China cracked—and let a constitutional government through the orifice.

President Taft gave the country the utmost time in which to become thankful and the turkey the longest time to get fat. November 30 is almost December.

The new superintendent of the Vermont Anti-Saloon league is a "confirmed optimist" and at the same time a "thoroughbred Vermonter," according to his own confession at Bennington Sunday. There, he cannot believe that Vermont is going to the dogs.

A loaded rifle and a vibrating automobile make a dangerous combination, as noted by the strange death of a Corinth physician last Saturday. Hunters who may be planning to go into the woods after deer next month should either leave their automobiles behind or unload their rifles.

The St. Johnsbury Caledonian finds that there are one hundred and fifty more men employed in the leading industries of its town at the present time than there were last year when the census was taken. Allowing that the smaller concerns have not suffered loss, which is scarcely likely under these conditions in the chief industries, St. Johnsbury village must be making great strides in population, as a fair proportion of the one hundred and fifty workmen must be newcomers in town.

New Yorkers were privileged to see seven miles of fighting iron floating on the bosom of the Hudson river this week. It was a moving picture show worth witnessing—this splendid display of the U. S. navy. Moreover, it must have added something to the sense of security of the New Yorkers, who realize all too well that their port would be one of the ports most likely to be attacked in case of war. Hence, the great display of offensive and defensive strength served a useful, and at the same time entertaining, purpose.

A football fatality is recorded out in Helena, Montana; but it is rarely this season that we read of such occurrences. Those that are recorded, together with the serious injuries, generally come from obscure teams which have not the proper medical supervision before entering a contest. In these days of insistence that players on the varsity teams be able to show normal physical condition before they are allowed to participate in hard-fought contests, the casualties of college football are diminishing considerably. And, too, thus far there has been little, or no, popular hue and cry against the game.

According to a cartoon printed in yesterday's St. Albans Messenger, that city is so nearly surrounded by water that there is almost no excuse for drinking anything else up there; yet it seems that St. Albans hasn't enough water to meet the demands. With Lake Champlain on one side, Fairfield pond, Lost pond and Silver Lake on the other, and flanked by the Missisquoi and Lamoille rivers, not to mention also a body of water known as Franklin pond, St. Albans is in a very fortunate position as regards possible sources of a city water supply. A great many other municipalities would be glad to have such possibilities as this.

TAKING TOO MANY CHANCES.

During President Taft's stay in Chicago on Sunday, he was placed in an automobile, and the automobile was driven at high speed about the city, sometimes as high as forty miles an hour and at lesser rates through more crowded sections of the city. It is said that in instances the streets were so closely crowded with vehicles that the president's car had trouble in getting through. All of this may have served as a Sunday morning breacr for the president, but those in charge of the president's visit were not careful enough of the chief executive's safety, trusting too much in the reliability of the vehicle in which he was riding. If there had been an accident—well, that would be another story. Besides, the Chicago people ought to have been proud enough of their city to permit him more than a whizzing glance as he was whirled around.

OUR MOTIVES ASSAILED.

"Thus far," says a Washington county contemporary, "no great opposition to the re-election of State Treasurer Edward H. Deavitt has been manifest." Thus far this statement is true, but if people in other portions of the state get the impression that Washington county is trying to capture too many offices, the re-election of State Treasurer Ed. Deavitt, a representative in Congress, a supreme court judge, a superior court judge, a state treasurer, superintendent of education, commissioner of agriculture, insurance commissioner, commissioner of public printing, a prospective candidate for speaker of the House of Representatives and a receptive candidate for governor, not to mention numerous minor office holders and scores of loyalists who are willing to chime around the State House for a consideration.—Brattleboro Reformer.

Please, kind sir, do not accuse Washington county of being greedy after offices. If, now and then, a few of our many worthy citizens be selected to carry along the ship of state, it should not be used as an argument against those remaining capables who might aspire to office also or who may be dragged forth from modest concealment by an appreciative Vermont public. We admit that Windham county is under a temporary eclipse as regards residence of office holders; but we still know you were there, Windham, without the plaint of our esteemed contemporary in the thriving metropolis of the county. Besides, Vermont elects men rather than counties. One of these days Windham may come back.

CURRENT COMMENT

An Honest Lawyer.

Vermont might do much worse than call John W. Richmond to the attorney generalship. Not only is he the noblest work of God, an honest man, but we believe he is an honest lawyer, much rarer bird.—Fair Haven Era.

The New American Cardinals.

