FOUR TRACKS CHOKED UP

Flames Broke Out in the Debris, but Fairfield's Fire Department Soon Removed That Additional Cause for Horror.

Fairfield, Conn., June 7.—Although wreckers worked since midnight, the tracks of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad at this place were still blocked this morning by the wreckage which was caused by the collision of four freight trains shortly before midnight, when five persons are known to have been killed and seven were injured.

Just how the accident happened has not been definitely determined, but it is believed that one of two east-bound freight trains stopped on account of a hot box and that the other freights crashed into the standing train.

The failure of an engineer to observe the signal is given by the officials of the railroad as the cause of the wreck. In a statement, which was issued this noon, the officials said:

"Based on the present information at hand, the man responsible for starting the wreck was killed."

The financial loss of the wreck is estimated at approximately a quarter of a million dollars. The wreck was one of the worst which has ever occurred on the New Haven system.

Quincy was also declared to be the choice of the granite cutters for their headquarters for the coming five years by the council, its selection having been made in the same manner as the choice of Duncan for secretary-treasurer.

ORANGE COUNTY BAR PAYS ITS TRIBUTE

To Memory of Joseph K. Darling, Who Was One of the County's Best Known and Loved Attorneys.

Chelsea, June 7.—At the opening of the June term of Orange county court yesterday, with Judge Fred M. Butler presiding, the trial calendar of thirteen cases was reduced to four by the entry of settled and discontinued.

The annual meeting of the Orange county bar association was held last evening when the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Pres., Nelson L. Boyden of Randolph; vice-pres., Rodney M. Harvey of Montpelier; clerk and treasurer, Hale H. Darling of Chelsea; executive committee, George L. Stow of Chelsea and John C. Sherburne of Randolph.

His first work in Barre is the inspection of the scales and measures in the stores, after which he will turn to the miscellaneous users, and then the farmers themselves.

The inspector has run across merchants who candidly admitted that they knew their scales were wrong but that they did not know how to correct the difficulty.

But that scales can be used for a great length of time and still be kept accurate is shown by the inspection of a set of scales in Franklin county recently. The owner had used the scales for 43 years, and when the inspector came around the user cheerfully submitted to the usual test, with the result that the scales were found to conform to the standard to a very close degree.

That we pay our heartfelt tribute to his memory and both as an association and in our individual capacity as members of the bar we cherish the memory of the true, upright, gentleman who has departed from us and we believe that the remembrance of his life and work will be his enduring monument.

President Boyden, as one of the older members of the bar, who had been in practice side by side with the deceased for a long term of years, was, like Mr. Harvey, another of the older members of the bar, especially affected, and spoke feelingly during the memorial exercises.

The meeting, which was largely attended by citizens of the town and county, was adjourned until the evening of the first day of the December term of court when memorial services will be held in memory of the late Samuel M. Gleason of Thetford, who has been a member of the Orange County bar for about a half century.

TWO FATALLY HURT ON RIDE

Mr. & Mrs. Hiram C. Smith of Hardwick Died Today

ALFRED HOOKER IS HURT

Party Were Out Riding in Automobile Last Sunday when Machine Went Off Low Bank and Turned Turtle—Other Occupants Escaped.

Hardwick, June 7.—Mr. and Mrs. Hiram C. Smith died this morning as the result of injuries received in an automobile accident last Sunday, and Alfred Hooker is in a critical condition with an injury to his back as the result of the same accident, while Mrs. Hooker and daughter Mildred were the other occupants of the machine, escaped injury.

The deaths of Mr. and Mrs. Smith occurred within a half hour of each other. Until yesterday Mr. Smith was not thought to be hurt seriously; but then he began to throw up blood, indicating internal injury.

The party were taking a drive in the Ford automobile which Mr. Hooker purchased only three weeks ago and were proceeding slowly toward East Hardwick, being about two and a half miles from this village.

In leaving the road the automobile turned turtle and landed bottom side up in the field, with Mr. Hooker and Mrs. Smith pinned down beneath the machine and the others thrown clear of it.

Mr. Smith was a farmer and laborer, and Mr. Hooker is a rural free delivery mail carrier. The escape of Mrs. Hooker and her daughter from serious injury is quite remarkable.

SOME FALSE WEIGHTS FOUND IN BARRE

State Inspector Is Going Through the City and Vicinity, Changing Incorrect Scales and Detecting Wrong Measures.

A state inspector of weights and measures, sent out under the new state law which was planned to regulate the scales and measures used in Vermont, has been working in Barre since Monday, and will be in this vicinity for some time to come, or until his present task of inspection is completed.

His first work in Barre is the inspection of the scales and measures in the stores, after which he will turn to the miscellaneous users, and then the farmers themselves.

Authorities were summoned and it was found that he was suffering from alcoholism and had evidently had 24 hours. He was taken to the hospital and it was found that the woman was in a half-starved condition and paralyzed, she, too, was carried there.

The inspector has run across merchants who candidly admitted that they knew their scales were wrong but that they did not know how to correct the difficulty.

But that scales can be used for a great length of time and still be kept accurate is shown by the inspection of a set of scales in Franklin county recently. The owner had used the scales for 43 years, and when the inspector came around the user cheerfully submitted to the usual test, with the result that the scales were found to conform to the standard to a very close degree.

WOMAN RELEASED IN ADULTERY CASE

Judge in Montpelier City Court Did Not Think There Was Evidence to Bring Criminal Proceedings.

Mrs. Margaret Bedard, charged with adultery, was given a hearing in the Montpelier city court this forenoon which resulted in her being discharged by Judge Harvey on the grounds that there was not evidence sufficient to hold her.

It was at the last session of Washington county court that Judge Miles, presiding, advised the state's attorney's department to investigate the case following the taking of testimony in the double divorce case of Joseph Bedard from Margaret Bedard, in which the husband was granted the divorce.

In his petition, Bedard named Johnson as co-respondent. Before the divorce suit was tried, Bedard brought a suit against Johnson for alleged alienation of his wife's affections, and this suit is still pending.

PITIFUL SITUATION IN MONTEPELIER HOME

Aged Woman and Her Son Both Taken to Hospital. Their House on Berlin Street in Miserable Condition.

One of the worst cases ever brought to light in Montpelier was accidentally discovered yesterday at the home of Edward H. Hartwell on Berlin street. For fifteen years he has lived there with his mother. Several years ago the latter suffered a shock, since which time she has been unable to use her left side.

With the advent of the seasons, the conditions became worse and instead of bringing home food at night and doing the necessary work in the house, Hartwell, who is a polisher, frequently came home intoxicated and his mother, who is over 90 years old, sometimes sat by the window, huddled in rags, and cried herself to sleep.

Authorities were summoned and it was found that he was suffering from alcoholism and had evidently had 24 hours. He was taken to the hospital and it was found that the woman was in a half-starved condition and paralyzed, she, too, was carried there.

TO ISSUE NEW CALL

For the Pastor of the Presbyterian Church of Barre.

Following the extending of calls to several candidates for the vacant pastorate of the Presbyterian church, a meeting of the body was held last evening to take steps toward securing an incumbent.

The church has been without an incumbent since the resignation of Rev. J. Dugald Mackenzie, which took effect the first of the year. Since that time, a number of ministers have preached here in the capacity of candidates.

The Glidden reciprocity tour has been postponed until fall because the required number of new cars is not in readiness. The rules require that 25 cars of each type entered be actually completed at the time of entry and some of the manufacturers could not get so many 1917 models ready at that date.
