Easter was fair to the new headgear.

Speaker Cannon: Get those be-headers.

The "open letter" is open but not frank.

The seven-story hotel in Burlington sounds like quite a story.

"Wake up and rake up."—Concord Monitor. Gardenrake up or muskrake up?

Impending events cast their shadows before; therefore, the cloud to-day was the shadow of the Big Stick.

Edward Payson Weston telegraphs Boston to keep up hope, for he is getting nearer all the time. Blessed Weston!

We don't blame that Cabot horse for not liking one of our electric cars; we know of some people who feel the same way.

A world-renowned diamond expert, just died in Boston, a native of Belows Falls, but he didn't get his knowledge by studying Betty Green's diamonds; no, not by several looks and keys.

The Boston Transcript gives careful advice when it says: "Thanks for those open ears, but don't mislay the snowplough." The calm of this remarkable month of March is enough to betoken a storm.

It is the height of fame in Massachusetts to have your house burn, for then you get your picture in the Boston newspapers, along with a picture of what remains of the house. Easy renown! Rather.

The Cambridge bank wrecker confirms the impression that he has "fool-in-the-head" by his persistency in trying to force ignominy on a woman whom he would take as wife when he is facing a possible long term in prison.

There are upwards of five hundred Vermont school children in Washington, D. C., at the present time. Perhaps the Vermont congressmen will learn what they were elected for when they see this crowd of eight-seers burst in upon them.

Montpelier will regret to lose James E. Davidson, general manager of the Consolidated Lighting company, as will indeed this whole section, which has been covered by his activities during the past few years. Mr. Davidson has established himself firmly and well in the consideration of the public.

The late Henry Augustus Torrey, assistant professor of chemistry in Harvard university, was of that type of college professor such as his father, Henry A. P. Torrey, represented in the university of Vermont for so many years—earn, deliberate and lovable for his sterling personality. The younger Torrey also gave evidence of reaching the same eminence in the field of chemistry that his father reached in the field of philosophical teaching.

CONTRASTS OF ROAD BUILDING IN BARRE.

The "deadly parallel" of good and bad road building is clearly shown by an inspection of the public thoroughfare between Barre and Montpelier; and the contrast is so marked that there can be no question as to the practicability of methods, whether it is better to continually patch and patch or to build something of a permanent nature, as was done by the Barre municipality in the north end of the city, between Sixth street Success Magazine says "J. P. Morgan has bought control of the Equitable Life Assurance Association for $2,500,000.

He is also said to control the New York Life, also several banks with deposits of $440,000,000, Trust Companies $315,000,000, and has an "understanding" with the U. S. Steel Trust—but for $25 here's a Suit that will make you look as well dressed as Morgan in his best days.

of the winter and spring seasons almost unimpaired, with a surface practically as smooth as when carefully laid last year, dry although not dusty, and needing but little attention from the road repairers to be put in perfect condition.

race is not yet won.—Waterbury Record. Calls Haggood Revolutionary. M. J. Haggood of Peru is taking his gubernatorial candidacy very seriously.

Don't You Need a New Farm Wagon This Spring?

If you do, here is the place to buy it. Large stock of New England style, with favorite king bolt—in fact, same kind of Farm Wagon so many of your neighbors bought and liked last year.

Current Comment

Journal's Prediction. The Journal is not aware of having qualified its original statement about a Vermont protest or indulged in any ingenious explanation.

Not Wan Yet. If Chittenden county instructs her delegates for Hon. C. F. Smith, and Addison county does likewise for Hon. J. E. Weeks, and a few other counties in the state should follow suit, the state convention will be very interesting to watch.