The number of Roman Catholics in America would have justified long ago the creation of one or two new American cardinals. The selection of Archbishop Farley of New York is no surprise, but outside of the church that of Archbishop O'Connell of Boston cannot be said to have been generally anticipated. Archbishop Ireland has many friends among Protestants as well as Catholics, who will regret that his claims have not been recognized at the Vatican. How far this result is due to a certain celebrated epistle of the Roosevelt administration it is difficult to say. We fancy, however, that Mr. Roosevelt's influence at Rome has been entirely negligible since he canceled an engagement to see the pope when he visited that city a year ago last spring.—Springfield, Mass., Republican.

Years of Suffering

Catarrh and Blood Disease—Doctors Failed to Cure.

Miss Mabel F. Dawkins, 1214 Lafayette St., Fort Wayne, Ind., writes: "For three years I was troubled with catarrh and blood disease. I tried several doctors and a dozen different remedies, but none of them did me any good. A friend told me of Hood's Sarsaparilla. I took two bottles of this medicine and was as well and strong as ever. I feel like a different person and recommend Hood's to any one suffering from catarrh."

"Dearest," he whispered, "we are coming to this tunnel." "Don't you dare to kiss me!" she threatened. "No, dear; it's lighted by electricity." "Oh," she cried, "how provoking!" Philadelphia Inquirer.

Pure Food.

What a comfort to the nation is a pure food ministration. On an up-to-date and scientific line. When a purchaser is able Just by looking at the label The spurious to distinguish from the fine.

Yet the decorative posters Of the historic boosters, With adjectives all fervidly aglow, Must remind us on occasion, As we yield to their persuasion That the label doesn't guarantee the show.

And the foliage narcotic That exerts a sway despotic O'er so many, as in smoke it drifts away.

Is so splendidly embellished That at sight it must be relished For the beauty of the bands and boxes gay.

"Alta preciosa fina, Colorado concertina." With a picture of a Spanish dancing star— "Buena herba, vincedora, Don Quixota, grandiflora"— But the label doesn't make a good cigar. —Washington Star.

Beautifying the City.

"Mister," inquired Dollar Rhodes, "would you contribute a dollar to help beautify your thriving city?" "What's the idea?" "A dollar will buy me a ticket to the next town."—Kansas City Journal.

One More Unfortunate.

Take her up tenderly, Lift her with care; Skirt fashioned slenderly, Too strong to tear.

So, when she tripped a bit Where it was rough, Though the thing ripped a bit, 'Twasn't enough.

Down she went, tottering Into the dirt, Ferrently muttering: "Blame such a skirt!"

Loop up her tresses, Great Scott, what a thatch! Her many hued tresses, While wonderment guesses Why don't they match?

Fashioned so slenderly, Come, gentlemen, Take her up tenderly; Start her again! —Puck.

In the Grammar League. To-day I scan the sporting page To learn how goes the great world's series.

My interest it doth engage. The game is one that never wearies. Lo! Christy Mathewson is here. In bold face type describing clearly How Marquard pitched the leather sphere— His style is fine—or very nearly.

Next must I read Hugh Jennings' tale. How Connie Mack McGraw novit, How Marquard let Frank Baker wale. A fast one that the groove just fitted.

The game is thus turned inside out—I learn on just what straws depended The victory—beyond a doubt. Hugh Jennings' style is almost splendid.

Ty Cobb, who hits the ball a mile And is a whirlwind on the bases, Relates in very vivid style Just how uncertain are such races. He tells me why some tricks went wrong.

And why some other tricks succeeded; That Ty can push a pen along In big league form must be conceded.

In baseball there's no doubt they're stars. For bringing home the motorears There's no one that excels our Ty. But when I read the dope they write I get a feeling of fatigue; Their average drop from sight, They can't hit in the Grammar league. —Detroit Free Press.

SEVERAL GO TO PRISON.

Sentences Imposed in Chittenden County Court Yesterday.

Burlington, Oct. 31.—Michael Rafter, who has served the best part of his life behind prison and jail walls, in Chittenden county court yesterday afternoon pleaded guilty to an information for breach of the peace and was sentenced to serve not less than two years nor more than 25 months in the house of correction at Rutland. "I thank you," said Mr. Rafter, after sentence had been imposed.

Some time ago Charles Gilbert, a young colored man, became drunk in Winooski and was arrested. While being led from the jail to the court by Chief of Police Horton of that town, Gilbert escaped. Later he gave himself up, saying that he had run away to secure money with which to pay his fine for intoxication.

