

BELIEVE GIRL BUT A TOOL

In Hands of Others in Death of Clarence Glover

DOZEN WITNESSES HEARD

Medical Examiner West Denies Story That Bullets in Glover's Body Were of 32 Calibre.

Waltham, Mass., Nov. 27.—The inquest in the death of Clarence L. Glover, who was shot a week ago to-night, went on behind closed doors in the office of Judge Enoch T. Luce to-day, District Attorney Higgins of Boston doing the questioning.

The tales that the two bullets in Glover's body were 32-calibre, while he pistol he said Hattie LeBlanc fired was 38-calibre, were denied today by Medical Examiner West. He says the bullets which killed Glover were of larger size.

The right investigation of the girl's story, in which she denied the accusations of her employer, and the examination of Mrs. Mary Glover, the widow, apparently have thrown very little light on the case.

The activity of the police appeared to be centered in tracing the telephone calls from and to the Glover house on Saturday night. One particularly, which may have come from there to Dr. Conner's hospital, in which an inquiry was made as to whether Mr. Glover had said anything incriminating his wife, was the object of much inquiry.

Attorney Samuel D. Elmore, counsel or adviser to Mrs. Glover, sought out District Attorney Higgins at East Cambridge yesterday and explained to him the position of himself and his client. He said that both had been misrepresented.

Tobey LeBlanc, brother of Mrs. Glover, was found by the state police and brought to the inquest to testify. He was put on the grill by District Attorney Higgins, but no information has been received as to whether or not his testimony shed any light on the crime.

WENT TO MEET ACCUSATION

L. Webb Vinton, Vermont Man, Wanted in Boston

ON CHARGE OF LARCENY

Was Employed as Clerk at Woodland Golf Club and is Accused of Taking Several Hundred Dollars.

Newton, Mass., Nov. 27.—On a charge of larceny from the Woodland Golf club, where he had been employed as clerk, L. Webb Vinton, aged 27 years, of East Granville, Vt., was arrested by Inspector Fletcher in a Boston hotel yesterday afternoon, after the police had searched for him for more than a week.

A complaint made by Lucius B. Folsom, treasurer of the club, alleges the larceny of more than $100. The police say a search of the club's books shows a shortage of between $400 and $600.

Vinton told the police that he read in a newspaper that he was wanted after he had gone to Granville, and decided to return here. He denied that there are irregularities in his accounts.

The police were somewhat puzzled yesterday when a telegram was received from J. E. Lamson, deputy sheriff at Randolph, Vt., saying: "Vinton will leave for Newton on 2 o'clock train today and will show up some time tomorrow."

Shortly afterward, word was received that Vinton had telephoned from a Boston hotel to Treasurer Folsom of the golf club, saying he wished to meet him and straighten out the trouble. With Inspector Fletcher, Treasurer Folsom visited the hotel. Vinton accompanied them to police headquarters here, where he was locked up, being unable to secure bail.

Last night Vinton said he had come to Boston to straighten out matters with a company in which he was bonded for $1,000.

A LEADING CITIZEN GONE.

James T. Ritchie of St. Johnsbury Died Suddenly Last Night.

St. Johnsbury, Nov. 27.—The death of James T. Ritchie, one of the most prominent citizens of St. Johnsbury, occurred at his home in this place last evening at about 6:30, due to heart failure. Mr. Ritchie came to St. Johnsbury about thirty years ago and began work for the E. & T. Fairbanks company in their dry goods store, becoming manager of the establishment, which position he occupied for some time, then starting a dry goods business himself, which he continued up to the time of his death.

His store was situated in the Citizens' bank block, which was burned down a few weeks ago, and his efforts to straighten out the business after this disaster have undoubtedly hastened his demise, as he had been slightly troubled with heart difficulty previous to this latest attack. He was one of the heavy stockholders in the Perle-E. Pope company of Montpelier, and in company with several other members of the Ritchie family, owned considerable property in Greensboro and Greensboro Bend, where he was interested in the lumber business quite extensively.

