There will be an adjourned meeting of the Civic Federation in the library building Saturday, November 5, at 3 o'clock. Will all the members please be on time, as Mrs. Ashton is to give an address after the business meeting?

A largely attended meeting of the Young People's association of the Presbyterian church was held in the church vestry last evening. An instructive feature of the evening's program was an excellent paper, entitled, "Socialism—the Nation's Problem," which was read by Alfred Henry. A lively discussion on the issue of socialism followed Mr. Henry's remarks. A vocal solo by Mr. Wallace was also on the program, and it was rendered in a pleasing manner.

A meeting of the members of the Vermont Poultry association will be held at 8 o'clock this evening in the city court room to complete the arrangements for their annual show, which will be held during the last week of December. The association has been hard pressed to find a suitable hall in which to hold the show this year. The Pavilion and the Palace garage that have been used in the past are now occupied so that they cannot be procured. The question of a hall will be decided upon to-night, and it is expected that the Church street gymnasium will be chosen.

"A Summer Idyl," a beautiful Biograph pastoral. Fascination and infatuation are simply forms of hypnotism. They are like habits formed and almost impossible to crush. Such was the fate of Albert Woodson, a talented young artist, who became madly infatuated with Cora Irwin, a fellow artist. Cora's atelier was the rendezvous of the members of the higher Bohemia, and at her little receptions there always gathered the maddest women of arts and letters. Among them was Albert Woodson, and during the course of one of these affairs he proposes marriage to the seemingly nonchalant Cora, who regards his prostration as a joke and laughingly rejects his proposal. Despondent, Albert goes to his home and decides to take a long walking trip in the country, where he hopes to crush that infatuation for the heartless Cora. As he trudges through the fields, his mind is occupied admiring the beauty of the land, which enthralled him so as to almost forget the cold-hearted artist. Here he meets a pretty little shepherdess as she feeds her sheep. Her artlessness and beauty make such an impression on him that Cora has been gone entirely from his thoughts. It is a case of love at first sight, and it is not all one-sided, for the little maid is attracted by him. She indeed falls deeply in love with him. At the popular Dreamland theatre to-day.

About twenty-five of the girl friends of Miss Lillie Phillips of 93 Currier street gathered at her home last Wednesday evening to give her a linen shower surprise in honor of her coming marriage. The guests brought many presents, and the evening was spent in a very pleasant manner. During the evening the guests were served with refreshments.

To-morrow's football game between Spaulding high school and Montpelier seminary has been called off by the Spaulding team, because permission to play the game had been refused by the athletic council of the school. It was said in defense of the position that the arranging of the second game with Montpelier seminary was done without the approval of the athletic council.

In spite of the inclement weather, the hospitality social and reception held in the parlors of the Universalist church last evening was attended by more than 75 persons. The program of games, story-telling, music and recitations was carried out to a highly successful finish, and thoroughly enjoyed by everyone present. During the evening dainty refreshments were served. The committees having the affair in charge were as follows: Entertainment, Mr. and Mrs. Murray Love, F. W. Jackson, Rev. E. C. Downey; program, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Lane, Mrs. F. W. Jackson; refreshments, Mrs. Homer Ladd, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Stowe, Deacon and Mrs. C. N. Kenyon. The purpose of the gathering was to make it possible for all members of the church, new and old, to become better acquainted with each other. The idea had its inception one year ago, when a social of a similar nature was attended by extremely gratifying results.

WANTS IT MADE UP

And Receiver Asks That Directors Meet Shortage.

Boston, Nov. 4.—There is $80,000 deficit in the funds of the National City Bank of Cambridge, caused by the defalcation of its bookkeeper George W. Coleman, which Receiver John L. Bates has asked the United States courts to collect from directors, who were negligent in the discharge of their duties, it is alleged.

The controller of the currency finds that two other directors, Charles Bancroft and Josiah H. Goddard, came to the bank just before its failure and had no opportunity to examine the accounts and are therefore not liable.

A bill in equity was filed in the circuit court yesterday praying that the court order President Edwin Dresser of Cambridge, Davis A. Barber of Cambridge, George W. Gale and Sumner Dresser of Brookline and George E. Richardson of Waltham, to make up the remainder of the $400,000, as $320,000 has been collected from the assets and assessment of 100 per cent. on the stockholders.

Receiver Bates finds, according to the bill in equity, that the directors for the two years preceding the defalcation utterly neglected to examine the accounts of the bank and made no effort to investigate them.

INEZ MILHOLLAND, CHALKER.
Decorated New York Sidewalk on Her Knees for the Cause.

New York, Nov. 4.—Something new came to Broadway in the form of a tall, slender, willow maiden, who knelt on the sidewalk in front of the hotel Normandie and chalked suffrage devices on the pavement while her sable stole swept up the dust shaken from the feet of the passersby and her muff to match wobbled on its silken cord.

It was Miss Inez Milholland who decorated the great White Way, and those who saw her begin her inscriptions stayed until they were all finished. They regarded her with admiration as she leaped lightly up from her task and listened to the Vassar English in which she spoke to them of the cause and what it means to women. Many of those who had tarried accepted her invitation to come into the Belmont headquarters and look over the literature and buy a button.

TO WIND UP PEABODY FUND.

Trustees Name a Committee to Bring About This Result.

New York, Nov. 4.—The annual meeting of the trustees of the Peabody educational fund drew together at the Waldorf Wednesday a body of men from North and South in what is believed to be the next to the last, if not the last, yearly meeting of the men who have had the trust. Steps were taken looking to the formal dissolution of the board and the distribution of the remainder of the fund.

The Peabody educational fund was established in 1867 by George Peabody, a native of South Danvers, now Peabody, Mass., who after accumulating a fortune in Baltimore went to London and established a banking business over there. During his lifetime, Mr. Peabody was the most notable of philanthropists.

A committee was appointed to consider and report whether the terms of the Peabody trust require the board now to distribute the remaining capital, and if so by what vote to reconsider and rescind the board's action of January 24, 1905, to continue to use and apply the income of the fund; the committee, if reporting in favor of the present distribution of funds, to report a scheme for such a distribution.

UNLAWFUL CHARGES
On Part of Railroads Alleged by American Coal Company.

Washington, Nov. 4.—Demanding $55,236 as reparation for unlawful excess charges to which it has been subjected, the American Coal company of Wilmington, Del., yesterday applied to the interstate commerce commission for relief from a tariff of the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western railroad.

The coal company denounced the freight rates of the Lackawanna road as based on monopoly. It declared the monopoly as maintained through the device of the Temple Iron company, the directors of which are the presidents of the railroads "constituting the anthracite coal trust."

Phillips, manager of the dynamite factory at Giant, Cal., and owner of the launch Pastime, Douglas Burrows and Howard Dexter. Mrs. G. H. NOT ON ALL MAGAZINES.
Increased Postage to Apply Only to Those with Extensive Advertising.

Washington, Nov. 4.—The plan to increase the postal charges on certain magazines does not include such publications as are scientific, literary or devoted principally to reading matter. Postmaster General Hitchcock purposes making the increase apply only to those so-called popular magazines, of which advertisements form so large a part.

The plan whereby such magazines will be made to bear a proportionate part of the expenses of the operation of the mail service is now being worked out under the direction of the postmaster general. The department, it is asserted, has no intention to curtail or impede in any way the circulation of the scientific or literary magazines, in which advertisements do not figure extensively.
