About the State

John, the 12-year-old son of John Donahue was badly injured Saturday while in the lumber mill in Poultney, where his father was employed. Some part of the machinery sprang back, hitting him in the bowels, and his condition was such that he was taken to the Rutland hospital.

Mrs. Howard Lawyer, a resident of South Franklin, met with a serious accident last week, while driving from her home to East Franklin. The coupling holding the shafts in place became loosened on one side, the shaft dropped and Mrs. Lawyer was thrown from the wagon, sustaining a broken arm, wrist and collar bone and a deep gash was cut in her head in the fall.

Private Edwards, a deserter from Fort Ethan Allen, who was arrested a few days ago at Saratoga, N. Y., and sent to Plattsburg, the nearest post, attacked private Harris of the infantry stationed there and escaped from custody. Edwards left Fort Ethan Allen about ten days ago and at the time of his confinement at Plattsburg was sent into the basement to work, where the corporal of the guard later found Harris, who had been sent to guard him, suffering from a wound in his head, made with a pick axe, and Edwards missing. Bloodhounds have been put upon his trail, but so far unsuccessfully. He is suspected of having been concerned in some of the burglaries in the vicinity of Fort Ethan Allen before his desertion. Private Harris is still unconscious and there is little or no hope for his recovery.

Dr. F. W. Gwyer has a fifty-acre poultry yard in Brattleboro, enclosed with a wire fence, six feet high and more than a mile long. Dr. Gwyer is a New Yorker, who spends his summers at his farm on the southern shores of Sunset lake and will carry on the poultry business for his own profit and satisfaction. About 1,000 chickens were hatched last spring and there are now over 1,000 head of poultry, including about 70 geese. The number will be considerably increased the coming season. Some of the chickens hatched last spring are laying, and it is expected that there will be between 400 and 500 layers the coming winter. To facilitate his farm work, Mr. Gwyer has removed the tonneau from his automobile and uses the car in various places instead of a wagon. Charles Luduke of Providence has charge of the farm.

James Mutch, Mayor.

COMPENSATION FOR INJURY IN GOVERNMENT SERVICE.

A news item in the papers of July 12 told of the efforts of the Italian society in New York to obtain relief in congress for Alessandro Comba, a foreman who was maimed when working on the Panama canal, which were unsuccessful, and the Ellis Island authorities had ordered him deported on July 9.

Comba went to Panama from New York eighteen months ago and got work as a laborer, but soon became a foreman. He was injured severely by falling under a dirt car. His legs were crushed and both of them had to be amputated. Comba was brought to the States and, being an alien, was taken to the Ellis Island hospital. He remained there several months, but when congress adjourned a bill appropriating $500.00 for his relief was lost in the rush for adjournment, and then the emigrant authorities decided they could keep him no longer. Comba has a wife and four children in his native land.

The above item appeared in an inconspicuous corner on the second page of a prominent metropolitan daily, which gave prominent space and headlines to divorces and various matrimonial troubles, prize fights and ring politics, but a thorough perusal of the paper in question failed to reveal such a tragedy as the one set forth above.

For years the American Federation of Labor has knocked on the doors of our National legislation halls for a compensation act in vain, and day in and day out we are confronted with cases similar to the one noted above, where not only foreigners, but citizens of this country are maimed, crippled and killed while doing work of our government, the maimed and crippled being cast upon the industrial scrap heap and those dependent upon them many times being forced to become public charges through a short-sighted public policy, which fails to provide for those of our citizens engaged in peaceful work for the up-building of our country.

In the naval and military branches of the government ample provision is made for the maimed and killed while engaged in actual service, and this is as it should be, even if their sworn duty be to destroy life and property.

Can the legislators who were in such a hurry to get away from their duties in Washington and get back home to fix up their political fences read that news item without a qualm of their consciences or with a sense of duty performed? Can they honestly say if it were Mr. Capitalist from their district or some of his family who had met with this misfortune, that they would not have given more consideration to the merits of the case than they did in the case of this poor and unknown "foreigner"?

Imagine, if you can, the feelings of Mr. Comba when the immigration commission informed him that the great and rich and powerful government that had taken his means of earning a livelihood from him and those dependent upon him could do nothing for him but send him back to his loved ones broken in spirit and maimed in body, there to eke out a miserable existence as best he could until death should bring him relief from hell on earth.

What mind can imagine or pen describe the thoughts that flashed through his mind when told that instead of being in a position to bring to the land of opportunity those whom he loved and lived for, that he must return to them a physical bankrupt.

And the worst feature of this maiming and killing is that thousands of our citizens have experienced these same feelings that were felt by Comba when the truth was brought home to them, and small wonder indeed that they fail to join heartily in singing the National anthem or to believe they are living in the land of equal opportunity when they view the results of industrial butchery as permitted and practiced by the one employer that should set an example for all who believe in placing man and his dependents above the dollar and business, join hands and elect representatives to our National legislature that will not only enact legislation that will not only place every known safeguard around the worker while he is employed, either by the government or a private employer, but will make ample provision for him and those dependent upon him in case of injury or death.—J. M. J., Garment Workers' Journal.

IN BOSTON MARKETS.

Butter Continues Firm, but With Smaller Receipts Than a Year Ago.

Boston, Aug. 31.—Butter continues firm in the local market, though business is quiet. The make of butter in eastern sections is fairly large, but it is small in the more important sections of the West, and receipts are running behind those of a year ago. Primary markets are holding firm and butter bought on the basis of Canton, N. Y., this week will cost 1/2 a pound more than the purchases of the previous week.

The primary cheese markets are slightly easier, but this market will hardly show the effects of this development until later in the week. Eggs continue in light supply and firm, with henney stock really scarce and in some cases exceeding quotations.

Jobbing quotations:—
Butter—Fancy northern creamery, tubs 33@33 1/2c, boxes 33 1/2@34c, prints 34@35c, fancy western creamery, spruce tubs 32 1/2@33c, ash tubs 32@32 1/2c, fair to good creamery 30@31c, dairy 28@30c.

Cheese—New York fancy 16 1/2@17c, Vermont fancy 16@16 1/2c, fair to good stock 14 1/2@15c, Young Americas 18 1/2@19c.

Eggs—Fancy henney 37@38c, choice eastern 33@35c, fresh western 26@28c.

Cotton Prices Drop.

New York, Aug. 31.—The cotton market was very nervous at the opening yesterday morning and the first sale of August at 20 cents or 25 points above the closing figures of Monday night strengthened the feeling that there was still some short interest to cover. Notices of delivery estimated at about 31,000 bales were circulated, however, and scattering liquidation by traders on the long side soon broke August to 19.25. The big bulls seemed to be doing nothing whatever to check this decline and while August later rallied to 19.50, the trading in that position was very quiet.

As was the case Monday, the fluctuations in August had little effect on the later months which, however, showed increased firmness and activity, owing to bullish new crop reports and rumors that the old crop bull leaders were now turning their attention to the new crop situation.
