U. S. COULD WIPE OUT DEFICIT OF $90,000,000

By the Imposition of an Income Tax in the Way Certain Officials in the Treasury Department Figure It.

Washington, D. C., May 7.—The deficit of $90,000,000 in Uncle Sam's bank account could be easily wiped out and his checkbook balanced to the good by the imposition of an income tax, if the figuring of certain officials of the treasury is not all wrong.

These officials will not permit the use of their names, for the reason that Senator Aldrich, chairman of the finance committee, and other members of influence in the upper branch of Congress have given unmistakable indications of being out of sympathy with the movement looking toward the squeezing of financial juice out of "swollen fortunes."

The method of collecting an income tax would be simple. The internal revenue bureau would do the work. There might have to be a new chief and a new force of a half dozen clerks in Washington, but not much more.

It's a Good Sound Common Sense Policy

To use medicines only of KNOWN COMPOSITION, and which contain neither alcohol nor habit-forming drugs. It is foolish—often dangerous to do otherwise. The most intelligent people, and many of the most successful, conscientious physicians, follow this judicious course of action. The leading medical authorities, of all schools of medicine, endorse the ingredients composing Dr. Pierce's medicines. These are plainly printed on wrappers and attested under oath. There's no secrecy; an open publicity, square-deal policy is followed by the makers.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription

THE ONE REMEDY for woman's ailments, sold by druggists, devised and gotten up by a regularly graduated physician of vast experience in treating woman's peculiar diseases and carefully adapted to work in harmony with her delicate organization, by an experienced and skilled specialist in her maladies.

THE ONE REMEDY for woman's ailments, sold by druggists, which contains neither alcohol (which to most women is the rankest poison) or other injurious or habit-forming drugs.

THE ONE REMEDY for women, the composition of which is so perfect and good that its makers are not afraid to print its every ingredient, in plain English on its outside bottle-wrapper, and attest the correctness of the same under oath.

We have a profound desire to avoid all offense to the most delicate sensitiveness of modest women, for whom we entertain the most sincere respect and admiration. We shall not, therefore, particularize here concerning the symptoms and peculiar ailments incident to the sex for which Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has for more than 40 years proven such a boon. We cannot, however, do a better service to the afflicted of the gentler sex than to refer them to Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, a great family doctor book of 1000 pages, bound in cloth and given away gratis, or sent, post-paid, on receipt of 31 one-cent stamps—to cover cost of mailing only. All the delicate ailments and matters about which every woman, whether young or old, single or married, should know, but which their sense of delicacy makes them hesitate to ask even the family physician about, are made plain in this great book. Write for it.

CUMMINS FEARS ROPE

And Lamp Post for Giant Capitalists

WARNS AGAINST GREED

Tells the Party Leaders They Cannot Fool the People in Pending Measure—The Bill Must Be Satisfactory.

Washington, May 7.—Senator Cummins of Iowa created a sensation on the floor yesterday afternoon in the course of a notable speech attacking the tariff bill as reported by Senator Aldrich from the finance committee. Departing in the heat of debate from his prepared manuscript, he suggested a lamp post and a rope as a possible method of dealing with giant capitalists if their grip on business became extreme.

"If that time does come," he said, "there will still remain the lamp post and the common people."

Senator Cummins predicted that a failure to pass a tariff bill providing lower duties on imports would provoke a political contest for another revision of the tariff.

In commending the course of his colleague, Mr. Dooliver, in attacking the pending bill, Mr. Cummins turned to Senator Aldrich and said that the man who challenged the Republicanism of senators because they seek to revise the schedule of duties forty years old, was taking a most remarkable course.

"Have we arrived at that lavish state of public opinion," he said, "in which it becomes a question of political fealty to insist upon the corrections of schedules made forty years ago, when we consider them in relation to conditions existing to-day?"

The bill now before us, which, it may be assumed, presents the views of the finance committee respecting the revision of the tariff, he said, "will not be accepted by those who have favored a revision of the tariff as either a fulfillment of the party pledge or as a settlement of the controversy. If this bill, or anything substantially like it, becomes a law, I predict that a campaign for lower duties will begin the moment the extraordinary session of Congress adjourns, and will continue with increasing zeal until the judgment entered in the court of the public conscience is also entered in the journals of Congress."

"It gives me no pleasure to utter this prophecy, for I have earnestly hoped that the revision now in progress would end the dispute for years to come, and that the business of the country would enjoy the peace and tranquillity which is impossible during the existence of a movement to materially change duties upon imports."

