

When Her Back Aches

A Woman Finds All Her Energy and Ambition Slipping Away.

Barre women know how the aches and pains that come when the kidneys fail make life a burden. Backache, hip pains, headaches, dizzy spells, distressing urinary troubles, all tell of sick kidneys and warn you of the stealthy approach of diabetes, dropsy and Bright's disease. Doan's Kidney Pills permanently cure all these disorders. Here's proof of it in a Barre woman's words:

Mrs. Frank Jones, 106 South Main street, Barre, Vt., says: "About five years ago, when living in Worcester, I began to suffer from kidney trouble and had such terrible pains in my back at times that I could hardly get about. If I arose too quickly after sleeping, sharp twinges darted through my hips and I often had severe attacks of dizziness. At night, it was impossible for me to sleep well, and during the day I was tired and worn out. Being advised to try Doan's Kidney Pills, I did so, although I had not much faith in their merit. After using them a few days, I found that they were helping me, and I continued taking them until the pains in my back had entirely disappeared. The other symptoms of my trouble were also greatly relieved and I felt better in every way."

WILLIAMSTOWN.

John G. Lane of Washington is at Mrs. Thomas C. Waldo's for a short stay.

Charles Carr, whose funeral was held in Granville Sunday, was a brother of our ex-townman, Levi D. Carr, now of Gardner, Mass.

Miss Florence Leighton, principal of our high school, went to her home in New Hampshire Monday to pass her vacation of a few weeks.

The Alexanders—father and sons—on our south hill are said to have perhaps three hundred bushels of potatoes in their cellars yet, that are not decaying.

Capt. A. S. Cowles of our Gulf House returned home last week, having gotten no nearer Florida—for which he started—the Connecticut, and all because of rheumatic trouble.

Don A. Barle, at late accounts, was in Winsted, Connecticut, where he says it is as wildly mountainous as in old Vermont. He is traveling for manufacturers of steam engines.

Neal B. Smith, second son of Marcus A. Smith, has been on the island of Trinidad, South America, for the last eleven years, as an employe of an asphalt company, with headquarters in New York or Philadelphia, we think. He plans now to return home on a visit as soon as our weather will be comfortable for a man who has lived so long within some ten degrees of the equator.

We are asked to call the attention anew of our citizens to the great feast of reading to be enjoyed at the reading room in the Beckett block, provided by our Ladies' Village Improvement society. Was ever anything like it known before in the history of our town? We refer, of course, now, to the magazines and other periodicals there. Let not the opportunity pass unimproved, now for the public to avail itself of its golden opportunity.

When we ask our citizens to remember the Boston entertainment at the grange hall Wednesday evening of this week, we are also asking them to remember our Village Improvement society of ladies, who have done so much unrequited good work for our place in the months past. If it has not been a case of as nearly disinterested benevolence as one often sees here, we will let some one else characterize it. In the dining-room at the grange hall, these ladies will serve new sugar Wednesday evening at 10 o'clock.

Jerry M. Hutchinson has been very busy of late, pruning the orchards of his planting year ago on his John Lynde farm. Whenever pruning is done, he applies boiled linseed oil with a little drying mixture added, for the protection of the limb. He says these are about 1,000 fruit trees there to be looked after. He also tells us that if he were now to put out new trees by the thousands he would have the same of all ages next year, in order that he might train them into just the shape, every way, that he would want them in the years to come.

Human lives and destinies—how often they have turned on a chance word, or a sign, or a song! One might be glad to know how many life histories have been shaped by the single poem of Longfellow, known as "Excelsior." Surely, that "youth that through an Alpine village passed—as the shades of night were falling fast, bearing the banner with the strange device, "Excelsior," is the name of something far less perishable than snow and ice. We have a very personal acquaintance here, who, because April 1 is so near, has just told us of one of his own experiences that grew out of "Excelsior." He is happy in having a wife as genial and jolly and witty as himself, and the match not having "quailed" him as he did one first day of April, in the past, through the eye and the palate, as in the old-time Eden garden. On that day, at one of the family meals, was a plate bearing doughnuts of an uncertain age. On this same plate, the housewife, knowing the trained eye and the unerring skill of her husband in judging ages—he deals in houses—put a large, fresh, pulpy doughnut, and set down to watch the game. Nothing was surer than the outcome; and that was the excellent with which the doughnut had been well padded. Let no one look for "excelsior" on any banner of his, henceforth!

