THE WILD WEST AND FAR EAST. Some of the Features Which Will be Seen on Buffalo Bill's Last Trip. Varied will be the several spectacular scenes and typical incidents with the Wild West and the Far East when the allied entertainment comes to town. An Oriental spectacle will be interpreted by groups and delegations from the Far East, introducing Ross's musical elephants as the particular feature. The battle of Summit Springs, a reproduction of the historic Indian conflict in which Buffalo Bill killed Chief Tall Bull, of the Dog Soldiers, will be the principal Wild West scene, participated in by Col. Wm. F. Cody. A holiday at "T-E-Y" ranch will typify the pleasures and pastimes of the plainsmen. The world's roughriders, led in person at every performance by Buffalo Bill, no matter what the weather, will embrace experts from different nations. The Mexican vaquero will ride in competition with the Russian Cossack and the Japanese cavalrman; the Indian, the cowboy and the Wild West girl will be seen in feats of equestrian daring. There will be a delegation of English Dragoons and Irish Lancers who will be in sharp comparison with the military methods and riding exhibitions with representatives of our own U. S. cavalry. Wild riding Bedouins from the sands of the Sahara and the reckless aborigine from our own rolling prairies will ride side by side; both sides of the earth will be typified and the saddle-ship of many nations will be brought into immediate comparison. Very few items in the program of the Wild West and Far East is real and authentic. The cavalry charges, artillery drills, war dances, roughriding and Oriental pageants are accurate in every detail. The types of the Indians are the prairie homes of the red men; the trappings of the ponies, the camp outfits and every stick and stir of the equipment is just what it is represented to be. And the feature of features will be the appearance in the saddle, at every performance, of the real and genuine Buffalo Bill, the last of the great scouts, who will make final appearance in Montpelier June 14.

ONE CERTAINTY. Some Barre People Fully Realize It Now. When the back aches from kidney ills, When urinary troubles annoy you, There's a certain way to find relief; A sure way to be cured. Doan's Kidney Pills will do it. Barre people endorse this claim. Mrs. N. M. Nelson, 18 West street, Barre, Vt., says: "I hold the same high opinion of Doan's Kidney Pills to-day as when I publicly recommended them over eleven years ago. At that time I was suffering from kidney trouble, brought on by an attack of la grippe. I steadily grew worse, and the lightest household work tired me. If I were on my feet for an hour or so, sharp pains across my back obliged me to sit down. Then other symptoms of kidney complaint appeared and I was really in a bad way. I spent over one hundred dollars for doctors' prescriptions and medicines of various kinds, but as I found no relief, I became discouraged. One day my husband brought home a box of Doan's Kidney Pills from Drown's drug store and told me to try them. A few doses brought the best of results, and I continued taking this remedy until I was entirely relieved. My children have also used this preparation with splendid results, and, in view of these experiences, I advise other kidney sufferers to give it a trial." For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

SAFE AND SANE FOURTH. One Kind of a Celebration As Tried In Connecticut City. A description of a number of "safe and sane" Fourth of July celebrations that actually took place last year, appear in the June Woman's Home Companion. These descriptions are full of valuable suggestions for fathers and mothers who would like to have their children enjoy themselves on the Fourth this year without running the risk of losing legs, arms and eyes. The following paragraphs show what they have been doing on one of the streets of Hartford, Conn., for ten years: "The residents of Deerfield avenue, Hartford, Connecticut, have for about ten years celebrated the Fourth of July in a safe and sane way. There are some seventy-five families on the block, which is about a quarter of a mile in length. A committee is chosen and each family is asked for a small donation. About one hundred and fifty dollars is raised, which pays for everything. "The first event on the program, at 9:30 o'clock, is the children's parade, headed by the newest baby, pushed by his proud father; next come the other babies in elaborately decorated carriages, followed by the little girls, each pushing her doll's carriage; next, the small boys in Indian or soldier suits, and, last, the older children. All carry Japanese parasols and silk flags furnished by the committee. "At 10:30 o'clock is a baseball game in the park—played by teams picked from the east and west sides of the street. Each team is cheered by its own followers with tin pans and horns. "After luncheon comes a ball game between the youngsters and the street and a team of small boys from the next street, and after this the sports for the children, including twenty-five-yard dashes for all ages, a rope-skipping contest for the girls, a shoe race for the boys and a peanut race, with prizes for the two best in each contest. "Then the fathers and mothers have prize contests of throwing the baseball, running a potato race, tossing the bean-bag, etc. "In the evening are the great illumination and band-concert. Hundreds of Japanese lanterns are hung on cords, prepared, from tree to tree and to the porch, and each house is decorated with many beautiful lanterns. A band of twenty-five pieces renders a fine program."

THE CRACK OF THE WHIP. By SADIE OLCOTT. Copyright by American Press Association, 1911. Nell Walker had been courting me for some time, but no proposal came. One day he told me where the hitch was. "Amlability," he said, "is indispensable in a wife. How can I know before marriage that you are amiable?" "You show a great deal of good sense," I replied. "There is a great deal in what you say. Come and take up your quarters with me for a month. Then you will see me every day and often when I am off my guard. I shall be compelled to show my natural disposition."

Wins Fight For Life. It was a long and bloody battle for life that was waged by James B. Merriam of Newark, N. J., of which he writes: "I had lost much blood from lung hemorrhages, and was very weak and run-down. For eight months I was unable to work. Death seemed close on my heels, when I began, three weeks ago, to use Dr. King's New Discovery. But it has helped me greatly. It is doing all that you claim." For weak, sore lungs, obstinate coughs, stubborn colds, hoarseness, la grippe, asthma, hay fever, or any throat or lung trouble it's supreme. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by Red Cross Pharmacy.

