Saves an Iowa Man's Life.

The very grave seemed to yawn before Robert Madsen of West Burlington, Iowa, when, after seven weeks in the hospital, four of the best physicians gave him up. There was shown the marvelous curative power of Electric Bitters. For, after eight months of frightful suffering from liver trouble and yellow jaundice, getting no help from other remedies or doctors, five bottles of this matchless medicine completely cured him. It's positively guaranteed for stomach, liver or kidney troubles and never disappoints. Only 50c at the Red Cross Pharmacy.

MONTPELIER.

Fire Department Had a Call Early This Morning.

The fire department was called out a little after midnight this morning for a blaze in the house occupied by Vittorio Casales, caused by an overheated stove pipe. The wall and ceiling were ignited and damage was about $200 to the house by fire and to the furnishings by water. The department soon had the blaze under control.

Senator John W. Gordon of Barre addressed a large audience at the men's forum in Bethany church yesterday on the subject, "Strikes and Arbitration." He has studied the question exhaustively and his talk was much enjoyed. He is assured that arbitration is the true way to effect a settlement in the many disagreements sure to arise between employer and employee.

George Bliss Dana, a native of Vermont and a long-time resident of Montpelier, died November 5 at his home in Loomis, N. Y. While in Montpelier he was a member of the law firm of Pitkin, Putnam & Dana, and when he left this city 29 years ago, he was engaged in the same profession in the West, living in Kansas City. He was never married and belonged to many clubs. He descended from the Israel Putnam of Revolutionary fame.

Since the last meeting of the city council, there has been considerable talk over the condition of the city's finances. Mayor Dawley states there will be plenty of funds to carry the city through to February 1 if the council is careful about appropriations. The mayor is rather of the opinion that too much money has been laid out in the construction of new state roads, and the cost of listing was about $500 over that of last year.

The literary department of the Woman's club held a meeting Saturday evening at the library, which was of more than usual interest. Mrs. W. J. Tindall gave a talk on Thanksgiving scenes, and Miss Virginia Towle spoke on "Magazine Illustrations," showing many pictures to explain her words, the work of Maxfield Parrish, Harrison Fisher, Howard Pyle, Christy, Gibson, Flagg, Guerin and others.

The first meeting of the creditors of the J. Beaton of Barre, who had been adjudged bankrupt, was held Saturday and when the bankrupt was examined, no assets were found or debts proved and it was ordered that no trustee be appointed. The final meeting of the creditors of the bankrupt estate of Eusebio Fernandez of Barre will be held November 26 and the final account of Herbert J. Slayton, trustee, has already been filed. The case has been in court several years awaiting the payment of outstanding debts due to the bankrupt, who formerly ran a granite manufacturing establishment at East Barre. The liabilities amount to several thousand dollars, but it is expected that the preferred creditors will receive substantial dividends.

Statesmanship.

When the legislature has a moment or two to spare, it will pass a bill prohibiting the spread of dandelions in the editor's doorway, it will render a peculiarly gratifying personal service and at the same time hold up the present session's record for statesmanship.—St. Albans Messenger.

USUALLY ONE DOSE RELIEVES INDIGESTION

Heartburn, Gas, Dyspepsia and Headache Will Vanish and Your Stomach Will Feel Fine After Taking a Little Diapepsin.

If your meals don't fit comfortably, or you feel bloated after eating, and you believe it is the food which fills you; if what little you eat lies like a lump of lead on your stomach; if there is difficulty in breathing after eating, eructations of sour, undigested food and acid, heartburn, brash or a belching of gas, you can make up your mind that you need something to stop food fermentation and cure indigestion.

To make every bite of food you eat aid in the nourishment and strength of your body, you must rid your stomach of poisons, excessive acid and stomach gas, which sour your entire meal—interfere with digestion and causes so many sufferers of dyspepsia, sick headache, biliousness, constipation, griping, etc. Your case is no different—you are a stomach sufferer, though you may call it by some other name; your real and only trouble is that which you eat does not digest, but quickly ferments and sours, producing almost any unhealthy condition.

A case of Pape's Diapepsin will cost fifty cents at any pharmacy here, and will relieve any stomach sufferer five minutes after taking a single dose which fermentation and sour stomach is causing the misery of indigestion.

No matter if you call your trouble catarrh of the stomach, nervousness or gastritis, or by any other name—always remember that a certain cure is waiting at any drug store the moment you decide to begin its use.

Pape's Diapepsin will regulate any out-of-order stomach within five minutes and digest promptly, without any fuss or discomfort, all of any kind of food you eat.

FIRST CONVICTION FOR SKUNK THEFT

Odoriferous Ory of Claremont Boys Aired in Court for Juveniles—Leader of the Band Is Given Six Years.

Claremont, N. H., Nov. 14.—There was a pitched battle last Monday night between four boys and sixty skunks. The polecats were the private stock of Edward Cushman, and he had been carefully breeding them for a year at his skunk farm on Maple avenue.

The police allege the boys broke the lock of the gate to the fence surrounding the enclosure. The battle royal waged for more than an hour. At the finish six polecats had been killed with the clubs wielded by the boys. Five others were maimed. The police further state the six skunks were skinned and the pelts taken away by the boys.

News of the sensational fight came out Tuesday. The same day the pelts were sold to a man out of town. He heard the story and told the police who had sold him the skins. Late Wednesday afternoon four boys were arrested and arraigned in the juvenile court before Judge Edward E. Leighton. They are Joseph Bowker, Edward Lacasse, Edward Daniels and Adelaide Desrosieres, and all pleaded guilty.

