

GODDARD LOST IN FAST GAME

Italian A. C., With Girardo Pitching, the Winner

THE LATTER A NEWCOMER

Gabelloni Twirled for Goddard and He Played a Good Game—Goddard Weak in Throwing, but Otherwise Did Creditable Work.

The Italian Athletic club won its first game of the season at Goddard campus yesterday afternoon by defeating the seminary team 3 to 2. A large crowd was present and was treated to a game that teemed with many excellent features and exciting situations. All of the scoring was done in the first three innings of play, and thereafter it was an unexciting grind until the end, with both aggregations fighting hard to score.

Gabelloni did the twirling for the school team and seemed to have everything necessary to win the game. The five hits he allowed were well scattered and with good throwing support in the pinches, an extra inning contest might have been the result. The Goddard team showed much better form than at the last game, but in throwing work were noticeably weak.

Girardo, an importation from Brockton, Mass., did the honors for the Italian club and allowed the school boys only a few chances to score. At critical times, he was accorded good fielding support. He made a favorable impression on the fans and from his work yesterday may be depended upon to win more games for the Italians during the season now opened.

Fielding and hitting sensations happened quite often and at times when mistakes would have proved fatal. Tinkham, the seminary first sacker, held down that bag like a veteran, and pulled off some difficult stops. A sensational catch by Tonazzi for the Italians in the eighth was doubled over to third, retiring the side.

Priest was a tower of strength in left field for the seminary and is credited with three put outs. Craig figured in a double for Goddard in the eighth when he pulled David's hard fly down and doubled it over to Lee at second, catching Girardo. Comoli caught a consistent game and touched the leather for a single, a two and three bagger.

Goddard tallied his first run in the opening round of the contest. After Gabelloni singled to right and stole second, Lee got a life at first on Giacomuzzi's misque and Tinkham walked, filling the bases. Priest sent a slow grounder to Girardo, who felded it home, catching "Nip." With Priest at first, on a fielder's choice, William hit a grounder to Maberini, who fumbled for a second, allowing Lee to tally, but catching Williams at first. Craig retired the side by flying out to center.

The next and last run came in the third. Lee led off by flying out to Broggi. Tinkham rested on first when Tonazzi muffed his low fly after a long run, and advanced to second in the confusion. He pilfered the third sack and crossed the pan a few seconds later when Priest lifted a safe one into left. Williams followed Priest and was an easy out, Girardo to center. Craig retired the side with a fly to Tonazzi.

The nearest thing to a third score happened in the eighth inning. Lee led off with a bingle into center that settled him two bags. Tinkham was safe at first on Girardo's error and Lee went to third. Priest fanned next and was followed at bat by Williams, who lined out what threatened to be a two-sacker. After a hard run, however, Tonazzi gathered it in, shooting it home to Comoli, who doubled Tinkham at third, retiring the side.

With two men down in the first inning, the victors scored their first run. Rossi started something with a single to right. In trying to prevent him from stealing second, McLeay sent the ball far over second's head and through the center fielder's legs, allowing Rossi to tally. The second round proved fatal for Goddard for it was here that their opponents really won the game. Maberini led off by getting a life at first on Lee's inexcusable error. A wild throw over second by McLeay advanced him to second. Tonazzi followed by striking out. Giacomuzzi's safe one into right made it possible for Maberini to get the second run for the Italians.

The third and last run came a few moments later, when Giacomuzzi centered to the plate, through a passed ball by McLeay and Tinkham's bad break. Scidom after this inning did the Italians have a chance at scoring. In the sixth, Comoli, the first man up, ripped out a three bagger. Here it was that Gabelloni had a chance to show what he could do when hard pressed. The next two men in succession fled out to Priest, while the best Tonazzi could do was to hit an easy fly to pitcher.

The Italian team came out in natty new uniforms that are a credit to the club. The line-up presented is nearly

A Bad Humor Broke Out as a Small Sore—Intense Suffering for Five Years.

