

Here's Something New

No more ashes to lug. No clumsy pen to spill dust and dirt on the kitchen floor.

The Glenwood Ash Chute

solves the problem. It is located just beneath the grate and connected by a sheet iron pipe straight down through the kitchen floor to ash barrel in cellar. No part is in sight. Not a particle of dust can escape. Just slide the damper once each day and drop the ashes directly into the ash barrel.

The Dust Tight Cover

to barrel is another entirely new Glenwood idea and is very ingenious. The Ash Chute is sold complete with barrel and all connections, as illustrated, at a moderate price to fit any cabinet style Glenwood. This is only one of the splendid improvements of the Plain Cabinet Glenwood Range without ornamentation or fancy nickel, "The Mission Style" Glenwood. Every essential refined and improved upon.

Up-To-Date Gas Attachments

This Range can be had with the latest and most improved Elevated or End Gas Range attachments. It has a powerful hot water heat or for gas use a Large Copper Reservoir on the end opposite fire box. It can be furnished with fire box at either right or left corner as desired. When the Ash Chute cannot be used an improved Ash Pan is provided.

FIND POWDER RICHESON ROOM

Police Believe It is Important Piece of Evidence

COUNSEL NOT YET CHOSEN

According to H. C. Collins, He Saw Richeson and the Linnell Girl in South Station on the Day of Her Death.

Boston, Nov. 6.—Contrary to expectations, Rev. C. V. T. Richeson's letter of resignation was not read at yesterday's service in his former church at Cambridge. A special meeting will consider it to-day.

The prosecution has found in Richeson's rooms a capsule containing a white powder, which is at Harvard chemical laboratory for analysis.

This counsel is one of the articles of the police from their search of the room at the Carter house in Cambridge, formerly occupied by Clarence V. T. Richeson, indicted for the murder of Avis W. Linnell.

Locks of hair from loving maidens to the debarbaric pastor, a score of letters, postcards and photographs were also among the probable exhibits in the case, taken in the search of Richeson's room.

The uncertainty which has prevailed as to the personnel of the counsel for the defense of Rev. Clarence V. T. Richeson was renewed Saturday by an announcement that John L. Lee, the Lynchburg (Va.) lawyer, who left Boston Friday after a stay of several days, had withdrawn from the case. In addition, Congressman Robert O. Harris, who has been advisory counsel for Richeson and who verified the announcement regarding Attorney Lee, declared that he himself was "withdrawing from the case as fast as possible," compelled to do so on account of his congressional duties.

It was further affirmed that Richeson's leading counsel would be a Massachusetts lawyer, who has not yet been selected, however.

Mr. Richeson was not arraigned in the superior court to-day to plead to the indictment against him, as was expected, as Congressman Harris has asked District Attorney Pelletier to defer the arraignment for a few days, and his request was granted. New evidence, purporting to show that the minister and Miss Linnell were together on the day she took cyanide of potassium, is alleged to have been furnished the prosecution by Herbert O. Collins, a Brockton man, who believes he saw the two together at the south station shortly after 4 o'clock the day of Miss Linnell's death, October 14. Collins claims to have known both the girl and her companion well.

FOUGHT TO THE DEATH WITH HORNS LOCKED

Two Acres of a Maine Farmer's Field Were Torn Up by Bucks During Battle Royal.

Kingman, Me., Nov. 6.—Two bucks which reached Bangor Saturday were shot by J. W. Shannon of Kingman. Wednesday morning one of J. W. Shannon's men, Harry Delate, came running to the house from a field he was ploughing with the information that two bucks were fighting down there with their antlers interlocked.

Mr. Shannon took his rifle and with his wife and family and his father—who, by the way, is ninety-three years old—went to the field. The two bucks were still there, in an exhausted condition.

After watching the unusual sight for a few moments Mr. Shannon shot the animals. The larger of the two weighed 202 pounds and the smaller 190.

About two acres of the field had been torn by their hoofs, which proved that they had been engaged in their combat for a long time. The antlers were so firmly locked together that the men found it necessary to use cant-dogs to separate them. In this process the fine set carried by the larger buck became broken.

MRS. VERMILYEA TAKES POISON

Woman Suspected of Several Chicago Murders Thought to Be Dying.

Chicago, Nov. 6.—Mrs. Louise Vermilyea is believed to be dying of poisoning. The widow, who is being held under guard at the result of the discovery of arsenic poisoning in the liver of Arthur Bissonnette, policeman, while eight other mysterious deaths are being investigated by the police, is said to have taken rat poison.

Dr. F. A. Van Arsdale, the woman's physician, purchased an antidote at a drug store near the Vermilyea home at 416 East Twenty-ninth street late Saturday, after he had been summoned hastily to attend her. Capt. P. J. Harding and Assistant State's Attorney Frederick Burnham summoned another physician and drove rapidly to the Vermilyea home.

