HORSES BIG LEAP

SAVED CHILD'S LIFE

Little Frances Cobb, 10 Years Old, Stood Directly in the Path of the Runaway Animal, But the Horse Jumped Over Her Head.

Water Supt. Russell's horse thought that it was time for supper last evening, and although he was hitched by a weight at the top of the Prospect street hill, he decided not to wait for the driver but started toward the full-out bin at Cutler's livery stable. In fact, it was supper time; and the driver didn't know it. The equine made a decorous descent of the hill and was going all right, without a slip or a break, until, having reached the Barre railroad tracks, an engine set up such a shuffling noise that it startled the beast. Then he broke into a run.

CONVICED OF GRAND LARCENY

McClellan Found Guilty in County Court

OF ROBBING MAT MATSON

The Next Case for Trial Will Be State vs. Strong, Charged with Assault—Several Cases Not Proceeded.

After being out four hours, the jury in the case of State vs. McClellan of Barre, charged with grand larceny in stealing $26 from Mat Matson last summer, brought in a verdict of guilty in Washington county court at Montpelier last night. The case has been on trial during the greater part of the week, being prosecuted by State's Attorney Gates, assisted by William Wishart, while Attorneys M. M. Gordon and A. A. Sargent defended. The chief point advanced by the defense was that Matson was drunk on the day in question and did not know but he might have lost the pocketbook. The case went to the jury shortly before noon yesterday, and the verdict was brought in at about four o'clock in the afternoon. The case will probably be taken to supreme court.