"Who insisted upon tariff revision? It was not the manufacturer, the lumberman, the coal man, the iron and steel man, the glass man, the cotton or the woolen man, or the oil man. The demand came from those who believed the duties upon many articles and commodities were too high; who believed that excessive duties, coupled with other conditions, were enabling a favored few to reap inordinate profits; and they demanded a substantial reduction."

There was no question, he said, that the Republican party had promised a revision under a demand for lower duties.

Mr. Cummins couched the idea that adherence to the whole schedule was necessary to the whole schedule was necessary

OPERATION HER ONLY CHANCE

Was Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Adrian, Ga.—"I suffered untold misery from a female weakness and disease, and I could not stand more than a minute at a time. My doctor said an operation was the only chance I had, and I dreaded it almost as much as death. One day I was reading how other women had been cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and decided to try it. Before I had taken one bottle I was better, and now I am completely cured."—LENA V. HENRY, Route No. 3, Adrian, Ga.

Why will women take chances with an operation or drag out sickly, half-hearted existence, missing three-fourths of the joy of living, when they can find health in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound? For thirty years it has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has cured thousands of women who have been troubled with such ailments as displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, indigestion, and nervous prostration.

If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., for advice. Your letter will be absolutely confidential, and the advice free.

Not a single member of that committee, he said, had been among those Republicans who had demanded a revision of the Dingley bill.

"Unlike the chairman of the committee," he said, "I was born a Republican."

Senator Beveridge joined Mr. Cummins in asking from the committee an explanation of the fact that the duty on oil cloths had been increased by making it apply to narrow widths.

Mr. Flint of the committee replied that the answer would be made in due time and added that if members of the finance committee had the ability of the senator from Indiana they could give the answer offhand.

"We must have a better answer than that," retorted Mr. Beveridge. "I want to call the attention of the senator from Indiana to the fact that the duty on chloretone has been reduced 80 per cent," interposed Senator Nelson amid general laughter.

"It is evident that the reduction has had no effect upon the senator from Indiana," said Mr. Flint. "The oil cloth duty had been put up to protect the American producer, but was interrupted by Mr. Cummins, who said he did not care to give way for a speech."

Mr. Burrows, rising in his place and speaking in low tones, deliberately said he did not think the senator from Iowa "had been quite courteous" to the senator from Utah.

Disavowing any intention to be discourteous, Mr. Cummins returned to the controversy, saying that he was not satisfied with Mr. Smoot's explanation.

ALIENIST CROSS-EXAMINED. The Hains Prosecutor Hears About Insanity.

Fishing, N. Y., May 7.—The examination of expert witnesses for the defense was expected to be concluded yesterday in the trial of Captain Peter C. Hains, Jr., for the killing of William E. Annis, District Attorney DeWitt was prepared to begin the examination of witnesses in rebuttal if necessary late yesterday.

At the opening of court yesterday the district attorney resumed his cross-examination of Dr. L. S. Manson, the first alienist, who testified Wednesday for the defense that Captain Hains was suffering from manic depressive insanity at the time of the killing of Annis.

Dr. Arthur C. Brush was called after Dr. Manson left the stand and qualified as an expert on nervous and mental diseases. The doctor first saw Captain Hains in the Queens county jail last October and on Nov. 9 made an examination of the defendant there.

STOLPIN FACES THE CZAR

Demands That He Curb the Reactionaries

MUST DISAVOW THEM

Or Accept Cabinet's Resignation—Courtiers Long Have Fought the Premier. Belief That Stolypin Will Win His Point.

St. Petersburg, May 7.—Premier Stolypin returned yesterday afternoon to St. Petersburg from Tsarskoe-Selo, whether he went to demand of the emperor that his majesty disassociate himself from the hostile campaign of the reactionaries against the entire cabinet. It was declared later in Government circles that the emperor had reserved his decision on the naval bill, the question on which the premier has made his stand, until May 9. It is considered almost certain that his majesty's decision will take a form under which the Stolypin cabinet will remain in office.

The campaign against Stolypin which the reactionaries and courtiers close to the Emperor Nicholas have been waging for the past two years, which especially vigor during the absence of the premier from St. Petersburg has thus been brought to a head by M. Stolypin himself who has demanded that his majesty either disassociate himself from these schemes or accept the resignation of the entire cabinet. This decision centres on the bill creating a general staff for the navy, sanction of which M. Stolypin has demanded as an ultimatum. The bill itself is considered of minor importance, and the constitutional question raised over its submission to Parliament is based upon an obscure phrase in the fundamental laws of the empire. The real question at issue is whether the opponents of Stolypin are to be permitted to sap the authority of the cabinet by continually raising similar points. M. Stolypin believes that which he is supported by the entire cabinet.

