

The Mission

Of those corpuscles in your blood that have been called "Little Soldiers," it is to fight for you against the disease germs that constantly endanger your health.

This medicine is a combination of more than 20 different remedial agents in proportion and by a process known only to ourselves and it has for thirty years been constantly proving its worth.

TREASURE HUNT IN VAIN.

Captain Brown Back with a Hard Luck Story.

San Francisco, May 12.—With no treasure trove, but with a hard luck story of a typhoon, a reef and a shipwreck, Captain James Brown of Providence, R. I. who claims that he is the only man in the world who knows where to find the Copos Island cache of $60,000,000, has returned from the antipodes.

WANTS JURY DISMISSED.

HOW TO GAIN HEALTHY FLESH.

D. F. Davis Advises Use of Samose.

While thinness may not be a disease, yet it is in reality a condition that needs attention. Under the controlling power of Samose healthy, natural flesh will soon be attained.

This remarkable flesh-forming food strengthens the system generally and builds up the fleshy tissues so that good, natural plumpness results.

An ounce of flesh is better than a pound of theory. D. F. Davis believes that the best possible demonstration of the flesh-forming powers of Samose is to have it tried by his customers, and to induce them to use it he offers to pay for the Samose in case it does not give satisfaction.

HARD HITTING WON GAME

Boston Red Sox Landed on Cleveland Twirlers

RAP OUT 5 TO 1 VICTORY

Cleotie and Arellanes, Pitching for Visitors, Kept Six Hits Well Scattered—Boston Deves Beaten in Slugging Match.

Cleveland, May 12.—Hard hitting gave yesterday's game to the Boston Red Sox, the visitors whacking out eleven hits off Wright and Liebhardt and winning by the score of 5 to 1, while Cleotie and Arellanes allowed but six hits.

The visitors started off sure winners when McConnell singled. Lord fled out but Speaker tripled, bringing McConnell in. Hooper's single over the infield scored Speaker. Wagner's double, Spencer's single, a stolen base, a pass and Lord's single gave the Red Sox two more in the seventh, while for a good measure they got another in the eighth on Hooper's triple and Niles' safe drive.

Cleveland was shut out until the last inning when Easler, batting for Liebhardt, singled. Raftery did the same but Bradley forced Raftery. Stovall's sacrifice fly tallied Easler.

CATARRH MICROBES

A Dead Microbe is The Best Microbe—Hyomei Kills Them All.

Hyomei (pronounced High-o-me) is a killer of catarrh germs, because when you breathe it in, its antiseptic and germicide properties reach every nook and crevice of the mucous membrane, from the mouth and nose deep into the lungs.

Hyomei brings the Australian forests of pine and eucalyptus to your home. It is made of the active principles extracted from these trees.

No one who lives in or near these forests suffers from catarrh. No one who breathes in Hyomei the real forest air of Australia, will have catarrh for long after the treatment starts.

ABRUZZI, HEART-SICK, ATTEMPTS SUICIDE

Life Saved, Italian Court Hears Only Through the Vigilance of Members of Suite.

Rome, May 12.—Court circles here are greatly agitated over highly sensational reports which have reached the Government about the Duke of the Abruzzi. It is now related circumstantially and on excellent authority that in one of the fits of intense depression to which the Duke has become subject of late he attempted to kill himself with a revolver on the way out to India, but that his suicidal intention was frustrated by the vigilance of a member of his suite, whose suspicions had been aroused by his despondent demeanor and who had kept a vigilant watch on him.

Letters received from members of the expedition, particularly those from the Italian and Swiss guides, represent that the Duke is utterly reckless. The writers express fear that the whole expedition may perish if the Duke persists in carrying out his present plans, which he formed in spite of the best native advice.

These stories are arousing considerable sympathy for the Duke, even in quarters where his marriage project was bitterly opposed. They have also excited a feeling against the Queen Mother and the Duke and Duchess of Aosta, who, it is known now, were the real obstacles to the success of the Duke's love affair with Senator Elkin's daughter Katharine.

$58,000 FOR LEGS.

