

LAST HOPE IS CUT OFF

Cardenio F. King Must Serve Full Sentence

EXCEPTIONS OVERRULED

Former Boston Broker and Financier Who Was Convicted of Fraudulent Misappropriation of Funds of His Clients.

Boston, May 24.—The supreme judicial bench of Massachusetts today overruled the exceptions to the conviction of Cardenio F. King, the former broker and financier, who is now serving a sentence of not less than ten years and not more than fourteen years in the Charlestown prison for fraudulent misappropriation of the funds of his clients.

ROPE WAS AROUND WAIST.

Decomposed Body Found by Fishermen in Hinman's Pond, Hooksett.

Hooksett, N. H., May 24.—The body of a man found floating in the muddy waters of Hinman's pond yesterday afternoon about 3 o'clock by Joseph Tailfefer and Joseph Campbell of Allentown, who were on a fishing expedition, and from appearances it had been in the water many weeks.

As soon as the men were convinced that it was the body of a man, for at first it resembled a bundle of rags, they hurried to Hooksett and notified Selectman John W. Howell who in turn notified Medical Referee T. M. Tugus and in company with Arthur Racine and Undertaker Morse of Suncook went to the pond.

The body was in a badly decomposed state. From appearances the man was in the vicinity of 30 years of age, weighing about 200 pounds. He was dressed in a black suit of good material and wore a new pair of shoes.

From what could be ascertained, the man when in life wore a beard, but the hair of the head and face had fallen away and a part of the forehead and neck was missing.

In placing it into the box the limbs had to be bent and in doing this the clothing, rotted by the water and exposure, parted from the body somewhat. It is figured that he was a man about 6 feet in height.

Nobody has been reported missing at Suncook, Hooksett, Allentown or the districts, but it is hoped that some clue will be found in the clothing that will throw light on the case.

Hinman's pond is a deserted swamp pool, which is not visited very often by persons in this section. It is about three miles west from Hooksett and some three-quarters of a mile from the old Portsmouth and Concord railroad.

The loneliness of the place even in the day time, has prevented lovers of the woods from familiarizing themselves with the pond, and the old settlers about Hooksett and Suncook tell many weird tales about the place. Hold ups and fights have taken place about the pond, they say.

There is every evidence of foul play, and the authorities will make a thorough investigation with the belief that the mystery will be cleared up.

LID OFF AT CONEY.

And Big Crowd Was Disappointed Not to See a Clash.

New York, May 24.—Two hundred thousand persons, according to estimates, went down to Coney Island yesterday afternoon and last night to watch the police clash on the lid as threatened by Mayor McElleran's recent declaration that the Sunday closing law would be enforced. Those who expected a clash between the law and showmen were disappointed, for no friction whatever occurred. All amusement resorts ran as usual and only six arrests were made during the day. Two of these were peddlers and two were for violation of the excise laws. The general gaiety of the island was not disturbed, which leads to the belief that gambling and questionable places alone are to be molested.

Coney Islanders are happy and predict a passing of the much talked of blue cloud. Many amusement resort proprietors have shows labelled with ludicrous notices announcing their educational advantages. Luna Park was placarded as the "Institute of Sciences," while other places were emblazoned with banners and signs setting forth their altruistic, moral and intellectual features.

The medical examiner has gone to examine the body. Appearances indicated that the man had been dead for several weeks. He was evidently a laborer.

EMMA COULDN'T SPEAK.

Police of New York Refused to Let Her Give an Address.

New York, May 24.—Although proposing to discuss nothing more revolutionary than "The Modern Drama as a Dissemination of Radical Thought," Emma Goldman was prevented by the police yesterday from addressing a crowd of several hundred persons who assembled in a hall in Harlem to hear her. She protested vigorously against what she termed a denial of the right of free speech, but eventually left the hall, accompanied by Alexander Berkman, her associate in anarchistic activities.

The police had difficulty in dispersing those who had paid for admission to the hall and in one instance at least had to resort to blows. In the melee which ensued one of the policemen was struck in the face after an altercation with a young woman whose escort resented the bluecoat's actions. Two arrests were made.