Col. Wm. F. Cody (Buffalo Bill). THE WILD WEST AND FAR EAST. This was the climax of a long term of annoyances, and Nell could not have kept his equanimity any longer unless he had been descended from the angels. He broke loose in a profusion of Bible quotations in which the word "damnation" occurred oftener. Then he ran after Jack, vowing that he would knock every bit of spirit out of his villainous little body. "Mr. Walker," I exclaimed severely, "how can you speak so of the dear child?" "Child!" he cried. "Hellion, rather!" "Mr. Walker," I continued in a dignified tone, "I am disappointed. I supposed that your disposition was as gentle as a lamb's. I find that you are easily angered and when angered not only fierce, but vindictive. How fortunate that I should have discovered the true acerbity of your makeup! Our engagement is at an end. Had I married a man with such a temper I should have looked forward to the rest of my life with horror." These last words were the same as he had used to me, but he didn't remember them. "And had I married you," he retorted, forgetting himself in a new burst of anger, "one in whose veins flows the blood of that little viper, I would!" I walked straight into the house and shut the door after me. "Where be stayed that night I didn't know, but the next morning he came to me and on bended knee begged me to forgive him. I asked him if he wished to test my disposition any further, and he said he was quite satisfied with it. Then I forgave him. I do think men are the stupidest creatures in the world. And yet they think themselves superior to women. They have so many theories about them for our guidance. They bluster and arrogate to themselves, but they all know the crack of a woman's whip. Terrifying. The little boy regarded the pictures of the harem skirt with starting eyeballs. "Does it mean that I am to have twice as many trousers cut down for me?" he shrieked. Then he fell on his knees and prayed, as never before, that several sisters might be vouchsafed him in the future.

ENIGMA OF GROWTH. Reasons Why Persons Do Not Keep On Growing. Six pounds and a half is the weight of the average child at birth; at the end of the first year the average weight is eighteen pounds and a half, a gain of twelve pounds, and at the end of the second year the weight is twenty-three pounds, a gain of only four pounds and a half. And with each successive year the gain is less and less until maturity is reached. Why is the gain less each year? And why does it finally cease altogether? The reason is that the absorbing surfaces inside the stomach and intestine do not and in the nature of things, cannot grow proportionately to the growth of the body as a whole. During the first year of growth the child's body becomes approximately three times as large as it was at birth, but the interior of the stomach and bowel of the child at the age of one year is not even twice as large as it was at birth, let alone three times as large. Yet all the nourishment which supplies materials for growth has to be absorbed by the membrane which lines the stomach, and especially, the small intestine. It is, therefore, plain that growth of the body as a whole must gradually subside as the tissues to be nourished gradually approach a size at which their demands balance the utmost supply of nutrition taken up by the stomach and intestine. Another reason why we gradually cease to grow is that with the advance in years we are usually called upon to expend proportionately more energy in the business and pleasures of living. The infant which grows so rapidly lays most of the time asleep, leaving most of its nourishment for growth. Experiments show a curious difference between the amount of food necessary to increase any of the lower animals the same number of pounds during the period of growth. It was found that the amount for all lower vertebrate animals was practically the same, but that the amount for man was six times as much. Also experiments prove that in lower animals 34 per cent. of all the food consumed is utilized for growth, while in man only 5 per cent. is so utilized. Although adult men are on the average larger and heavier than women of the same age, girls between the ages of 12 and 15 are larger than boys of that age. Finally, recent discoveries indicate that the thyroid and other ductless glands mysteriously control growth.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Each of the chief organs of the body is a link in the Chain of Life. A chain is no stronger than its weakest link, the body no stronger than its weakest organ. If there is weakness of stomach, liver or lungs, there is a weak link in the chain of life which may snap at any time. Often this so-called "weakness" is caused by lack of nutrition, the result of weakness or disease of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. Diseases and weaknesses of the stomach and its allied organs are cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. When the weak or diseased stomach is cured, diseases of other organs which seem remote from the stomach but which have their origin in a diseased condition of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition, are cured also. The strong man has a strong stomach. Take the above recommended "Discovery" and you may have a strong stomach and a strong body.

Given Away.—Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, new revised Edition, is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of mailing only. Send 21 one-cent stamps for the book in paper covers, or 31 stamps for the cloth-bound volume. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Buswell's Book Store, 32 State Street, Montpelier. Empire O'Day's Daring Decision That Deprived New York of a Pennant. "Henry O'Day, the National League's dean of umpires, has shown his bravery on many occasions, but never more conspicuously than he did on the day when he called Merkle out on the polo grounds when he made his famous failure to touch second base," writes Hugh Fullerton in the June number of The American Magazine. "O'Day had been in the same play at Pittsburg two weeks before and had overlooked it. When Bridwell made the hit that should have won the pennant for New York and thousands of frantic fans leaped upon the field to congratulate the Giants, O'Day saw his duty. He saw Merkle run to the clubhouse and, throwing down his protector, he ran down into the diamond. He saw Evers hold the ball on second base and above the tumult he called Merkle out. Five thousand men were swarming madly around O'Day and the Chicago players, partly understanding the situation. Men struck at him, struck Chance and struck Piester—yet O'Day, shouldering his way along, showed two men aside to get his protector and walked through the crowd to the dressing room. It was declared O'Day would never dare umpire on the Polo grounds again—and police were sent to protect him. The management did not understand American love of fair play. The crowd cheered O'Day. "O'Day's bravery on that occasion was more noticeable because he could have shirked his duty without blame. It was Emalie's decision, yet O'Day, seeing Emalie lost in the crowd, shouldered the responsibility and made the decision in the fact of threats from thousands of angry men."