Baldheaded Row

Early Piety Not Always the Cause of Baldness.

Inasmuch as it is an accepted fact that baldness, falling hair and dandruff are caused by a germ, doesn't it stand to reason that the only way to prevent such calamities is to kill the germs?

And doesn't it stand to reason that the only way to kill these germs is to use Parisian Sage, which the Red Cross Pharmacy has so much faith in that it guarantees it to cure dandruff, falling hair and itching scalp within two weeks, or money back?

Parisian Sage is a delightful hair tonic and is pleasant to use. It is not sticky or greasy, and contains only those ingredients that will surely benefit the hair. It is now on hand by druggists all over America and by the Red Cross Pharmacy for 50 cents a large bottle. It is used extensively by women who desire luxuriant hair with a radiant luster. The girl with the auburn hair is on every package.

AMUSEMENT NOTES. "Uncle Dave Holcomb," a Powerful Story of Vermont Life. There is scarcely a town of any importance in the country that William Lawrence has not visited during the past five years as Uncle Josh in "The Old Homestead." He will ever be remembered for his faithful work as the sturdy old New England farmer in that play, having been selected by Benjam Thompson as his successor. This season Lawrence has come forward with a new starring vehicle, "Uncle Dave Holcomb," a powerful story of Vermont life as it actually exists there to-day. The play is different from the general run of rural plays, inasmuch as it contains nothing of a blood-splurting nature. The twelve characters in the play journey through the four acts in a natural life-like manner, there being no "grandstand" plays or "potted shows" to startle the public. What the characters say and do is identically the same as humanly would do under the circumstances. The story is built upon a theme that is of vital interest to the entire universe and solves a problem that leaves no dispute to those who see it. Mr. Lawrence and his original play production will appear at the opera house Thursday, March 17th.

"The Girl from U. S. A." In a late review of theatrical productions by a prominent dramatic critic, the play, "The Girl from U. S. A." received a full measure of praise. The story deals with an American girl, who has been placed in an aristocratic convent in Paris, France, that her education might receive an unbiased handling. There she has formed a deep and lasting friendship with Violante de Voltoine, a French girl. The play opens with a deep intrigue, both social and political, on the part of the Turkish ambassador to France. The girl follows her abducted friend into the innermost recesses of the secretly guarded harem of a Turkish pasha, and in the guise of a new "Favotte" is terrorized to find that the very Turk whose scheme she is trying to frustrate, has fallen in love with her. Only by shrewd diplomacy can she save herself from the clutches of an unscrupulous baron. And later in the conventional mazes of Chinese society, her native wit saves the day for herself and friends. Although the plot leads one among scenes of oriental splendor, the tone of the play remains vividly and thoroughly American in sentiment. The changes are thrilling and unexpected, and the comedy of several novel characters is as welcome as it is diverting. There are some splendid musical numbers added to an already complete entertainment, and altogether the "Girl from U. S. A." is somebody you will want to be acquainted with when she appears at the opera house, next Saturday, afternoon and night.

RANDOLPH. Rev. A. L. Cooper Was 55 Years Old Yesterday.

Rev. Dr. A. L. Cooper reached his 55th birthday Monday, March 14, and the day was passed quietly, save for the great number of birthday cards which came to him from his large circle of acquaintances. Dr. Cooper is able to walk from his home, which is some distance away, down street, and on Sunday, March 13, was at his accustomed place in the morning service at the Federated church and assisted the pastor in the communion service. He retains all his faculties and is truly a remarkable man. Through the winter he has been quite well, though not quite so strong as in former years.

Mrs. B. E. Nickerson is in Boston for a few days' visit.

Mrs. Inez Segar passed Sunday in Roxbury with Mrs. L. A. Segar.

Dr. E. O. Blanchard returned from a few days' trip to Boston on Sunday.

Miss Alice Grant of Royanton was the guest of Mrs. Eugenie Ellison Monday.

A daughter was born to Mrs. A. F. Grover of Lawrence, Mass., at the sanatorium on Monday.

Dr. E. O. Blanchard and daughter, Iris, returned from an over-Sunday visit in Lebanon on Monday.

Miss Ida Rand has been the guest of Miss Ella Claffin in Bethel for a few days, and returned home Monday.

Mrs. Dorothy Buck is very ill with measles. It is said that one hundred cases are already developed or soon will be.

