ALL RESIDENTS ARE ELIGIBLE

For 50 Cent Hunter's License in Vermont

SAYS ATTORNEY GENERAL

Opinion Rendered To-day Decides That "Alien" in Second Section Means Non-resident—80 Licenses in Barre.

Attorney General J. G. Sargent of Vermont announced to-day, through State's Attorney Gates of Washington county, his interpretation of the hunter's license law which was passed by the last legislature and over which here has been a great deal of discussion as to the meaning of the word "alien" in the second section. He concludes and so rules, that the word "alien" means non-resident of Vermont and that, therefore, any bona fide resident of Vermont, though he is not naturalized, can take out a hunter's license. This, by the way, is the interpretation which City Clerk Mackay of Barre put to it and who, when not entirely assured of its correctness, referred the matter to State's Attorney Gates.

Attorney General Sargent construes that the word "alien" in the act No. 147 is meant to be synonymous with the word non-resident which is used in the preceding line. He says that he is compelled to this opinion by the fact that all but two of the state's attorneys of Vermont held the same opinion. Other places in the act he finds that the law makes distinction between residents and non-residents.

EIGHTY HUNTERS IN BARRE.

At Any Rate Only 80 Have Taken Out Required License.

Up to this noon City Clerk Mackay had issued 80 hunting licenses. No person, beginning to-day, is allowed to hunt for game without this license, which can be secured on payment of a fee of fifty cents, unless he is hunting on his own premises. That is a resident's fee. A non-resident has to pay $10. Violation of the provision by a resident renders him liable to a fine of $10 and a non-resident $25. A person making application must state his residence, age, weight, complexion, color of eyes, distinctive marks, nationality, height, color of hair, and occupation.

HIS DISAPPEARANCE HAS CAUSED ALARM

George W. Cate, a Former Goddard Student, Went Away From Woodstock on August 20—Harm May Have Befallen Him.

Woodstock, Sept. 1.—Mrs. George W. Cate returned here yesterday from Fall River, Mass., in response to word from friends that he had disappeared. Failure to receive regular letters from him had already alarmed her. Mr. Cate has been a guest at the Woodstock Inn since April and was last seen Friday, August 20, walking in North Bridge-water and Plymouth, the latter place some 12 miles from here. He had not been well, had complained of a pain in the back of his head and had also suffered from heart trouble.

Mr. Cate represented the L. M. S. Glidden company of Boston and had been selling stock to the Key gold mine of Nevada. It is not known that he had any great sum of money. He had always before made his trips from here by team and it is feared that a contrary procedure and his complete disappearance mean that he has become mentally unbalanced and that harm has befallen him.

The missing man is 50 years old, five feet, seven inches tall, weighs over 200 pounds, smooth shaven, light hair turning gray, birthmark on right temple. He has a driver in the postoffice at Montpelier, a sister in East Calais and a brother in North Calais. Mr. Cate attended Goddard seminary and is a graduate of Tufts college.

NOT REPORTED CORRECTLY.

Says President William Marr of His Chicago Speech.

William Marr, who returned yesterday afternoon from Chicago, where he attended the meeting of the Retail Monument Dealers' National association, as a representative of the Barre granite manufacturers, takes exception to the report in a Chicago paper of the remarks that he made at the meeting and which were reprinted in The Times on Monday. Mr. Marr states that as to calling the mail order houses "undesirable citizens," he did not mention the mail order business in any way whatever, and what he did say was entirely in regard to the relations existing between the granite manufacturers and the retailers.

BRUCE DIED IN HARNESS

Street Superintendent Worked Right Up To End

WHICH CAME LAST NIGHT

Signed Part of His Name to Weekly Payroll When Overcome by Exhaustion and Wife Finished Signature—Was Prominent in Union Circles.

The death of Fred S. Bruce, for nearly five years superintendent of streets in Barre, occurred at a few minutes before 10 o'clock last evening at his home on Eastern avenue. Mr. Bruce had been in gradually failing health for the past year and last spring went to Saranac Lake, N. Y., for treatment for tuberculosis of the lungs, the disease which caused his death.

Although by no means well, Mr. Bruce has superintended the work of the street department and no longer ago than last Friday was out and directing his men personally. Even last night he gave his adopted son, Dana, directions as to what he wanted the employees of his department to do to-day. He also attempted to sign the weekly payroll for the employees of his department and had his name partly written when his wife had to finish it for him.

Fred S. Bruce was 49 years of age last March and was born in Massachusetts. His parents dying when he was a boy, he came to Williamstown and spent several years of his life in that village and in Roxbury. When about 20 years of age he went West and was first employed on a cattle ranch, but changed his occupation to horse breaking and later became the foreman of a horse ranch in Colorado.

He came to Barre 22 years ago and served his apprenticeship at the granite cutting trade with White Brothers. For 10 years he followed granite cutting until his appointment as superintendent of streets by the late ex-Mayor William Barclay in April, 1904. Since he has been superintendent of streets, Mr. Bruce has been an efficient official and has made much permanent improvement in the city's streets.

He was, especially during the years that he was working at the granite cutting trade, strongly affiliated with the granite cutters' union, and was for six years president of that body. He was also a state organizer for the American Federation of Labor. Mr. Bruce was partially instrumental at different times in settling difficulties between the granite manufacturers and their employees.

At the outbreak of the war with Spain in 1898, Mr. Bruce enlisted in Company H of the First Vermont regiment at Montpelier and went to Chickamauga, where he served until the regiment returned to Vermont. While at this camp Mr. Bruce served as mounted orderly on the staff of General Mead, who was in command of the post.

He was married in 1887 to Miss Edith Dow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Dow of this city, and she with an adopted son, Dana, aged 16, survive him. Other surviving relatives are two sisters, Mrs. Fred Favre of Lowell, Mass., and Miss Jeanne Bruce of New York. There are also three uncles, Christopher Bruce of Bethel, Lyman Bruce of New York, and Seth Bruce of Derry, N. H.

CAPTURED THE GIRLS AND TAKES THEM HOME

Charles K. Lucas of St. Johnsbury Made Sure of Not Losing Them This Time—They Take It as a Joke.

Charles K. Lucas of St. Johnsbury has got his daughter, Sarah, back and Grace Foster of St. Johnsbury as well, but only after a hard chase. After losing them in Montpelier, where they were stopped by the police yesterday morning, following their flight from home, he started out by searching the city high and low. Then came a message that two girls answering the description had been seen walking in the direction of Waterbury. Mr. Lucas boarded the train and stopped at Waterbury. There he learned that a woman had complained to Sheriff Graves of two girls who were about the camp of the United States regulars who are marching from Maine to their barracks at Plattsburg, N. Y.

Mr. Lucas found that the two were the fugitives, his daughter and her chum. He set out and found them not far from the soldiers' camp. He took them in charge and returned to Montpelier last night, stopping at the Montpelier house, and to make sure he didn't lose them he stayed in the same room last night. This morning the three started for home, the girls seeming to take it all as a joke and laughing and chatting until train time. This is the first time, it is said, that they have been mixed up in an escapade of this sort.