Of the other runaways, two swam across the river and were captured at Hoboken. The third was killed in mid-stream after being injured and the fourth was caught after swimming a quarter of a mile along the water front.

Recently Commissioner Locke was a guest at the house, and followed a drummer to the wine room, where he took notes that led to Saturday night's action. The seizure consisted of sealed bottles of goods, which were brought to this town, where a trial will be held this afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Because of Man's Failure to Pay Alimony to Divorced Wife.

St. Albans, May 24.—There was a hearing Saturday morning before Superior Judge Alfred A. Hall on the petition for contempt by Mrs. Mabel A. Wilson vs. Oscar E. Wilson. Mrs. Wilson complained the alimony had not been paid nor certain household effects turned over, as ordered. The court found Wilson in contempt and ordered the payment of the alimony and delivery of the goods, and also a Wilson on the costs of the hearing. ILL HEALTH CAUSED IT

Mrs. Austin Templeton Took Carbolic Acid

HAD BEEN DISCOURAGED

One of East Montpelier's Most Prominent and Highly Respected Women Committed Suicide on Saturday.

Discouraged and despondent over her continued ill health, Mrs. Austin Templeton, one of the best known women of East Montpelier, drank carbolic acid and died shortly afterwards on Saturday afternoon. For two years Mrs. Templeton had been in feeble health and of late she had grown rapidly worse until she had despaired of recovery. That she was discouraged over her physical condition was known to her friends, but they, nevertheless, were shocked to learn of her self-destruction.

Mrs. Templeton's husband was in the house at the time, but was in the next room. The woman went to the kitchen and returning with the bottle of carbolic acid drank a quantity of it, just how much is not known. As soon as she was apprised of what she had done, Mr. Templeton summoned medical assistance, Dr. Percy Templeton of Montpelier, a cousin, being called. But the woman was beyond aid, dying within a short time after she had taken the fatal poison. Her death was not attended with the suffering which usually accompanies the taking of carbolic acid.

The funeral will be held from her late home Tuesday afternoon at two o'clock, and from the "Brick church" at 2:15, the Rev. Mr. Wilson officiating.

Mrs. Templeton was born in East Montpelier 78 years ago and had spent her entire life in that town. She was one of the most highly respected women in the place and had a great many friends. She and her husband were leaders in the life of the community. Besides the bereaved husband, she leaves two brothers, Austin Foster of East Montpelier and Charles Foster of Montpelier; also two sisters, Mrs. Julia Glendard of Randolph and Mrs. Emma Cleveland of Somerville, Mass.

EDSON DROPPED DEAD WHILE AT WORK TO-DAY

George E. Edson of St. Albans, Who Had Attained Considerable of a Reputation as a Geologist Both in and out of Vermont.

St. Albans, May 24.—George E. Edson, aged 54 years, of considerable note as a geologist and ornithologist, dropped dead while at his work in the Messenger building this morning at eight o'clock. He had just had a long attack of the gripe and although back at his work was not feeling entirely well, having complained of a pain in the head. It is probable that a cerebral hemorrhage caused his death.

Mr. Edson was born in this city and gained his early education here. In 1871 he entered Norwich university, but did not complete his course. He then studied law and was admitted to the bar, but did not practice, devoting his time rather to geological studies. He made a careful study of geological matters about St. Albans, assisting State Geologist George H. Perkins, and he had contributed considerably to the geological history of Vermont. He was chiefly devoted to a study of the Cambrian period, and it was he who discovered the middle-Cambrian period fossil.

He exchanged many of these fossil "finds" with the Smithsonian Institute at Washington and was honored by that institution. Norwich university, in recognition of his work, conferred the degree of A. M. on Mr. Edson in 1904.

Mr. Edson leaves his wife and three children.

Bombard was severely cut and bruised and had been in the Mercy hospital until Saturday, when he was released. He had confessed to a burglary in Bellevue Falls and to stealing $15. His father came from Rutland to see the young man and the police had decided not to prosecute, as he appeared in a repentant frame of mind.