Mrs. Elbridge Holman attended the funeral of a relative in Freetown, R. I., and returned to her home here last week.

Dr. Maynard of Burlington was in town Sunday in consultation with Dr. Angell in the case of Miss Josephine Emery.

Mrs. James McCall and C. N. McCall left here for New York last week, and will probably not return here till about July 1.

Miss Edith Waldo passed Sunday with her mother, Mrs. Fannie Waldo, and returned to her studies at the normal school Monday.

Mrs. John Kinsburgh, who called here on her way from Pawtucket, R. I., and was the guest of Mrs. Elbridge Holman for a few days, returned to her home in Montreal Monday.

Mrs. Harold Perkins of Woodstock passed Sunday with her parents, Rev. and Mrs. Joseph Hamilton, and Monday went to Montpelier to visit her sister, Miss Mabel Hamilton, at Montpelier seminary. Mrs. Perkins is just recovering from a sprained ankle, which has given her serious trouble and which was treated with casting.

The annual meeting of the Randolph Women's Literary club was held at the parish house Saturday night, and well attended. The following officers were elected to serve the coming year: President, Mrs. E. O. Blanchard; vice president, Mrs. E. F. Emerson; secretary, Miss Desier Moulton; treasurer, Mrs. H. A. Leonard. A program committee was also elected, of which Mrs. Homer White was chairman, and a book committee, with Mrs. H. A. Leonard as chairman.

Saved a Soldier's Life. Facing death from shot and shell in the Civil war was more agreeable to J. A. Stone of Kemp, Tex., than facing it from what doctors said was consumption. "I contracted a stubborn cold," he writes, "that developed a rough, that stuck to me in spite of all remedies for years. My weight ran down to 130 pounds. Then I began to use Dr. King's New Discovery, which completely cured me. I now weigh 175 pounds." For coughs, colds, croup, asthma, hemorrhage, hoarseness, croup, whooping cough and lung trouble, it's a sure cure. 50c, $1.00. Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by the Red Cross Pharmacy.

THIRTY SENATORS

CLOSING TERMS

Of That Number 24 Are Republicans and Six Democrats—Their Chances.

Washington, March 13.—Thirty members of the Senate are in the last year of their present terms. The conventions or elections of the summer and fall will decide, in almost all the cases, whether the toga wearers shall return to their law practice or disport for six years more in the marble temple of legislation on the hill.

In regard to several of the senators, the question has already been settled. The return of Senator Isidor Rayner has been assured by the action of the Maryland legislature. Senator Hernandez De Sota Money, the Democratic leader, will retire to his plantation in Mississippi. They take a senatorial situation by the forelock down in Mississippi and in line with the honorable custom John Sharp Williams, statesman, gentleman, scholar, lawyer and planter, was chosen several years ago to succeed Money. Williams was then leader of the Democrats and one of the most popular members of the House. Senator Eliot (California) has said he would not be a candidate for re-election. In a statement issued a short time ago he explained that the great expense of carrying on a campaign under the new California primary law was beyond his means and that, besides, he felt it to be his duty to earn more money than comes in the Senate pay envelope to provide for the future of his family.

At the head of the list, alphabetically and otherwise, of those who will march to the mark and take the oath next March 4 will be one Senator Aldrich, from Rhode Island. A vagrant rumor went the rounds last summer that Aldrich had decided to retire. When it was brought to his attention, he remarked that he hadn't passed out authority to anybody to make such a statement. So he'll come back.

They have been trying to build a fire under Senator Hale in the thirty state of Maine, but the senator's friends declare that he'll return again, just as he has for thirty years. He stands beside Aldrich at the head of the regular organization in rank, but not in influence. Other members of the old guard likely to return are Lodge (Mass.) and Keen (N. J.) while Burrows (Mich.) and Scott (W. Va.) say they will be here, too, though they are fighting for the honor in the face of right lively opposition.

Four of the hand of progressives in the Senate are under fire of the "interests" and, according to widely circulated reports, they are fighting on cheerfully with the expectation of putting in six years more at the old stand. La Follette is, of course an object of especial solicitude and extraordinary efforts are being made to overturn Wisconsin, where he has no friends but the people. Beveridge, the indispensible Republican leader in Indiana, and a strong force in the Senate is up for re-election. Burket has W. J. Bryan, among other issues, on his hands in Nebraska, and Clapp seeks recognition in Minnesota, where they are up-to-date and don't have moss on their political doctrines.

