The show at the Pavilion last night was a winner, every act being excellent. Prof. Corry is about the best comedy magician that has ever worked at the Pavilion; his tricks are cleverly done. The comedy he gets out of the acts produces many rounds of laughter. Smith and Kelly have a very neat and refined act, which pleased so well that they were forced to take two encores before the curtain could be rung down. The big hit of the program was Morgan and West in their Hebrew sketch. This act was an instantaneous hit, and Mr. Lou Morgan is deserving of the highest praise. The audience showed its appreciation by giving him several curtain calls. Altogether, the show is one of the best ever seen at the Pavilion and will no doubt draw a large attendance during the remaining two days of its stay here.