A leather handbag containing three small bottles, one marked chloroform and others containing a dark fluid, was found by the police Saturday in a closet of the room that had been occupied by Bissonnette at the home of Mrs. Vermilyea. Capt. Harding and his detectives were unable to ascertain the contents of the bottles, which will be turned over to Prof. Walter S. Haines, who analyzed the viscera of Patrolman Bissonnette and found seven and one-half grains of arsenic.

Joseph Burres, who was attorney for the defense in the trial of Dr. Haldane Ambrose, and has been retained as counsel for Mrs. Vermilyea, said the discovery of the bottles was proof of his client's theory that Bissonnette committed suicide.

IN WOMAN'S REALM

Interline a quilt with a cotton blanket and you will find it much easier to tie cheaper and just as warm.

A pad made of old newspapers and put under the ironing sheet works nearly as well as an old blanket and can be thrown away each time.

Going over a straw matting once a year with a coat of varnish will amply repay one for the time and expense involved, both in looks and the extra wearing qualities of the floor covering.

Baking soda, dissolved in warm water is one of the best dirt removers known to the housewife. If there are dirty spots on the woodwork, some soda can be rubbed on the spots and it does not injure the paint.

Onions, when cut, quickly absorb impurities in the air, and therefore they act as disinfectants. But this should be remembered—the impurities they take up make them unfit for food, so a cut onion should be used at once or thrown away, never saved for flavoring something to-morrow.

The Old Fashioned Girl.

The old-fashioned girl who used to lean up against the family ironing and make her own bed is getting about as hard to locate as a bar of non-floating soap in a bathtub. You can ask a girl of the 1911 model to rinse the dinner dishes or hang out the wash, and she will give you a look that would curdle the contents of a Mason jar. It has not so nowadays that all a girl from our first families wants to do is to feed fudge into her system and try out a consignment of hobbie skirts. The girl who isn't allowed to entertain a houseful of spindle-legged suitors and beat a department store piano into a state of coma six evenings a week while ma looks pleasant and does up the work, is as hopelessly outclassed in the social whirl as a Percheron draft horse in the free-for-all trot. No girl is considered thoroughly up to date nowadays unless she knows the first name of every travelling man who makes the burg and indulges her young dream by carrying on a perfumed correspondence that would choke a business college. The girl whose head is full of 50-cent fiction and the next bargain sale of gauze hose will never have to shoe a line of eligible bachelors off the front stoop with a broom for fear that somebody will drag her up to the altar in a tulle veil and a rented limousine. Yet some people wonder why men don't marry.—Howard L. Rann, in Globe and Commercial Advertiser.

Concentrating One's Thought.

I have been thinking to-day of the undercurrents.

No, I do not mean the undercurrent at the seashore that endangers so many lives.

But I mean a dangerous undercurrent just the same.

The undercurrent of thought, is what I refer to.

You are seated at your desk attending to some task. Theoretically, all your thoughts are upon your work. Actually only your top thoughts are with your task. For all the time there is a steady undercurrent of thought of other matters going on in your mind.

Sometimes the undercurrent consists of a review of work done; sometimes it relates to the good time you are going to have to-morrow; often it is pondering upon your next season's wardrobe; again it is concerned with something that is going on outside the window. In my own case, I find that it is most frequently a cogitation upon what I am going to do next.

If you think that only volatile and lightning-like people thus divide their thoughts, please observe yourself the next time you sit down to some task. If you cannot discover any undercurrent in your mind, you may consider yourself quite above the class for which I write—Lincoln's friends—the average folks.

Now, perhaps you want an explanation of my description of the undercurrent of thought as dangerous. Perhaps you are asking, "What harm can it do if I do have an undercurrent of thought? What objection is there to my thinking of two things at once if I can? What is there dangerous about it?"

The danger, my friend, is simply to your capacity to do the best work of which you are capable and to do it in the least possible time.

That undertow carries something out to sea, just as surely as the ocean undertow does. And that something is your concentration.

To be sure, there is no harm in your thinking of the work you have done, or the work you are going to do, or of to-morrow's pleasure, or your next season's wardrobe. They are innocent, or even praiseworthy subjects for thought, except when they are thieves. And in this case, that is what they are, since they steal your thoughts from the subject to which they belong.

If the volume of thought which goes into that undercurrent could be combined with the volume of thought which is upon your work, don't you see how much more swiftly and correctly and thoroughly your work would be done.—Exchange.

BABY'S CHEEKS WERE SORE

Very often a stubborn eruption will break out on a baby's face and the mother is at her wits' end to know how to cure it. Mrs. C. S. Hoffman of Minot, N. D., says: "Since our baby's birth she has had a bad breaking out on her cheeks, but after using Comfort Powder it is entirely healed." Every baby ought to have Comfort Powder so that it would be free from chafing, irritations and rashes. Comfort Powder soothes and heals the skin and keeps it firm and well. The genuine bears E. S. Sykes' name.

