Resolutions.

Whereas, the grim messenger of death has removed from our number the much loved brother, Ernest Riddell, which causes a gloom to prevail, and as we deplore the great loss, we desire to pay homage. Be it therefore Resolved, That by the removal of our brother from the lodge, which seemeth untimely, yet the Grand Master above, who knoweth best, says it is well; but his presence as a true and well-tried brother in Summit lodge, No. 104, F. and A. M., will be sadly missed. Brother Riddell's Masonic record was an enviable one. No member more fully realized his duties in the order or made a more honest endeavor to discharge those duties with fidelity. Brother Riddell was a charter member of Summit lodge, No. 104, F. and A. M., instituted Nov. 25, 1893, and was appointed senior steward, in which office he served with honor to himself and pleasure to the craft. Our brother was true to every trust, faithful to every obligation and an honor to the fraternity that honored him. At the time of his death he was worshipful master of Summit lodge, having been elected in April; and he it again Resolved, That these resolutions be spread upon the record of the lodge and printed in the Barre Daily Times, and a copy be presented to the afflicted family of our deceased brother.

A DRESS THAT I HATED TO PART WITH

It had fitted well and was unusually becoming, but goodness knows I wore it so many times my dear women friends must have thought I did not have anything else. I got a package of Dy-o-la dye of a little darker shade than the dress was, then I changed the trimmings a little and dyed the whole dress at home. The result was great. Just as if I had a new dress. Go you, sister, and do likewise.

LABOR NOTES OF WIDE INTEREST

State Federation Gets Reply From Attorney-General Regarding Alleged Violation of Vermont's Factory Laws.

Some time ago the Vermont State branch of the American Federation of Labor had under consideration the question of enforcing the present child labor law, insofar as it relates to the employment of children under sixteen years of age, who, it was reported, are running swift planing and wood-cutting machines in the lumber mills of Burlington, Vt. They also gave careful consideration to the part of the act which declares that all girls under eighteen years of age employed in stores, factories, etc., must be provided with chairs or other suitable facilities for resting upon, when not otherwise employed in the course of their daily labors. The federation came to the conclusion that the best thing to do in the matter was to lay it before the governor of Vermont for an opinion. In a deputation who met the governor in a brief conference were informed that the best course was to write him a letter of complaint and he would see that the whole matter was laid before the attorney-general for investigation. Acting on this advice, the federation instructed its secretary to write the governor of certain violations known to them, and maintain them until the matter to the attorney-general. A few days later the attorney-general, through his secretary, informed the secretary of the federation that if they would forward the names of the parties violating the statute, with witnesses of fact attached, he would see that the state's attorneys in their respective counties would be immediately authorized to investigate and see that the law was enforced. Now, to make a long story short, here is just where the hitch comes in. The concerns who are violating the law are quite easily got at, but for the state to expect employees of the concerns to act as "witnesses of fact" is really something that all fair-minded citizens will object to. The federation claims that as long as there are no factory inspectors in Vermont, it falls to the attorney-general, aided by his assistants, the county attorneys, to visit places to be named by the federation, to the end that justice will be done our children in the enforcement of this humane law.

Organizer Hugh Frayne of the American Federation of Labor reports that after a conference lasting six weeks between the representatives of the different organizations employed in the paper-making industry and the representatives of the International Paper company, a joint agreement was reached on May 14 for a period of two years. The agreement provides for an increase of wages approximating $250,000 per year. All overtime is to be paid for at the rate of time and one-half. A minimum wage is established for all of the mechanical trades and an effective apprentice system is incorporated. The agreement further provides for arbitration as a final determination of all grievances and disputes.

Heavy penalties for failure to provide adequate life-saving apparatus on ocean-going steamships are provided in a bill introduced in the House by Representative Webb of North Carolina. Sufficient life-boat accommodations for all passengers and crews of ocean-going vessels of 3,000 tons or more are made imperative by the measure, which provides a fine of $10,000 or ten years' imprisonment as a penalty for each violation.

What is known as the uniform child labor law has been passed by both houses of the Arizona state legislature, and has been signed by the governor.

In Portland, Ore., a minimum wage bill, which will permit no man over 20 years of age to work as a clerk, mechanic, railroad man, bookkeeper or factory hand for more than ten hours a day nor more than six days a week, for less than $2.50, has been prepared and the State Board of Labor will be placed in the ballot in the coming November election. It is also proposed that women are not to be employed a greater period of time for a minimum wage of $1.65 per day. Children under 16 are not to be permitted to labor for less than 15 cents per hour for not more than six hours a day, and then only in harvest time. Farm work is placed in another class, with $1.65 per day, with board not to be charged in excess of $4 per week.

It is reported that our local bakers are meeting with some difficulties in the enforcing of the overtime clause in their new agreement. I am reliably informed that one of the merchant bakers has refused to pay the overtime rate and some of his employes have left on their own. Let it be amicably adjusted between both parties and the bill signed for the next three years lived up to in spirit as well as deed.

All suits brought against Organizer Emmett T. Flood of the American Federation of Labor, on allegations growing out of the button workers' strike at Muscatine, Iowa, have been dismissed at the request of the county attorney.

Just a word at this time to the mothers, sisters and sweethearts of the union men of Barre and vicinity: Some time ago the retail clerks signed up a new agreement and among the articles signed was a clause that all stores be closed on Monday evenings at 8 p. m. Now the clerks employed in the dry goods business, when the store closes at 8 o'clock, have all the goods to pack up and file away, in fact done for the preservation of certain fabrics, which takes them the better part of the next hour. Now here is the point where you can help our girls, my friends. All customers who are inside the store at 8 o'clock, when the door closes, have to be served that night, and I am informed from reliable authority that it is quite common for the last customer to get out at 8:30. When you know that those girls have to be tucked away every night on the counters, should it not be your duty to make your purchases a little earlier in the evening and through the day if possible? Just think this over, and I am sure our girl clerks will consider it a much merited favor.

Coal in Winter - Gas in Summer

Crawford Ranges

You need a coal range in Winter for kitchen warmth and for continuous hot water supply, but in Summer when you want a cool kitchen and less hot water a Gas range is the thing. You get both in the Crawford Combination Range and you get the best of each.

The Crawford Gas Ovens are safe; explosions are impossible. No dangerous pilot light; the oven door has to open before gas can be lighted and the Damper opens automatically with the oven door. In the End Ovens there is an extra set of burners at the top for broiling, which save the cook much stooping.

No coal range equals the Crawford with its money and labor saving improvements;—Single Damper (patented)—Scientific Oven heating flues—Ash Hod (patented), etc.
