MONTEPELIER'S REST ROOM.

Council Passes Ordinance Prohibiting Leaving Autos in Street.

The Montpelier city council had a long meeting last night and took up several matters of importance, among them being the adoption of an ordinance forbidding the leaving of an auto on the streets for over ten minutes, unless the driver remains with it, or anywhere except at the right hand curb. The penalty is not less than $10 or more than $50. Alderman McKenna asked for an application of road oil on upper Barre street and it was voted to dress the road on that street to the Berlin line, as the state highway commissioner had agreed that the state should pay for half the oil.

There was quite a discussion over the employment of convict labor by the street department. Superintendent Roberts said he had used one man from the jail three days, which was the extent to which the street department had employed that kind of labor. Both sides of the question had supporters and it was voted to give free labor the preference.

The city hall lawn is being graded and no one seemed to know where the money is coming from to pay it. The statement given one in May showed that $300 was tied up in grading expense and there was over $12,000 debt. There was considerable discussion over paid and unpaid bills in connection with the city hall, but no action was taken.

Dr. Anna E. Kelton appeared for the woman's club to advocate the turning over of one room in the new hall as a rest room to be in charge of the club and the board of trade. It was finally voted to set aside the room on the first floor, now occupied as the water office, for the rest room. A matron will be placed in charge.

E. E. Joslyn appeared for Brooks post in regard to a memorial room in the city hall and it was voted to appoint a committee from the aldermen to confer with one from the post in regard to the matter. On motion of Alderman Thomas, it was voted to give the contract for lighting the streets to the Corry, Deavitt & Frost company for one year at four cents a kilowatt hour.

A petition was presented, signed by a large number of taxpayers in ward six, protesting against the building of any junk shops in that vicinity. It is said that the limits prescribed by the city ordinance include the premises on which the Gould shop was burned. The matter will be investigated. Fred E. Gleason was appointed city grand juror. Many bills were ordered paid, licenses and permits granted and various matters were considered.