In county court yesterday afternoon, Gilbert pleaded guilty to an information for breaking jail, and was sentenced to serve not less than 13 nor more than 15 months in the state's prison at Windsor. The court explained to the respondent that the crime was considered a most serious one in Vermont, but that there were extenuating circumstances in his (Gilbert's) case.

Daniel H. Brown, the colored barber, who several weeks ago tried to carve a Winooski citizen with a knife during a drunken brawl, yesterday pleaded guilty to simple assault and was sentenced to serve not less than 14 nor more than 24 months in the house of correction. Brown was indicted by the grand jury for assault with intent to kill and murder, but he was allowed to change his plea by State's Attorney Shaw.

WATERBURY.

Mrs. E. F. Palmer, jr., and Miss Annie Dorothy Palmer left this morning to be guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Palmer in Dorchester, Mass.

Rev. W. L. Boicourt held the close attention of the members of the Twenty-Five club last evening, when he spoke on "The Scouting Movement." Mr. Boicourt took the scout master's course in the training school at Silver Bay and is very successful with the boys in his own church.

That Waterbury is thoroughly alive to the advantages of a railroad from North Troy to this place was shown yesterday, when nine automobiles, with colors flying, carried thirty-nine gentlemen to Morrisville, where a meeting was held in the town hall. W. J. Boyce, H. C. Whitehill and B. R. Dummer spoke in the interests of the movement, while representatives were also present from Eden, North Troy and Stowe. In two weeks there will be a meeting here when, in addition to the towns represented yesterday, it is hoped, Waltsfield, Warren and Montpelier will send men. There is much enthusiasm over the project and Waterbury will show her share in the matter.

A Business Delegation.

We can understand the feeling of the Barre Times and the Brattleboro Reformer that T. N. Vail is not such a dyed-in-the-wool Vermonter as others who might suitably be chosen to represent our state at the Republican national convention, but we cannot quite picture ourselves in a condition of unconsciousness at the thought of what Mr. Vail might do or leave undone were he chosen as one of the delegates. It certainly cannot be a drawback that the Vermont delegation to a convention which is national in its character should include a man whose horizon has not been and are not always limited to the White mountains on the east and the Adirondacks on the west. With equal certainty and especially at this time, when the attitude of the national government towards business is one of the uppermost thoughts in the minds of the people, it can be no drawback to have in the delegation from each state men of affairs and of business experience. For these reasons, especially the last, there would be fitness in Mr. Vail's selection. Whether it be the choosing of delegates to a political convention or the nominating of candidates for office, from president of the United States down, lawyers, editors, college professors and sociologists are not now at a premium.

For like considerations we beg to suggest the names of Mr. Fletcher and Mr. the last, there would be fitness in Mr. Vermont as Senator Page to head the delegation, there need be no fear that Vermont will not be represented, even if Mr. Vail be of the number. It would be a business delegation. Nominating a national ticket may not be the only important transaction at the convention.—Windsor Journal.

An Ideal Opportunity.

Not very often does opportunity knock twice at one's door with quite the allurements and promise of its original guise. Shakespeare put it a little differently, when he said: "There is a tide in the affairs of men, Which, taken at its flood, leads on to fortune; Omitted, all the voyage of their life Is bound in shallows and in miseries." Why does not the above apply well to the present opportunity of Vermont to nominate and elect a governor of the first rank, who does not seek the office, but who would accept it, than whom no man in the state is of higher culture and intellectual attainments, of broader gauge statesmanship, or of greater ability and wider experience in business.—Hon. Tungsten a Remarkable Mineral.

The mineral tungsten (the name meaning heavy stone) has been known for many years, but only comparatively recently has it become of economic importance. The most important use, according to Frank L. Hess, of the United States geological survey, and the one which makes tungsten mining on an extensive scale possible, is as an alloy for tool steel. Lathes using tools made from tungsten steel may be speeded up until the chips leaving the tool are so hot that they turn blue, an operation which would ruin the temper of high carbon steel. It is stated that about five times as much can be done with lathes built for such speed and work as can be done by the same lathes with carbon steel tools. From 16 to 20 per cent of tungsten is ordinarily used in lathe tools. The melting point of tungsten is exceedingly high—5,376 degrees F.

Tungsten also has an important use in making incandescent electric lamps, crucibles for electric furnaces, and various other articles.

Platinum Production Small.

The entire production of crude platinum from placer mines in the United States for last year, as well as for 1909, came from the states of California and Oregon. This production in 1910, according to Waldemar Lindgren, of the United States geological survey, was 300 Troy ounces, valued at $9,507, a decrease of 282 ounces and $3,296 compared with the figures for 1909.