A Permanent Cure by Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"On getting up one morning I found what seemed to be a mosquito bite on the calf of my right leg. Soon the sore grew larger and continued day after day, becoming more and more troublesome. One physician advised poulticing, another physician told me to use a rubber bandage, but the sore grew worse until there was not a spot of healthy skin as large as a ten-cent piece between my knee and ankle. A third physician prescribed a paste, and then a specialist in scrofulous troubles treated me for a year. The sore seemed to be healing, but in a few months broke out as bad as ever. I had now been suffering for more than five years. My leg was a dreadful sight. There were places so large and deep that an egg might have been put into them. I was told the leg must be amputated.

"One day a neighbor spoke of the value of Hood's Sarsaparilla for scrofula, and I thought I might as well take it. Before I finished the first bottle, I suffered less pain and could see the edges of the sore beginning to heal.

"So I continued taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and before long the sore was completely healed and my general health perfect. I believe it my duty to tell what Hood's Sarsaparilla has done for me." Mrs. Josephine Sargent, 28 Lincoln street, Exeter, N. H.

Hood's Sarsaparilla effects its wonderful cures, not simply because it contains sarsaparilla but because it combines the utmost remedial values of more than 20 different ingredients, each greatly strengthened and enriched by this peculiar combination. There is no real substitute for it. If urged to buy any preparation said to be "just as good" you may be sure it is inferior, costs less to make, and yields the dealer a larger profit. BOMB ROUSES ITALIANS. Exploded in Crowded Tenement in New York City. New York, May 2.—Five Italian families were thrown from their beds by the explosion of a bomb in a six-story tenement house at 283 Elizabeth street on the lower East side last night. Those living on the top floor bolted down the stairs only to find the last flight torn away by the explosion, and the lower portion of the house filled with stifling smoke. The tenants rushed out on their fire escapes, where policemen from below assured them there was no further danger. The bomb was presumably a "black hand" affair.

ILLINOIS WRITS STAND. Court Denies Motion to Quash Habeas Corpus. Chicago, May 2.—A motion made by John A. Healey of the Helm investigation committee of the Illinois Senate to quash the writs of habeas corpus obtained last week by Edward Tilden, W. C. Cummings and George Benedict, was denied by Judge Pettit yesterday, when it was found the returns on the warrants for contempt of the state Senate were regular. Attorney Nathaniel O. Sears then attacked the right of the state Senate to demand the bank books in the possession of the three defendants, failure to produce which constituted the alleged contempt on which the warrants were issued.

Washington, May 2.—The Senate committee on judiciary, by a vote of 7 to 5, yesterday agreed to report the House resolution for direct election of United States senators.

All the Democrats present and three progressive Republicans voted for the resolution. They were Senators Chilton, Overman, Culberson, Bacon, Cummins, Borah and Brown. The negative votes were cast by Senators Clark of Wyoming, Dillingham, Sutherland, Brandegee and Root. An amendment offered by Mr. Sutherland providing for supervision of elections when deemed desirable, was voted down. Senator Borah, who led the fight in the last session for the measure was authorized to report to the Senate. The senators who voted against the Sutherland amendment were Bacon, Culberson, Overman and Chilton, Democrats, and Borah and Cummins, Republicans.

Following favorable action by the committee, Senator Borah reported the House resolution. Senator Heyburn of Idaho asserted that the resolution had been prematurely considered by the committee, indicating that he would call for its recommittal, but took no action to that effect yesterday.

LONGWORTH SCORES FREE LIST BILL

Says Not Even Democratic Leaders Can Tell What It Will Affect. Washington, May 2.—The House of Representatives resumed debate on the tariff at 11 o'clock yesterday with a determination to complete the discussion of the free list bill this week.

Representative Moss of Indiana, in a brief speech, declared himself in favor of the present free list bill, and convinced of the merit of the Canadian reciprocity bill recently passed by the House.

Representative Longworth of Ohio, a Republican member of the ways and means committee, attacked the free list bill in strong terms in the first speech of the day from the opposition side.

