ABOUT THE STATE

Word comes from Washington that Miss Mildred, youngest daughter of Congressman and Mrs. D. J. Foster, of Burlington, is to be operated upon at once for appendicitis.

No one seems to remember when there was such a scarcity of apples in Bennington at this time of the year as now. Good fruit easily sells at $4 a barrel and the demand is much greater than the supply.

During the month of February there were 30 deaths in Burlington, 16 of the number being males and 15 females. During the same period there were 39 births, 25 of the new arrivals being girls and 14 boys.

H. H. Spooner of Addison had the misfortune to lose six head of cattle by drowning Friday. They went to the creek to drink and in some way got into the water hole and were not missed till the next day. He lost one in the same way only a short time ago.

All of the Rutland automobile dealers are preparing for an unusually large season of business this year and interest is running high along the motor line. Nearly all of the automobile dealers in that city are represented at the Boston auto show this week, and it is probable that many prospective buyers from this section will attend the show within the next few days.

At the Vermont soldiers' home, Bennington, Saturday morning ninety-two inmates answered to rollcall. During the last ten days the average number present was ninety-one and the average number absent was twenty-one. A considerable number of the veterans are in the hospital. Among those who have been recently admitted to the home are H. D. Willard of Bradford, Co. D, 11th Vt. Art.; Capt. Edson M. Raymond of Brandon, Co. H, 5th Vt. Vols.; and A. Marcon of Shaghticoke, Co. A, 2nd Vt. Regt.

The insurance on the jewelry stock of B. B. Perkins & Co., of St. Albans, was destroyed by fire, has been adjusted. The matter had been delayed because the proprietors claimed a total loss on the stock while the insurance companies claimed a portion was saved. The terms of settlement were: insurance on stock, $14,250; on fixtures, $1,250; total, $15,500. The concern carried insurance amounting to $21,500.

It is evident that there is going to be a big crowd in Burlington during the tercentenary celebration in July. Already the local hotels are receiving letters from tourist agents asking to book large parties during the week of the celebration. On Wednesday the Van Ness received a letter from G. E. Marsten, a tourist agent of Boston, asking to book a party of 200 people during the week of the celebration, from Tuesday to Friday inclusive. The hotels are not booking parties, however, for they expect to have a larger crowd than they can handle without them.

Miss Mary C. Barney, aged 85 years, died early Wednesday morning at the asylum in Waterbury, where she had been the past month. Death was due to pneumonia. She had been in ill health and confined to her room for over two years. Mrs. Barney was formerly of Swanton, but for 19 years had resided with her daughter, Mrs. E. P. Smith, in Essex Junction. She was next to the eldest of a family of 12 children, all of whom are deceased with the exception of her second youngest brother, T. H. Marvin of Arlington, N. J. She is also survived in the manufacture of structural material for American buildings, big and little, high and low, is

EDISON Portland Cement

Mr. Carnegie wanted the Conference of Governors at the White House that the supply of ore for making structural steel would be exhausted before the end of the century. Then he assured them:

"Fortunately, the use of concrete, simple and reinforced, is already reducing the consumption of structural steel. Concrete promises to become superior to steel and stone in strength, durability, convenience and economy of use."

Edison Portland Cement is more easily worked, is stronger, is more economical than any other, because ground to a fineness

The marriage of Joseph E. Brockington, superintendent of the Brattleboro fire alarm, and an employee of a gas and electric company and Miss Sara Mabel Gay of West Claremont, N. H., took place at 9:30 o'clock Wednesday morning at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. E. H. Tandy, in Springfield, Vt. Only members of the family were present, and the couple was unattended. Rev. J. B. Reardon, pastor of the Universalist church, performed the ceremony, using two rings. Mrs. Brockington is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Gay of West Claremont. Mr. and Mrs. Brockington will visit in Boston, returning to Brattleboro in two weeks.

Byron Russell of Stowe, who recently celebrated his 61st wedding anniversary and on Tuesday passed his 83rd birthday, and who has a large fund of reminiscences of earlier times, related in regard to a dated question that on June 18, 1870, Henry Phillips drove a pair of horses and a Ladd wagon with a gentleman and two ladies from New York City to the door of the Summit House on Mt. Mansfield, thus being the first man to carry passengers over the new road. Mr. Russell was in charge of the construction of the road, which had been laid out to within a few rods of the house, and on that morning he set his men to making a fill over what had been deemed insurmountable obstacles. When Mr. Phillips arrived at that point the men lifted the wagon over the builders and he was able to drive the entire distance to the house.

Money for Vermont Highways.
C. W. Gates of Highgate, state highway commissioner, and the 13 county road supervisors, held an all-day session at the Van Ness House in Burlington on Wednesday last to discuss the new highway law enacted at the last legislature, and to arrange for the county highway meetings.

Returns from 209 towns show that the towns have voted more money for permanent highways than a year ago, the funds being more than called for by the different towns and villages, the sum raised so far has been about $60,000. By an act of the last legislature, an increase of $25,000 was made in the appropriation for the road fund, bringing the total up to $85,000. This with the highway tax voted by each town will bring the fund to nearly $250,000. About $14,000 will be expended under the provisions of the new law for permanent roadwork in towns where needed and where no other appropriation has been made.