SHOOTING WAS ACCIDENTAL

Hilas D., or "Honey Bee," Davis Killed at So. Newbury

WEAPON IN SON'S HAND

State's Attorney Wilson Gets Report That Ipe Davis Was Loading Rifle at the Time of the Tragedy.

Chelsea, Nov. 27.—State's Attorney Stanley C. Wilson is conducting an investigation of the fatal shooting of Hilas D., or "Honey Bee," Davis at South Newbury on Thanksgiving day, and thus far he has found nothing to contradict the report that the shooting was accidental. The weapon was in the hands of Mr. Davis' son, Ipe Davis, at the time.

Dr. William Ricker, the town health officer, who was called to look into the case, reported to the state's attorney today that he had questioned both the son and the widow of the victim, and their stories coincided in the statement that the son, Ipe, was loading a high-powered rifle on Thursday and that he called his father to come and look it over; whereupon, in some unaccountable way, the weapon was discharged. The bullet struck the elder Davis in the stomach, and he died shortly afterwards, from internal hemorrhage.

Health Officer Ricker, Dr. Frederick Fletcher of Bradford and Dr. George Hatch of Groton were called to attend the wounded man, and the last two assisted Health Officer Ricker in conducting an examination. They say that Ipe Davis was not able to tell how the weapon was discharged. After viewing the remains and hearing the statements of the widow and the son, Dr. Ricker reported to State's Attorney Wilson that the shooting was accidental.

The Davis place is located in the village of South Newbury, where all the parties are well known. The boy is only fourteen years of age and bears a good reputation. His father was 70 years old and had lived there a good many years. He conducted a small farm and was better known as a keeper of bees, having a big hive and getting the name, "Honey Bee" Davis, because of that business.

BARRE GOLFERS PAID PENALTY FOR LOSING

Gave a Banquet to Montpelier Country Club Team at the City Hotel Last Evening—A Pleasant Occasion.

To the victors belonged the spoils last night, but they were generous enough to share with the vanquished, so the golf teams of the Montpelier Country club and the Barre Golf club sat down together to the latter's "treat" at the City hotel dining-room last evening. This is the fourth year that the loser in the annual competitions between the two clubs has paid the penalty of losing by entertaining the opposing team; and the series of wins and losses stands now at two for each team. The "rubber" will be played next year, and for many years to come, judging by the sentiment of those present last night.

Landlord Snow served a very appetizing banquet, and the menu card made a handsome souvenir of the occasion. On the back side of the card were the names of the players on the two teams and a few superlatives, who were called "rosters." The occasion had evidently stirred the music of the Shakespeare "Fooler," for the card bore this: "Once every year 'tis fated we must meet. To celebrate in a social way one or the other's defeat; This year 'tis up to Barre' to furnish the good cheer. But, 'Oh, you kids,' remember we'll be after you next year."

After everybody had made a fair drive at each vian that Landlord Snow set on the table, cigars were passed around and Jim Mackay as toastmaster started off, and the remainder of the evening was spent in good-natured banter back and forth between the opposing teams and the individual members of each team. "Burn" Bailey of Montpelier acted as Toastmaster Mackay's side-partner in keeping the ball a-rolling. There were about twenty-five golf players and would-be players present.

A communication from the International Boot and Shoe Workers' union, in regard to giving a picture show under the auspices of the Central body, was read, and, after discussion, it was decided to have the entertainment next Tuesday evening at the opera house. The entertainment will be free to all and will consist of moving picture subjects, music, songs and a short lecture on trade union labels.

There is no change to record in the local granite lockout to-day, and there does not promise to be any until after the national association executive committee meets in Boston, Monday. The manufacturer's executive committee meets at 10 a. m., but whether a meeting has been arranged with Secretary Duncan's committee has not yet been learned.

WILLIAM BARLEY, member of the Manufacturers' executive committee from Barre, and William Marx, who goes to represent the Barre association, expect to leave on the noon train to-morrow for Boston.

STAY IN JAIL? NOT THIS BOY

Joe Guidici Fled from Restraint Early Today

HE PROBABLY HAD HELP

Chief Faulkner Found That Cell Door Had Been Forced with a Bar of Iron Between Five and Eight A. M.