The Verdict Awarded a Nurse in New York Court.

New York, May 12.—Fifty-eight thousand dollars for the loss of both legs was the verdict awarded in the supreme court yesterday to Miss Addie Hunt, a trained nurse, against the Long Island Railroad company.

Some time ago she obtained a verdict of $25,000, but the court set it aside as inadequate and ordered a new trial. The railroad company regards the second award as excessive and will appeal.

Miss Hunt was injured while boarding a train at Great Neck, L. I. The train started suddenly and she was thrown under the wheels.

HAINS IS FOUND GUILTY

Jury Reverts First Degree Manslaughter

WAS OUT FOUR HOURS

The Verdict a Surprise to the Prisoner's Counsel and Friends and the Prosecution Alike—Penalty May Be 20 Years.

Flushing, L. I., May 12.—A verdict of manslaughter in the first degree was rendered by the jury in the case of Peter C. Hains for the murder of William E. Annis yesterday afternoon.

The verdict was a totally unexpected surprise to the prisoner's counsel and friends and the prosecution alike. The penalty is from one to twenty years in the penitentiary.

The verdict was reported to the court at 4:10 o'clock in the afternoon after just four hours and five minutes of deliberation. Captain Hains heard his fate reported to the court without a sign of flinching.

The charge of Justice Garretson was clear, forceful and eminently fair, with the weight probably favoring the state. Particularly on the grounds of insanity he took pains to leave no doubt in the mind of a juror.

He instructed them that if they believed Captain Hains was insane they must bring in a verdict of not guilty on the grounds of insanity. Such a verdict would send Hains to Matteawan, where Harry K. Thaw is incarcerated.

A remarkable phase of his charge was his reference to Mrs. Claudia Libbey Hains, wife of Captain Hains, who is charged with being the motive for the crime.

"In all justice this woman should have had her day in court," he said.

Special Prosecutor Gregg concluded his summing up in the first hour of yesterday's session. He devoted that hour chiefly to a refutation of the plea of insanity. Immediately after he ended the doors were locked and Justice Garretson began his charge. The justice stood as he delivered his instructions.

"This defendant," said the judge, "makes a special plea that he was deprived of his reason; that he did not know the nature and quality of his act when he shot and killed William E. Annis. The law presumes him innocent of the crime charged until the prosecution proves his guilt. During the trial of the case there have been many controversies between counsel and the court has been called upon to give rulings.

"Gentlemen, you are not to consider the rulings of the court as giving any suggestion as to the court's belief in the matter of the guilt or innocence of the accused.

"In this case the burden of proof is upon the prosecution. It must show that William E. Annis was shot and killed by this defendant. The prosecution must show that this defendant killed him in the manner contended and the prosecution must establish the homicide.

"There is nothing in this case to permit you, according to the law, to believe that the killing was excusable or justifiable. It is charged in the indictment that the defendant killed William E. Annis with premeditation and deliberation, which is the charge of murder in the first degree. The law says that deliberate design to kill must be shown. The time for this design may be very varied. We know how quickly the human mind acts.

"If there was hesitation or doubt to overcome, however short a time it took, there is design shown and the crime has been committed.

"That rests with you to decide from the evidence whether there was premeditation and design to kill. You must judge when the evidence of his acts before the killing, at the time of the killing and after the killing."

WOMEN BOMBARD PARLIAMENT.

Suffragist Missiles, However, Are Only Handbills.

London, May 12.—Shut out of the House of Commons by the police speciality selected to circumvent their ingenuity, the suffragists yesterday found a new method of getting literature into the hands of the nation's legislators. Chartering a line steam launch, which they aggressively labeled "Dreadnought," and putting a band on board, a party of women steamed up the river yesterday afternoon until they reached a point opposite the houses of Parliament.

When suddenly there was fired from the launch a broadside of rockets. These burst above the terraces, and a regular snowstorm of handbills fluttered down over the watching members.

IN BOSTON MARKETS.

Butter Prices Are Wavering and Falling in Outside Markets.