He declared the bill was vague and so loosely drawn that even the Democratic leaders could not say definitely what industries it would affect if it becomes a law. Mr. Longworth declared that Chairman Underwood of the ways and means committee could not tell him even what paragraphs of the Payne-Aldrich tariff law are affected by the free list bill.

BRIBE SCANDAL BOBS UP IN OHIO

Talk of Legislative Corruption Follows Lobbyists' Arrests

SAY THEY ARE DETECTIVES

Grand Jury Will Hear What They Have to Tell of Bribes—Ohio Stirred Over Bribery Charges—Investigation of the Charges.

Columbus, Ohio, May 2.—Members of the legislature flocked into the city Saturday, hours earlier than usual on Mondays, because of the charges made by detectives who have been here for weeks secretly investigating legislative bribery, that they have unearthed the worst scandal in the history of the Ohio general assembly. Senators and representatives, who are openly charged with having accepted money, had not reached the city early Saturday so their version of the detectives' story was not known at first hand, although several are quoted from their home towns as denying the charge. Governor Harmon is to consult with Attorney General Hogan regarding the sensational developments. Three detectives, F. S. Harrison of New York and A. C. Bailey and David Berry of Chicago, will be arraigned in police court for alleged bribery of Representative George B. Nye. Detective Harrison names four state senators with whom he had dealings and to whom he declares he paid money. The legislature met at 5 P. M., yesterday, when an investigation committee was appointed. Bailey, Harrison and Berry, the detective operatives, were later arraigned in police court. All were bound over to the grand jury.

The men were locked up for a short time until new bonds for common pleas court could be signed.

Admissions were made by the three detectives, arrested Saturday night as lobbyists in the general assembly, that they had successfully manipulated a trap for legislators suspected of participating in bribery. Five legislators were named by the detectives, including one representative and four senators. A Senate attaché also was named. It is admitted by Prosecutor Turner that a device to record conversations was placed under a couch in the hotel rooms occupied by the detectives and that incriminating evidence is in process of presentation to a grand jury. The three arrested men last night were employed by the Manufacturers' association. They admit that they offered and paid bribes for evidence against assemblymen. Their arrests were made on warrants sworn out by Dr. George B. Nye, representative of Pike County, who said they had paid him money to help the passage of a bill to admit mutual insurance companies now barred from the state, and the women's nine-hour law.

"We have stenographic copies of every word that passed between us and Representative Nye and the other men involved in this matter," said Detective Harrison yesterday. "The evidence was secured by means of a dictaphone, which consists of number of sensitive discs so constructed that the sounds spoken in a room can be carried forty or fifty feet by means of wires. I met Dr. Nye in this room. In the next room was a stenographer. A door connected the two rooms. In front of the door I placed a couch. The dictaphone was under the couch, the wires running into the next room, where the stenographer sat with a telephone receiving arrangement on his head. We have twenty members of the legislature caught in this scandal. If I had been here a week longer I would have run out of money, they were so eager for it. It will take us a week to tell all we have found out, and you mark my words that we have the proofs sufficient to convict the men accused."

THE CONFEDERATE SOLDIER.

An Incident That Marked His Spirit and Independence. In his "Glimpses of the Confederate Army" in the American Review of Reviews Randolph H. McKim writes:

"It seems to me as I look back that one of the things which stood out strongly in the Confederate army was the independence and the initiative of the individual soldier. It would have been a better army in the field if it had been welded together by a stricter discipline, but this defect was largely atoned for by the strong individuality of the units in the column. It was not easy to demoralize a body composed of men who thought and acted in a spirit of independence in battle.

"As an illustration of the spirit of the private soldier I recall an incident to this effect. Major General Gordon had organized a strong column to make a night attack on Grant's lines at Petersburg. When he was ready to move and the order to advance was given a Big Texan stepped out of the ranks and said: "General Gordon, this column can't move before 1 a. m. The men have a truce with the Yanks, and it ain't up till 1 o'clock."

"The column did not move till that hour. The private in the ranks had taken command, and the major general recognized his authority."