In the group of those who must be born again as senators, if they are going to help govern the country and advance the light of civilization generally, are: Bulkeley, Connecticut; Carter, Montana; Clark, Wyoming; Callahan, Texas; Daniel, Virginia; Deper, New York; Dick, Ohio; Da Pont, Delaware; Frazier, Tennessee; McCumber, North Dakota; Nixon, Nevada; Oliver, Pennsylvania; Patterson, Utah; Talliferro, Florida; and Warner, Missouri.

Of the expiring 20, there are 24 Republicans and six Democrats.

"The crow is a much-abused bird and it is time that someone said a good word for his old black coat," remarked Dr. C. Hart Merriam, chief of the biological survey. "Instead of being an enemy of the farmer, as is generally believed," continued Dr. Merriam, "the crow is one of his best friends and the protector of his crops. True, during corn planting time, the crow's bill is turned against the farmer—during one month and that month only, he is his enemy. During the other eleven months the crow is really working overtime for him. It eats thousands upon thousands of destructive insects and bugs every week, and when it comes to feeding its young gives them a diet composed almost entirely of worms and insects that prey upon the crops. "Therefore, it makes me righteously indignant every time I see anyone try to kill a crow. These trials, however, are not very often crowned with success, for the crow has become one of the wisest of wild creatures, as the result of hundreds of years of persecution and misunderstanding. "The value of many of our birds is unfortunately unknown to the farmers, whom they are striving so hard to protect. The oriole, for instance, is the only bird that will eat the fuzzy caterpillars, which are so destructive to many varieties of trees. Were it not for the woodpecker, there would be no forests, for they go after and keep down the enormous numbers of worms that attack the trees. "The only bird that I would really be glad to see destroyed in this country is the English sparrow. He is utterly worthless to the farmer or the orchard owner; he is dirty, quarrelsome, and drives away the song birds. Just at present, the survey is striving with all

Anty Drudge Visits the School.

Schoolteacher—"Why are you late, Theodora?" Theodora—"Please, Miss Brown, my mother was so busy stirring the boiling clothes in the washboiler that she couldn't get us our breakfast and dress us in time."

Anty Drudge—"Theodora, you tell your mother to use Fels-Naptha next Monday, and I'll guarantee you'll never be late for school on account of the washing."

The old-fashioned boiling is uncertain in its action on disease germs. Epidemics of typhoid fever have been traced to the mingling of clothes in a washing, done in the old, boiling manner.

Fels-Naptha soap, while it is fatal to germs, contains no substance which will harm clothes in the slightest manner. This is a scientifically-proven fact. Be sure and get the genuine Fels-Naptha. It has a red and green wrapper, with directions which you should follow carefully.

It might be said to keep him out of southern California. So far we have been successful in this battle. If the people of the cities and villages would only take up the crusade against this little pest, they might easily get rid of him, and the beautiful song birds would come back. The sparrow is easily trapped and easily poisoned; but every time an organized effort is made to rid a locality of the nuisance the crusaders are met with the mistaken sentimentality of a few who know nothing about the merits of the case, and are scared off by the cry of "Save the little birds" that is set up in the papers and from the pulpit. The English sparrow has no more right to exist than rats, mice, scorpions, tarantulas, or any other noxious creatures that are recognized as enemies of our society."

TARIFF DISCEPTION. United States cites Average Lower Than Canada's.

Washington, March 13.—A general misconception of the provisions of the United States tariff allowed to be largely responsible for the small progress thus far for the tariff negotiations between the American commissioners and the Canadian authorities in their conference at Ottawa. It is learned the state department were very greatly misled that the United States tariff on Canadian products was twice as high as the Canadian tariff on goods from the United States. This was shown by the following table:

Table with 2 columns: United States, Canada. Rows: Average rate on dutiable imports, 19.4 per cent; On the other hand, it was that the Canadian average shown from rate on free and dutiable imports from the United States was 12.5 per cent, and on dutiable imports it was 24.5 per cent. The total duty collected by Canada on all imports from the United States amounted to $22,500,000.

NO BIG RAIL STRIKE. Government Probably Will Be Asked to Intervene in Controversy in the West.

Washington, March 13.—The threatened strike of the 25,000 firemen and engineers of the railroads west of Chicago will not be called, it was believed in official quarters yesterday, until after the federal authorities had been asked to mediate under the Erdman act.
