Mark Twain Said---

"When a man goes to buy a collar, he comes home with a collar and perhaps a necktie, but when a woman goes to buy a collar, she returns with a new silk waist, a pair of gloves, ten yards of dress goods, several toilet articles, some Scrim Curtains and a Parlor Rug.

Don't fail to hear Riley's orchestra of six pieces at the Y. L. D. T. public dance Tuesday evening, May 24. Dancing from 8 till 2. Ladies free. Price 50c.

Are you one of the many pleased patrons of Miers' sanitary barber shop? Nine more days to order coal for $7.75 a ton at Morse & Jackson's. "Do it now" is a good motto.

The admission fee at Dreamland was changed to 12c for the one day only that the expensive feature film, "Roosevelt in Africa," was here. The display advertisement on the back page Saturday should have read five cents admission, as it does to-day.

McNeill's singing orchestra had another big crowd at its dance in the Howland & Cava block Saturday, there being 125 couples on the floor. The orchestra will soon close its road season and go to Milford, Mass., its headquarters, where it will fill a summer engagement at a park. The orchestra plans to make another call in Barre next fall.

Sunday and Monday arrivals at the City hotel follow: T. G. Elliot, New York City; M. S. Clark, Burlington; F. H. Mann, Woodsville, N. H.; E. J. Jones, J. Hisek, A. Robinson, Hartford, Conn.; J. B. Dreamland to-day has a Vitagraph and two Essanay pictures. "The Conqueror" is a homeport drama of a wayward son, full of real life interest and powerful in its climax. One of the comedies is "Henry's New Hat"; Henry certainly has a ludicrous time, as no one will doubt after seeing the picture. The song is one of Snyder's new ones. Burlando will tender it in his usual pleasing manner.

The Bijou offers with its entire change of pictures and song to-day a new drama of exceptional merit. "The Beggarman's Gratitude" is the heart-interest story of a pretty little girl who took pity on a poor, hungry man and gave him something to eat. Later the little girl is kidnapped by gypsies, and the same beggarman comes in as the hero and rescues his little benefactress. "Mary, You're a Big Girl Now" is the song.

The batterers were: Parkman and Murray for the collegians and Weaver and Rossini for the visiting team. On account of the drizzling rain which set in before the game, fast ball was impossible and most of the runs gained on both sides were due to errors. Weaver struck out three men for the Italians, against Parkman's four for the Norwich team. The locals led in errors, with six, to three for their opponents. Among the fans who accompanied the team were Ernesto Malpati, Italo Poytalupi, John Magnaghi, Alfred Malpati, Andrea Simonelli, "Basil" Bianchi and F. Marchesi.

White Specks in Butter.

Mottles in butter and "white specks" are sometimes confounded and by some are considered the same, but there is a difference. Mottled or streaky butter has been explained as being caused by an unequal distribution of the salt, but white specks have a different cause or causes. Sometimes when the milk is set in shallow pans they result from the cream drying on top, so there are small portions that are so hard they do not churn into butter. These particles do not take the color like the rest of the butter, and the specks are thus caused. This may be remedied by carefully straining the cream when it is put into the churn.

Another cause of white specks is this: When some milk is skimmed off with the cream, as is usually done in the case of deep cold setting, this milk settles to the bottom, gets over-ripe and forms a curd, which will be so hard as not to break up in churning and will not run off with the butter, but will remain with the butter as white specks, or flocks, as they are sometimes called. This can be remedied by not letting the cream stand so long before churning or by frequent and thorough stirring of the cream during the process of ripening. These hard, white particles can also be taken out by straining the cream.—United States Department of Agriculture Bulletin.

Sunlight a Disinfectant.
It ought to be clear to every farmer that the best, cheapest and surest method to keep his stock healthy is to let the sunlight into the stables and pens and let the animals out into the open air enough to invigorate and cleanse them as no disinfectant can, says the Homestead.

There are cloudy and rainy periods when our animals are short of sunlight, when dampness increases in pens and beds and conditions favor able to increase the microbes and disease trouble us. Some resort to disinfectants and expunge the musty smell of the damp quarters for the larder smell of coal tar. That may be the thing to do, but it is not the thing to do to rely on the disinfectant and neglect to let in the sunlight as soon as the clouds go by.

Clean out damp bedding and all the corners where fine filth is crowded and loaded with microbes and let in more sunlight and put in dry bedding. If the stable or pen is so built that the sunlight cannot pour into every nook and corner, then spend money to change the structure to let the sunlight in.

The Yearling Colt.
A yearling may be kept well, which means kept growing, at not to exceed from $2 to $2.50 per month while in stable and for much less when at pasture, says the Farm Journal. A favorite ration is a pint of ground oats, the same of bran and half a pint of oilmeal, twice a day, made into a thin gruel with water and spread on the hay feed. If hay is high, feed out straw in its place if bright and clean.

Do not give the colts any dusty food, and see to it that they do not become constipated. Linseed meal, roots, cornstalks and apples are useful to prevent this danger. The main thing is to keep the youngster growing and to see that he has no backset. Stunted colts, like stunted children, will carry the effects of early malnutrition as a handicap all through life.

On English Atlantic liners Sunday morning trays of prayer and hymn books are distributed in the dining saloon, and the captain reads the service of the Church of England. On the German vessels before the rising call in the morning the musicians play the air of "Luther's Hymn" sweetly, and the day's formal devotions are over.

Truancy is on the increase in New York city, and the board of education complains of the indifference of parents. About 120 parents are taken before the city magistrate each month for violating the law. The largest number are from among the Italians, where there are the most children, and the next highest number comes from native born parents.
