AMUSEMENT NOTES

John W. Vogel's Big City Minstrels, Next Tuesday Evening.

A delightful surprise is in store for those theatrically inclined, for John W. Vogel's big city minstrels are due at the opera house on next Tuesday evening. Chas. Gano and Sam Harris will be the chief merry makers on this occasion, and to our minds there are no comedians so well prepared to infuse spontaneous mirth as these genial artists. They have long held the premier place, and in this greatest of minstrel shows, will clearly demonstrate their right to the title "Comedy Kings."

Prof. C. H. Fouse's double symphony orchestra, C. O. Ogden's silver cornet band, and many others, comprise this large company of over a half hundred artists. The scenic equipment will be complete, the first part setting being more elaborate and costly than anything of the kind ever seen here. Tickets now on sale.

GOOD HORSES.

The Preservation of Our Best Native American Types.
By GEORGE M. ROMMEL.

Pedantic persons may express some astonishment at the idea of looking to a breed of saddle horses for carriage horses, but the records of horses with pedigrees are sufficient proof of the claim that the American saddle horse register contains some of our best carriage blood and that breeders who are using that blood judiciously are acting wisely.

There are certain lines of breeding found in the saddle horse register which can be relied upon to produce carriage horses. In Kentucky the breeding of horses for individual excellence of conformation, quality and action is carried to a greater degree than in any other state, and, contrary to popular opinion, the most of the men outside of the thoroughbred establishments who make their living from horse breeding in Kentucky—in the blue grass counties at least—are breeding not for speed, but for type. This has been going on for years, and for this reason the good, handsome horses of Kentucky have usually been appreciated, their history traced and their descendants accounted for. If the same careful attention to points of conformation and action had been shown fifty years ago by Morgan breeders in New England and had there been displayed the same enthusiasm for and loyalty to a valuable local type of horses there would now be no necessity for government aid to save the Morgan from destruction. If horsemen in the limestone sections of the corn belt had paid less attention to the speed records of the stallions in their localities and more to their individuality the carriage horse work of the department of agriculture would be out of place.

Specific work in horse breeding by the United States government was first made possible by the inclusion in the appropriation act for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1905, of an item of $25,000 for experiments in animal breeding and feeding in co-operation with state agricultural experiment stations.

The reasons for taking up the breeding of carriage horses have been fully set forth in various publications, in articles for the press and in public addresses, but a recapitulation here may not be out of order. Briefly stated, they were: That carriage horses are, as a rule, the most valuable class on the market, that as a result of the strong demand the supply was gradually diminishing and that, notwithstanding all the importations of the carriage type from abroad, the preferred horse was the American horse. Most important of all, however, was the feeling that steps should be taken to correct the practice of castrating valuable stallions and selling valuable mares for other than breeding purposes. The department also felt that, although probably nothing could be done to prevent the horseman from his attachment to the standard bred horse, the most useful characteristics of this horse should be preserved if it would continue to be of high value to the farmers of the country.

The Farmer of the Future.
The future farmer will subvertigate his land and defy drought as well as floods. He will become a scientific forester, and every farm will produce wood and lumber as well as wheat and apples. Women will work outdoors as heartily as men—in fact, they will be the horticulturalists and the truck gardeners. There will be closer relation between the producer and the consumer, ignoring a horde of middlemen who frequently waste more than is destroyed by ignorant help and insect foes combined. Under the alliance with the school the farm will be valued not only for its gross weight of products, but for its poems and its education.

She Recalled an Instance.
"Mrs. Peddicord," said that lady's husband, "did you ever say anything that you afterward regretted saying?" "Certainly," I said "Yes" once and have been sorry for it ever since."—Detroit Free Press.