Boston, May 12.—Butter prices are wavering and falling in outside markets, and while there was no change locally yesterday, it is believed likely that there will be to-day. Yesterday's receipts were light but buyers held off for the lower prices they believe are due and the market did not clean up as well as usual. The fact that there was a surplus and that Tuesday is a day of big receipts would indicate a decline. There is little change in the cheese market, and movements are in light supply and the old ground of new goods to market has not yet gotten fairly under way. Firm prices prevail on old cheese, but quotations on the new stock vary with the quality of the different lots. The egg market is hardly as firm as it has been although there has been no great change in prices. The receipts are only moderately large, but the supply of all kinds is ample for wants. Speculators are not buying very freely as they believe prices will be lower later.

Quotations follow: Butter—Fancy northern creamery, tubs 29@29 1/2c, boxes and prints 30@30 1/2c, western ash tubs 28@28c, dairy 28@28c. Cheese—York state twins, fancy 18 1/2@18c, fair to good 14@14 1/2c; Vermont twins, fancy 14@14 1/2c, fair to good 12@13c. Eggs—Fancy henery 25@26c; eastern extras 24@25c; fresh western 23@24c.

MERITS OF THE COWPEA.

May Be Reaped Upon When Clover Fails to Catch.

Among those forage plants the merits of which have been loudly proclaimed of late, the cowpea I think ranks among the best. Says a writer in the Indiana Farmer. It is not new, however, for it has been raised in the South for years. Yet it seems that there are still many who know nothing of its value, or perhaps nothing of the part at all. I was talking with a man only a short time ago who has always followed the plan of raising corn, wheat and oats, until his farm is badly run down. I was speaking about the value a few crops of cowpeas would be to his worn land and he asked me the question, "What is the cowpea?" He had never heard of the plant, and wanted to know something more about it. In order to give this man some knowledge from experience so that he might give it good consideration, I told him some of my experience.

I have been raising cowpeas for several years, but to let you know something of their value for thin land, and possibilities, I will relate the results of one acre I raised last summer. I selected one acre of the thinnest land I had, and with a wheat drill I drilled one bushel of cowpeas of the Whippoorwill variety; this was done the latter part of May. The ground was thoroughly pulverized and packed to retain moisture. In about four days the peas were up and grew rapidly. They withstood the dry weather remarkably well, and by August 10 some seed had commenced to ripen. The growth of vines which was not heavy yet, would have made perhaps one ton an acre. After the late rains began the latter part of August and the first of September there was a very luxuriant growth. I found the branches thrown out by one vine to be 12 feet long, and in some places over the patch the vines were three feet deep. I allowed them to stand till the first of October, so they would be as rank as possible, and then turned them under with a large plow, running as deeply as possible. This practice I have found to be very satisfactory, in building up worn soil. In order to get the maximum amount of seed, however, I always plant them in rows far enough apart to be cultivated lightly about twice.

The cowpea with its rank, sappy, vine will be found difficult to cure and handle for hay; however, when well saved for it makes an excellent hay, which is relished by all kinds of stock. It may be used as a vining crop, or for hogs, sheep and calf pasture, to great advantage. As a soil renovator the cowpea is equal if not ahead of clover. I have found the tubercles on the roots to contain the size of peas, and in some cases as large as hazel nuts. The peas should not be planted till the ground has become thoroughly warm, this of course will be governed somewhat by locality. As clover often fails to catch, the peas may be relied upon as a perfect substitute; and as a highly nitrogenous feed it will enable the farmer to economize on his carbonaceous feedstuffs.

FAMOUS LOT OF LACES.

Metropolitan Museum Gets the Blackburne Collection.

New York, May 12.—With the acquisition of the famous Blackburne collection, showing the progress in lace making for four hundred years, the Metropolitan museum of art in this city becomes possessor of the largest and finest collection of laces in the world. The addition of the six hundred pieces in the Blackburne gallery brings the number of pieces in the museum to about three thousand, most of which are more than a century old. The Blackburne collection was begun in 1850, and was valued by the former owner at $50,000. It was purchased for the museum through a fund contributed for the purpose by prominent New Yorkers.