Joseph Guidici, aged 19 years, who was board over to the county court by Judge H. W. Scott yesterday afternoon on the charge of having stolen $100 from Kenneth McAulay last Sunday evening, broke jail sometime between 5 o'clock and 8 this morning and escaped by the side door of the station, which was not locked. The boy was confined in the cell which is called the women's cell, because this cell is warmer than those in the cellroom. After he had broken open the door of the cell, he had freed access to the side door of the station.

The break was discovered by Chief David Faulkner, when he arrived at the station at 8 o'clock this morning. The chief went to the cell, which is off the back room of his office, very soon after entering, and he found the iron door wide open and the door casing, which was of wood, torn away on the side, where the lock was fastened. Just inside the door on the floor of the cell, the chief found a bar of iron, four feet long, which told how the boy had freed lock of the wooden casing which held the lock and made his escape from prison. The chief then went at once to his telephone and notified the officers in Montpelier, Wells River, St. Albans, Burlington and White River Junction, giving them a description of the boy.

From five in the morning until the chief arrived at 8 o'clock, the station is left with no officer. Officer Harry Gamble was the last officer to leave the station, and when he left at five minutes past five, he said that the boy was then in his cell, apparently asleep. The officer said he passed by the cell door to look the door which leads out of the station and up the stairs to the post office corridor, just before he left for home.

Someone Probably Implicated. The bar which the boy had used was a cast-iron piece of grate from the boilers in the boiler-room of the building. There is a pile of these pieces of iron on the floor just outside the door to the alley which leads upstairs, and just through the door from the ante-room in front of his cell.

The officers say that during last evening up to 10 o'clock several friends of the boy were in to visit the boy, and that some of them must have taken the bar of iron from the pile in the alleyway and passed it through the bars of the door to the prisoner, who hid it under the mattress of the bed, and then waited until the station was empty this morning before breaking the door.

That the station was left empty during these hours in the morning was no doubt known to the boy, as he had been confined in the station since last Monday evening, and he hid this time to make his escape. This side door of the station was the only door left unlocked, and fresh tracks in the snow on the doersill could be seen this morning. As the only two trains out of the city this morning were the 7:30 Wells River and the 8:30 Central Vermont, the chief is confident that the boy would not dare to take either train, as it is now in hiding somewhere in the city.

Guidici's Arrest Monday. Guidici was arrested Monday evening by Officer Carle on a warrant charging him with grand larceny for the alleged theft of $100 from Kenneth McAulay last Sunday evening. The hearing in the case was started Wednesday and was concluded yesterday afternoon, when Judge Scott decided there was evidence enough against him to bind him over to county court and placed him under $500 bail. The boy was unable to raise the bail and was to have been taken to the county jail at Montpelier this morning for safekeeping, until his case was heard in county court.

McAulay claims that he was with Guidici and another man, whose name is said to be Coffrin, Sunday evening when the Guidici boy offered to get some liquor for them. McAulay said he pulled out his wallet, in which there was about $180 in bills. As he was looking through the bills to find a two-dollar bill to give to Guidici to pay for the liquor, Guidici grabbed the pile of bills from his hands and fled. The Coffrin man also fled. Both Guidici and Coffrin were unknown at the time to McAulay, but, through the assistance of the police, suspicion was turned on Guidici, and he was arrested. McAulay, after seeing Guidici at the police station, claims that he is the person who took the money.

A young sister of the Guidici boy came to the station this morning with a bundle to give to her brother, but, on finding the cell empty, asked the chief if her brother had been taken to Montpelier. The following is the description of Guidici, as given out by Chief Faulkner: Age, 19; height, 5 feet, 10 inches; stout build; light brown hair; gray eyes. Yesterday he wore a mixed colored Scotch cap, a medium light colored suit, considerably worn, a white soft shirt and white tie.

When about 10 years of age, Guidici was sentenced to the reform school for breaking into H. Z. Mills' store. Since he returned from the reform school, he has been convicted in court of shooting pigeons.