The 13 county supervisors of the state are the same as last year with the exception of Chittenden county, where I. F. Hobart of Westford takes the place of Herald Stevens of Burlington.

There are other noteworthy stories in this number: Roland Thomas's "Octopodous Ferox," George "Handolph" Doherty's delightful tale "The Post-proved Romance"; and the humorous vein is filled to the brim by "The Need of Change," Julian Street's imitable description of an American's predicament while visiting England, and "What Doherty Done," by Porter Emerson Browne.

Burgess Johnson and Lydia Schuyler contribute verses, and there are "Little Stories of Real Life," by Harriet Whittney Durbin and Georgina S. Townsend.

Conscientious Bill.
"Bill had charge of the animal tent" said the old circus man, "and among his pets was a leopard, the only one we had with the show, and quite enough, too. This leopard gave Bill more trouble than all the rest of the menagerie put together. It was certainly an ugly brute. Well, one day, when we were showing in the Midlands, I had come up to London to arrange about some advance business. I was eating my dinner in the hotel when a telegram was handed to me. It was from Bill, and said: 'The leopard has escaped. Prowling about town. What shall I do?'"

"That was just like Bill. He had to have explicit directions, even in an emergency like this. He didn't want to make a mistake. 'I immediately wired back to Bill: 'Shoot him on the spot!' I didn't think any more about it until a couple of hours later, when I received another telegram from conscientious, careful Bill, asking, 'Which spot?'"—Tit-Bits.

RECENT DEATHS OF VERMONTERS

William Brown Alexander, aged 76, of Leyden, Mass., died about midnight Tuesday night at the Dr. E. R. Lynch hospital in West Brattleboro, where he had been a week. Death was caused by hemorrhage of the brain. Mr. Alexander was a prosperous farmer and a veterinary surgeon, and he had held several town offices.

Mr. Alexander married Jerusha Marsh 51 years ago. She survives, with three children, Charles B. Alexander of this town, Horace G. Alexander of South Londonderry, Vt., and Mrs. Harry Ryan of Leyden. The burial will take place at Leyden.

JUDGT O. D. SCOTT DEAD.
Former Vermonter Had Been Ill For a Year in Arkansas.
Notice has been received in this city of the death of Judge Oscar D. Scott in Texarkana, Ark., March 3, after an illness of a year. Mr. Scott was born in Townshend, Vt., 65 years ago. He had entered Middlebury college when the Civil War broke out, but left his studies and enlisted. In the battle of Coal Harbor he lost a leg, and received his discharge from the army. He returned and completed his studies, graduating in the class of '68 from Middlebury, studying law with the firm of Park & Davis in St. Albans, and later being admitted to the Vermont state bar. He went to Arkansas in 1870, and remained there until his death.

Judge Scott is survived by his wife, who was Miss Cornelia A. Hulet of this city; a daughter, Miss Grace Scott and two sons, Walter of Texarkana and A. Hulet Scott of this city.

FIRE MAKES BLOCKADE.
Roanoke Hall in Cambridge Street, Boston, Was Burned To-day.
Boston, March 11.—Roanoke Hall, an old building in Cambridge street, was burned this morning with a loss of $2,000. The fire caused a big blockade of street cars.

RESUBMISSION REFUSED.
Maine Senate Vote on Prohibitory Liquor Law Proposition.
Augusta, Me., March 12.—By a vote of 22 to 7 the resubmission to the people of the state of the prohibitory liquor law was refused by the Maine Senate yesterday.

A Lincoln Story.
Alban Papper Conant, the artist, in telling of his experience in painting a portrait of Lincoln, said:

"Yankee wit was mentioned at one of the sittings and Lincoln said: 'That is something I always admired and coveted.' Some one said: 'Why, you certainly have the credit of possessing it in large measure.' 'No,' said Lincoln, 'not the genuine. I don't remember that I ever got credit for it but once. Then he told how, hurrying once through a courtroom, he was ordered by the judge to attend a prisoner accused of assault and battery. A witness was just testifying that the complainant had been fought all over a field. 'On cross-examination,' said Lincoln, 'I asked him, 'How large was that field—twenty acres?' 'No,' he replied. 'Ten acres.' 'No.' 'Were there two acres?' I persisted. 'Yes, just about two.' 'And you saw him fight this man all over the field,' pointing to the prisoner. 'Yes, sir,' well, sir," I said, "did you ever see a fight before that turned out so little to the acre?" The witness admitted with a grin that he had not, the judge smiled, and the jury snickered. So, saying that as the crop was so poor it did not seem worth further cultivation, I submitted the case. Some of my friends said it was Yankee wit, but that was the only time I ever got credit for it. I wish I had it."

"Everybody's" March Fiction.
Eleanor Halliwell Abbott has a story in the March Everybody's that for intensity and quality of emotion will take a lot to match. It is called "woman's Only Business"—but it is for men, too. "The Title Market," Emily Post's great Italian-American novel, goes into its second instalment. Particularly at this time it seems to meet the general demand for stories about Italy from the very standpoint that Mrs. Post has taken.

There are other noteworthy stories in this number: Roland Thomas's "Octopodous Ferox," George "Handolph" Doherty's delightful tale "The Post-proved Romance"; and the humorous vein is filled to the brim by "The Need of Change," Julian Street's imitable description of an American's predicament while visiting England, and "What Doherty Done," by Porter Emerson Browne.