BE A BROTHER TO ALL

Was the Plea of Rev. J. D. MacKenzie to Fraternal Organizations.

BIKE RIDING ON SIDE WALK

Causes Serious Injury to a Young Boy

ON SOUTH MAIN STREET

McKenzie Boy Victim and Has Broken Leg and Other Injuries—Young Man Named Magoon Alleged to Be Rider.

Before beginning his sermon, the pastor said that he wanted to take this occasion to express his thanks to the parents for their co-operation in maintaining the high success of the Sunday school, which he said was one of the most important factors of the church. Two weeks ago he said the attendance at Sunday school was within one of the record attendance in the history of the church, and he ended with the continued assistance from the parents of the children to soon increase even that number. He also spoke in congratulation to the officers of the two orders for the large attendance of their members at the service.

He took for his text Genesis 9:4, "And the Lord said unto Cain, Where is thy brother? And he said, I know not. Am I my brother's keeper?" He said in part, "Am I my brother's keeper? was the great question asked by Cain who knew not any of the obligations of brotherhood. It was shown that Cain was his brother's keeper and so are we all our brother's keeper. The Lord is the Keeper of all of us, and He will guard and preserve us all from harm. Every man who is a member of a fraternal organization to perform his full duty must be greater than the order to which he belongs. There is a sense of duty wider than any organization and that is the brotherhood of all humanity. God has made us one great brotherhood and no matter how we may divide ourselves and though it is necessary that we should concentrate our forces in organizations, she or he is a sister or brother unto whomsoever the opportunity comes to befriend.

"No matter how great is our work in material things, there is a greater and more important work in the keeping of our brothers. There is no power like the usefulness life. The real service is the desire to do good unto others. Anything that is selfish or carnal should be foreign to all fraternal organizations. We are being called upon to keep our fellowman from being lost unto himself, to his country and to his God, and we must do this by the power of usefulness.

"It is true that our efforts will not always be appreciated, but we must not be cast down. The great thing for us is to be faithful wherever God has placed us. We are our brother's keeper in the maintenance of Christian institutions. These men and women have lived under the shadow of the churches, yet deny them and live as if they were not dependent on them for their welfare. I challenge any of you to name me a place that is a safe community in which to live except where the Bible and Christian institutions have been sent. You of the Ladies of Clan Gordon and clausmen be true to the principles of your orders. The only way we can serve God is by serving our fellowmen and by keeping ourselves unspotted in the world."

FELL FROM SWING.

Four-year-old Boy Sustained a Fracture of the Right Thigh.

A fall from a swing late yesterday afternoon resulted in Allie Beattie, the four-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. David Beattie of 59 Brook street, sustaining a fracture of his right thigh. The boy was swinging on the piazza when in some way he slipped over the swing and fell to the ground, a distance of about five feet. It was seen that he was badly hurt and Dr. W. D. Reid was called. Examination showed the fracture and this was reduced. He is resting comfortably to-day.

HAD REASON TO BE CROSS

Said William Morren, Who Was in Court for Abusing His Wife.

William Morren pleaded guilty in the city court this morning to the charge of breach of the peace for making a disturbance at his home on Hill street and abusing his wife. Mrs. Morren was to the witness stand and she told the court that her husband had been drinking Saturday and was always quarrelsome when intoxicated. She said he had been abusing her all day long and had thrown dishes at her. She said she had stood it just as long as she could and wanted the court to do something to make him behave himself. She stated she was earning about $3 a week taking in washings to help provide for their four small children.

Mr. Morren said that he had paced the floor all day Friday with a tooth ache and that he got some whiskey with a prescription at a drug store and with the pain and the whiskey he said he probably was a little cross. As the family needed all the assistance it could get, the court decided to suspend the sentence in the case until June 21, on the respondent's promise that he would do better. He was arrested at six o'clock Saturday evening by Officer Carle, who was called to the house by telephone.