My Passport

By PETER RUDINE.
Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

Of all countries in the world that foreigners had better keep away from Russia is first. I happened when there some years ago to be a well known man among my own countrymen. I had represented my country at several foreign courts, and any member of any American embassy abroad would know me at the mention of my name.

After an interview with the American minister concerning certain matters of diplomacy with which I had been charged from Washington I went to my hotel, intending to leave the next day for Berlin, thence on to Paris, London and New York. I had left my passport to be vised, and it was to be sent me the next morning. It was brought me by a clerk in the American embassy, a young Russian who had lived in the United States and spoke and wrote English. When he handed it to me I noticed that it seemed to be studying my personal appearance. I glanced at the passport to see that it was all right, then, looking up at the young man, saw that he was still studying me.

"I seem to interest you," I said tartly.

"I beg your pardon, sir. When we deliver a passport we are responsible for its getting into the right hands."

With this he bowed and withdrew.

The next day I boarded a train at the station. As soon as I appeared a man in the uniform of a railroad official took me to a carriage and put me into a compartment. There were six

AFTER 7 YEARS SUFFERING

I Was Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Waurika, Okla.—"I had female troubles for seven years, was all run down, and so nervous I could not do anything. The doctors treated me for different things but did me no good. I got so bad that I could not sleep day or night. While in this condition I read of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and began its use and wrote to Mrs. Pinkham for advice. In a short time I had gained my average weight and am now strong and well."

—Mrs. SALLIE STEVENS, R. F. D., No. 8, Box 31, Waurika, Okla.

Another Grateful Woman.

Huntington, Mass.—"I was in a nervous, run-down condition and for three years could find no help. I owe my present good health to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Blood Purifier which I believe saved my life."

"My doctor knows what helped me and does not say one word against it."

—Mrs. MARI JANE BATES, Box 134, Huntington, Mass.

Because your case is a difficult one, doctors having done you no good, do not continue to suffer without giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. It surely has cured many cases of female ills, such as inflammation, ulceration, displacements, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, and nervous prostration.

MURDERS HIS TWO CHILDREN.

Ludwig Jaeger of Winthrop Then Kills Himself.

Boston, Nov. 6.—Drawing a revolver when he met his two young daughters on a street in Winthrop early Saturday afternoon, Ludwig E. Jaeger, a book agent, shot and killed the children and then turned the weapon on himself, inflicting a fatal wound. Witnesses of the tragedy rushed to the aid of the little ones, who, with their father, were removed to the Metcalf hospital. The children, Ollie, five, and Anita, four, died within a short time. Jaeger, it was found, had fatally wounded himself and died two hours later.

The cause of the shooting has not been determined by the police, but is thought to be domestic trouble. Mrs. Jaeger divorced her husband in Boston last year and she remarried. Jaeger was born in Germany 30 years ago, but lived in Chicago for several years. When Jaeger went to Boston a week ago he secured lodgings at the home of Mrs. A. N. Moore at Winthrop. This house is near the residence of Jaeger's former wife, who went to Winthrop to live with her second husband, Frank L. Straubinger, and her two children last July. Mrs. Moore says that Jaeger informed her that he was an assistant to the Spanish consul at Chicago and that his father was a government officer in Germany.

Jaeger had visited his children several times during his stay in Winthrop and always appeared to be in a pleasant frame of mind. Saturday he called to see the little girls, gave them each a dollar and some candy and then took them for a walk along the shore. There the shooting occurred.

Mrs. Straubinger was prostrated when informed of the tragedy. It is stated at Boston that she secured her divorce on the grounds that Jaeger had threatened her life many times. Letters found in the man's pockets showed that his act had been premeditated and that his body be cremated and that the ashes be cast upon the waters from some ocean liner bound for Germany.

BOTH PARTIES VERY CONFIDENT.

Republicans Say Victory is Certain and Democrats Make Like Statement.

Boston, Nov. 6.—There was confidence in the camps of both the Rhode Island Republicans and the Democrats Saturday night, when the final week of the state campaign was closed. The Republicans claimed an overwhelming victory for the entire state ticket, headed by Gov. Aram J. Fother, while a "very handsome plurality" was claimed by the Democrats for Lewis A. Waterman, the candidate for governor.

The campaign of platform speaking will not close until to-night. "The Republican state ticket will be elected by largely increased pluralities," said Gen. Charles A. Wilson, head of the Republican organization, in a statement Saturday night. "The general assembly is safe by very comfortable majorities in both branches."

Judge Frank E. Fitzsimmons, chairman of the Democratic state central committee, made this statement: "We are confident of the election of Lewis A. Waterman by a very handsome plurality and hope to pull the rest of our state ticket through by a low plurality. We anticipate a majority in the House, but do not expect to carry the Senate."