Under the peculiar view of ministerial responsibility prevailing in Russia, an adverse decision on the part of the emperor by no means entails the retirement of the cabinet. His majesty may reject their decision yet insist on their retaining office. Numerous precedents for this exist. M. Stolypin himself on several occasions has said he was obliged to bow to the wishes and accept the policy of his majesty.

Premier Stolypin was received in audience yesterday by the emperor at Tsarskoe-Selo. This is the first long conference the premier has had with the emperor since his illness, which began March 10. On the vexing questions which have been raised in the interim especially a bill to establish a naval staff, the emperor has taken no action pending M. Stolypin's return.

The premier remained as the emperor's guest last night and the audience was continued today, during such hours as his majesty could spare from the celebration of the empress' namesday. The empress, who is now convalescent, has made special preparations to keep the day.

The Douma, in a secret sitting that lasted until two o'clock this morning adopted the first and second readings of the military and naval contingent bill, with the amendments imposing a special tax on those who do not serve in the army, and extending this tax to Finland. Animadversions from the extreme right on the Jews culminated in a declaration from one deputy that no Jew should be admitted to the army. Another deputy defended the Jews on the ground of their treatment in Russia and their lack of civil rights. The debate at times was very stormy.

The Council of the Empire has entrusted to a special commission a bill

STOMACH ON FIRE

BURNING FEELING A COMMON SYMPTOM OF INDIGESTION.

How This New Hampshire Man Cured Himself of a Severe Attack of Dyspepsia.

The symptoms of stomach trouble vary. Some victims have a ravenous appetite, some loathe the sight of food. Often there is a burning sensation in the stomach and a feeling as of weight on the chest. Sometimes the gas presses on the heart and leads the sufferer to think he has heart disease. Sick headache is a frequent and distressing symptom.

Mr. Lewis Parker, whose address is Box 131, Strafford Hollow, N. H., had symptoms that are common to many cases and his account of the way in which he cured himself is full of interest. He says:

"I was working in the woods and being in a hurry at meal times I bolted my food and, as a result, suffered for six months with dyspepsia. A doctor at Groveton treated me and his medicine helped me for a little while but didn't cure me. I had a burning in the pit of my stomach and sometimes it felt as if there was a bunch there. I would want to eat but after I had eaten a little I would get sick and faint. Lots of times I couldn't keep the food on my stomach. I got so I couldn't eat any solid food and didn't try, it pained me so much. I had frequent headaches or lost probably twenty pounds in weight. I was very weak and nervous and felt discouraged."

"Then I read about Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in our newspaper and my mother advised me to try them. After I had used part of a box I felt eased and I kept on until I was all right again. I can eat anything and everything I want now, have no stomach trouble and my nerves are as steady as a clock."

"My mother also used the pills for indigestion. Her symptoms were just like mine and she was cured in a very short time by using Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

Sufferers from dyspepsia in any form who have found their condition worsened or actually growing worse while using ordinary remedies, would do well to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They are sold by all druggists or direct by mail, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50c per box; six boxes, $3.50. A diet book will be sent free, on application to Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

reducing the number of public holidays in Russia. A memorandum accompanying the measure which is supported by thirty-five of the council, points out that France had only six holidays, including Sundays, England fifty-eight, Germany sixty, and Russia ninety-one. The excess of holidays, it is stated, costs Russia $1,000,000 yearly. Many of the holidays in Russia come during the season of work in the fields and it is said that this is one reason why agriculture is so backward in this country. The holidays are to be eliminated leaving sixty-three, which would include Sundays.

BULLET FROM GRIL'S HEAD TO HER FOOT IN 14 YEARS. Is Taken Out After Long Wanderings, Which Didn't Cause Her Pain.

Youngstown, Ohio, May 7.—A bullet which lodged in the head of Miss Elizabeth Farragher fourteen years ago has been found in one of the woman's feet.

The bullet has never caused her the least pain in its travels. She discovered the projectile near the surface of the skin by accident. An operation will be performed on the foot and the bullet removed. The missile lodged in Miss Farragher's head when a man accidentally discharged a revolver at a Fourth of July celebration in 1895.

Physicians were unable to locate the bullet at the time of the accident.
