertook to punish a man for defending his own property from the ravages of the state's wards. There is said to be a case on record where a lawyer undertook to test the law, and ordered his farm manager to shoot a deer that was destroying property. The manager did so and the lawyer notified the game warden to come and get the state's property. The warden did so, but there was no prosecution, so the story runs. How far from truth is the story, just as it stands?

It is said that Governor Prouty's proclamation is so broad that it forbids the hunting of ducks. What? "We'll be here until New Year's if we don't get busy," is Speaker Cheney's slogan nowadays. And he's right. He ought to be. He has been here fourteen years.

HUGE SNOW-DRIFTS.

Tie Up Traffic in Manitoba and Surrounding Country. Winnipeg, Man., Oct. 23.—One of the worst snow storms that ever occurred in the West has demoralized the services of the Canadian Pacific and the Great Northern railroads. The storm started Wednesday night. A foot of snow fell, accompanied by a gale. Snow has filled railway cuts and in many cases the snow is ten feet deep.

Canadian Pacific snow plows are hard at work but little progress can be made until the storm ceases. The expresses from Vancouver and other points are stalled while west-bound trains are held up east of the snow region.

No trains from the East reached Winnipeg yesterday it is doubtful when they will get through.

ENGINE SPARKS STARTED IT. 35 Acres of Land Burned Over Near Essex Junction Yesterday. Essex Junction, Oct. 23.—A fire started yesterday in the house woods between the village and Hough Teasdale's place, supposedly from sparks from an engine on the Central Vermont railway. About 35 acres of light or brush wood was burned over reaching through to the road to North Williston and dangerously near to the house of Mrs. Green and others on Maple and Jackson streets. The chemical engine and the hose carts were taken out at about 3:30 o'clock in the evening. A thousand feet of hose was strung from the last hydrant on Maple street and the chemical engine was used in the edge of the woods near the houses. The force of men worked until about 8:30 o'clock.

AN EPIDEMIC OF TYPHOID. Prevails in Montreal—All The City Hospitals Full. Montreal, Oct. 23.—An epidemic of typhoid fever which has been prevalent in Montreal for several weeks is assuming serious proportions. All the city hospitals are filled to capacity and are refusing additional patients. The hospitals cases alone number 200 while private physicians are overrun with calls. So far the number of deaths have been comparatively small. The city health authorities blame the bad condition of the water supply and impure milk as the cause.