Frank H. Brown, the county solicitor, recognized them as the boys who had been publicly spanked in the court recently by their parents for a misdemeanor. Probation officer Charles H. McGowan from his records found the boys were then on probation. Desrosieres bore the worst record, having been found guilty of stealing and of breaking and entering.

Thursday night Judge Leighton sentenced Desrosieres to six years in the New Hampshire state industrial school and placed the others on probation. Friday noon Desrosieres was taken to Manchester to serve his term. So far as is known, it is the only conviction on record in this state for stealing skunks.

TARIFF WAR THREATENED

Between United States and Germany in Potash Exports.

Washington, Nov. 14.—A tariff war is threatened between this country and Germany as a result of a tax imposed by the German government upon exports of potash which works to invalidate contracts involving about $27,000,000 entered into between American firms and German miners.

The state department has received urgent appeals from agricultural societies; every breed of politician; the fertilizer manufacturers and interested mercantile firms, to intervene for the protection of American consumers. When it is considered that about 2,000,000 farmers in this country are interested directly in the case for the reason that the United States is practically dependent upon Germany for its supply, buying over one-half of the empire's total production, it is realized that the German Reichstag, in imposing an export tax upon this commodity which makes it impossible for American firms to handle it under the present contract price, has cut directly into the welfare of the American farmer.

The farmer has taken quick notice of this state of affairs with the result that every diplomatic pressure is being brought to bear by the state department to effect an amicable settlement of the difficulty. Ambassador Hill aided by Representative of the Bureau of Trade Relations M. H. Davis, is directly in touch with the German foreign office. If Germany fails to accede to the demand of the American diplomats, it is highly probable that the maximum tariff will be imposed upon every German importation into this country in retaliation for the action.

The export tax upon potash which was passed by the German Reichstag on May 10, last, increases the price of potash in this country about seventy per cent. This tax was imposed after American buyers, taking advantage of a peculiar situation in the German market, had secured contracts for vast quantities of potash at a very favorable price.

For several years the production and sale of potash in Germany was controlled by a syndicate which practically dictated the output and consequently the price of potash. This syndicate expired in June, 1909. Friction between the heads of various subsidiary firms of the syndicate made it impossible for it to agree upon terms for re-establishment of the syndicate. This open competition between the companies, naturally forced potash down to a very low figure. Foreseeing that a future agreement might again place them at the mercy of the German syndicate, American buyers made large contracts with the several companies. Most of these contracts were for two years with the privilege of renewal for five years at the expiration of that time.

Just exactly what the American buyers anticipated did happen. The German producers smothered their differences and they turned to the Reichstag. Several bills to force up the price and limit the production of potash were introduced, each one aiming at the American contracts.

Finally, in June, 1910, a bill was passed imposing the heavy export tax. The American manufacturers had already made contracts for the sale of their products at prices based upon the figures of their German contracts.

HISTORIC NAMES IN COURT.

They May Be Called In Windy City Within Short Time.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 11.—The historic names that have been associated with the beef industry in Chicago for a couple of generations will be called out in a criminal court in the windy city some day next January. The month but not the day has been fixed. There will be placed under way a giant struggle in which the best resources of the government will be used to settle the question whether there is a beef packers' trust and, if so, whether any of the multi-millionaires who control it can be made acquainted with prison work and other routine.

With unlimited cash at hand, the barons will have the brightest lights in the law business in court to convince the solemn judge and frowning jury that there is no trust, or if there is one, that the eminent defendants have done nothing that would justify their banishment to Leavenworth.

A contest over technicalities will make the opening of the battle and long and weary days may pass before the actual trial of the barons is begun. Motions to quash and demurrers to indictment will be offered and are likely to be subjects of long consideration.

Indictments were returned against the packers last summer after an investigation conducted by Assistant Attorney General Kenyon, of Washington, and United States District Attorney Sims, of Chicago. The best men in the bureau of investigation of the department of justice probed the affairs of the alleged trust and produced a mass of evidence that, in the opinion of the highest law officers of the government, justified criminal prosecution. Kenyon and Sims will conduct the case on behalf of the government. National interest will center in the case for the reason that the men on trial will be the biggest, in wealth and influence, that have been attached in any trust hunt.

Several years ago a number of the packers were indicted but they escaped trial by claiming and receiving an immunity bath. Their lawyers argued that they had given full information regarding their business to James R. Garfield, who, as commissioner of corporations, made an investigation of the "big four" in the packing business, and that that information could not be used in a prosecution of the packers in court. The claim was in accordance with law and the charges against the accused men were dismissed.

THE IDEAL POULTRY HOUSE.

The ideal poultry house is difficult to describe. There seems to be nothing about the poultry business in regard to which there is a wider difference of opinion than on this point. It seems to be the general opinion that the type of house is not very important so long as it is dry, well ventilated, and the fowls have plenty of the proper kind of food. Food is the essential thing, and of course certain foods are much better than others. A. M. Brown of North Rochester, Mass., gives his opinion on this particular point in the following letter. He says: "I have fed nearly all the poultry flocks on the market, but not with such returns as Page's Perfected Poultry Food gives. My hens have an average of 80 percent to their credit. Last winter it was 50 percent. I know this food is the best on the market."

If you want to know more about this food and the best ways of using it, write to C. S. Page, Hyde Park, Vt., for his booklet, "Profitable Poultry." It will be sent free, postpaid, to anyone mentioning this paper.
