PLAYED A SHELL GAME.
A Parliamentary Joke by a New South Wales Solon.
Australia once had a great public joke, which was played openly in the New South Wales state parliament by a member who afterward became attorney general.
A bill had been introduced to protect native flowers from ruthless destruction. The honorable member opposed and sympathized. He informed the introducer of the bill—a somewhat pompous gentleman—that he heartily approved. But why these invidious distinctions? The bill protected—and he quoted all the botanical names in the bill.
But why were other flowers equally deserving neglected? Why were—and here he recited off a long list of the Latin names for cockles, mussels, oysters, etc.—why were these sweet flowers to be blighted in their bloom by being plucked by any prowling excursionist who wanted something in his buttonhole?
The introducer of the bill promptly offered to extend the list to include these. So half the shellfish on the coast, including the periwinkle, were added to the flowers worthy of protection.
The officials of the house discovered the hoax next day and set it right. But the joke was too good to be kept quiet, and all Australia chuckled at the expense of the pompous legislator.—London Answers.

DON'T MIND BIG NOISES.
But Slight, Rustling Sounds Make Giraffes Tremble With Fear.
Among the curious characteristics of the giraffe is its strange indifference to loud noises as contrasted with its peculiar "scarciness" with reference to slight sounds. Noisy sounds, like that of a man walking near in hobnailed boots, the giraffe does not appear to notice, but should it be approached by a woman whose skirts give out but the slightest rustle the sound thereof causes the giraffe to start up with pricked ears and eyes distended in fear.
Officials of a zoological institution, situated near a canal, tell of a curious instance of this peculiarity of giraffes. After a terrible explosion of gunpowder on a barge on the canal the keepers were astonished to observe that the giraffes took little notice of the tremendous blast. They jumped to their feet, but almost at once lay down again when they found that nothing extraordinary had happened in their inclosure. But were a keeper at night to creep along outside that inclosure in his stocking feet the queer beasts would exhibit such terror that one would imagine them about to dash themselves in terror against the fences.
Giraffes fear the lurking foe, and a big bang scares them hardly at all. To them the faint, rustling sound is a token of the greatest danger. In that respect they are like deer.—New York Press.

The work of putting in the granite tablets in the walls on each side of the entrance to the city building was begun this morning by workmen from Barclay Bros. plant. The tablets are plain polished granite and were cut at the Barclay plant several months ago. Before putting in the tablets the granite trimmings around the entrance to the building were given a much needed cleaning. It was intended when the holes in the walls were left, to have the names of the war veterans of Barre on the tablets, but this was never accomplished and last fall, the city council decided that the "holes" ought to be filled and the property committee was instructed to have plain polished tablets cut and put in. If it was ever decided to have the veterans' names on the tablets they could be cut in at any time.
