WILLIAMSTOWN

Mrs. Martha Davis Abbott, Who Was Highly Respected Resident, Dead.

Mrs. Martha Davis Abbott, widow of Deacon Orcutt Abbott, who died in Oneida, N. Y., recently, was formerly a highly respected resident of this place, where she spent most of her life.

She was 95 years. For more than 75 years she had been a member of and an efficient worker in the Congregational church of this town and had endeared herself to a host of friends by her affectionate disposition, her loveliness of character and her strong personality.

"A perfect woman, nobly planned, To warn, to comfort and command, and of her it may well be said, 'None knew her but to love her; none named her but to praise.'"

Besides her many friends, she has left a son and three daughters to mourn her loss, James of Washington, D. C., Persis, wife of Dr. James Bailey, of Ticonderoga, N. Y., Martha, wife of Dr. Edward Bailey of Oneida, N. Y., and Miss Lucy, who has given to her mother for a long time the most constant and devoted care.

The final interment will be in the family lot in Williamstown.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

"Out in Idaho" at The Barre Opera House Tomorrow Night.

Nothing so appeals to the modern playgoer as a good western drama. Such a piece as "Out in Idaho" to be put on at the opera house on Saturday, March 13. No period of American history is so full of human interests, suffering and hardships, path and pathos as the days of the '40ers.

It has been the scene of the plot of many plays, but the good ones might be numbered on the fingers of one hand. Among these chosen few is "Out in Idaho," now enjoying its third successful season. Written by one who knows the west and played by western talent it ranks as one of the best productions ever sent on the road under the management of Fred'k N. Breen.

With that fine adjustment of pathos, tragedy and comedy so essential to the perfect stage picture, the author of "Out in Idaho" has clothed the works of his pen with a naturalness of speech and situation rarely witnessed. Here at least in the early west in its true light. Not a strained line or a misfit situation mars the thrilling story. The company has a cast of recognized ability who work with the advantages derived from a new and elaborate scenic equipment and costumes.

Off Guard.

"How did it happen that your friends got the best of you?" queried the inquisitive person.

"They got busy while I was watching my enemies," explained the man who had got the short end of it.--Chicago News.

"Piles" Can Be Cured Painlessly.

CHELSEA

Funeral of Benson Sanborn Was Held Yesterday Afternoon.

The funeral of the late Benson Sanborn was held from the Methodist church Wednesday afternoon at two o'clock the Rev. W. E. Alden, a former pastor, who is now located at Craftsbury officiating.

The well filled church of mourners and sympathizing friends and the profusion of beautiful flowers spoke of the high esteem in which Mr. Sanborn was held by his fellow citizens, and the former pastor who was a personal friend of the deceased laboring under grief which almost choked him at times spoke from the emotions of his own heart, most feelingly words of comfort and sympathy to the bereaved family and friends.

Three selections by a quartet from the choir were rendered with expression and feeling. The interment was in the Highland cemetery, the bearers being Alva W. Whitney, Willard P. Townsend, Phillip L. Sargent and Ernest A. Corwin. Among the relatives present were the following from out of town: Mr. and Mrs. James Field, Winfred Sanborn and Mrs. H. B. Sanborn of Barre City, George Clark of Montpelier, Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Giles and two sons, Leon and Amos Giles, Arthur J. and Fred Hanson of Tunbridge.

State's Attorney Stanley C. Wilson left Monday afternoon on official trip to Post Mills and Thetford.

Deputy Sheriff D. D. Howe of Randolph was in town Monday and committed a tramp to the county jail for a term of sixty days.

Miss Clara Boardway, who is attending school at the Montpelier seminary came home last week ill, having had an attack of tonsillitis from the effects of which she has not recovered. Her father, Dustin A. Boardway, who has worked several years for Charles H. Baraw in the Chelsea meat market completed his services for Mr. Baraw Saturday the 6th inst.

Assistant Judges White and Morse of Topsham and Randolph respectively and Sheriff H. T. Baldwin of Wells River were in town Tuesday in conference over the repairs on the jail. H. L. Lippincott of New York a representative from the Pauley Jail Building company of Philadelphia met the commission at their conference and examined the jail thoroughly and learned what the commission desired to do and will furnish them with plans and estimates for the contemplated plans in a few days after which some plan will be adopted and preparations for the work of repairing will begin to take shape.

Everett J. Pitkin of Boston arrived in town Monday evening with the remains of his brother, George Pitkin, who died at his home in Boston March 4th of pneumonia, at the age of 44 years. The deceased was a former Chelsea boy, being the youngest son of Josiah and Mary (Corwin) Pitkin, late of this town. Mr. Pitkin had lived in Boston for the past twelve years and for the past eight years, had been in the provision business. He is survived by two half brothers, Everett J. Pitkin, a provision dealer of Boston, Mass., and Willis Pitkin of Brandon, this state. The remains were placed in the tomb in Highland cemetery to await interment in the family lot in the spring. It is the first time for several years that the capacity of the tomb has been exhausted, there being now eleven bodies in the tomb which completely fills it.

DEATH OF MRS. O. M. STONE.

She Was Last Surviving Child of Gov. Erastus Fairbanks.

St. Johnsbury, March 12.--Mrs. O. M. Stone died at about six o'clock last evening, aged 77 years. The funeral will be held Monday afternoon. Sarah Fairbanks Stone was the last of the children of Gov. Erastus and Lois Crossman Fairbanks and was born in this town June 30, 1831. She was educated at St. Johnsbury academy and was a graduate from Mt. Holyoke seminary in the class of 1851. After teaching for a while at St. Johnsbury academy, she married on May 4, 1858, Charles Marshall Stone. He was editor of the St. Johnsbury Caledonian for over 35 years and died March 12, 1890.

For nearly 60 years he had been a member of the North Congregational church and for many years she had been a teacher in the Sunday school and for 25 the registrar of the church. The daughter of one who was twice governor of Vermont, she took a keen interest in all public affairs and was a woman of rare conversational powers and unusual ability.

She leaves three children and four grandchildren, the children being Mary E. Stone and Arthur F. Stone of St. Johnsbury and Phillip F. Stone of Pasadena, Cal. For the past few years Mrs. Stone had spent the winters with her youngest son in Pasadena, where she had many friends.

What Makes us Persons.

Things are not responsible, but persons are. Every person, however insignificant he seems to be, entails responsibility in one way or another. Thousands of poor immigrants are daily landed on our shores, every one of whom then looks to insignificant enough. And so they are quite forgotten until we find that they have become voters and count just the same as ourselves, so that we pay heavily in taxes and misgovernment for our neglect of their education and the failure to give them due consideration. No person could have appeared more insignificant than the negro, Dred Scott, when he came before the Supreme Court of the United States. But when the court ruled that he should be rated only as a thing or salable commodity, and not as a person, the most stable government so far when either of the three of its beloved presidents was murdered--the same government was shaken to its very foundations. History knows that the Dred Scott decision had more immediate effect in bringing on the terrible civil war which followed it than any other one event.--As to ourselves, by Dr. William Hanna Thomson, in the March Everybody's.

Others Had Tried It.

The police-court magistrate of a town in southern Kentucky was walking down the street one November evening with his friend John Markham, a distiller.

"Judge," said Mr. Markham, "have you ever tried my Number One brand of Old Markham?"

"No, John," admitted the judge, "but I tried three men in court this morning who had tried."--Everybody's Magazine.
