Now will someone please take a few moving pictures of Uncle Sam chasing the alleged moving picture trust?

Ever gallant to the ladies, Nat Goodwin would even let a rowboat come up and hit him as he endeavored to carry the lady's note to land. Nery Nat!

The Democratic candidate for Orange county senator against Hale K. Darling of Chelsea having withdrawn, Mr. Darling will have a forlorn time of it being elected. Still, there is no doubt of the result before Hazen P. Sanford withdrew and became a candidate for town representative from Randolph.

The St. Johnsbury Caledonian hears "from a source that seems reliable" that Theodore Roosevelt selected E. W. Gibson of Brattleboro as the Progressive party's candidate for governor of Vermont, which may or may not account for Mr. Gibson's declaration to run for state auditor on the ticket after being nominated at the Burlington convention. If Mr. Gibson was disappointed, he is cloaking the disappointment well by going on the stump for the Progressive candidates.

One of the best promises of success for the new agricultural school at Lyndon is that nearly all the twenty-five young men who attended the institution last year are going back to the farms to put into practice that which was taught them. Then, too, that the work of the school is not sectional or provincial is indicated by the fact that the students were enrolled from every county in Vermont. Doubtless in reasonable time the new state agricultural school at Randolph Center can show as good a record.

The hue-and-cry that is being started over the arrest of Norman Selby, better known as Kid McCoy, once a famous American pugilist, who was arrested in Europe on the charge of complicity in the theft of several thousand dollars' worth of jewelry, is far beyond the importance of the case. It is even asserted that the United States government will be implored to interest itself in the case of McCoy, on the ground that the Belgian government has not shown sufficient evidence to hold the man for extradition from England. We suggest that McCoy's friends send over a fleet of black dreadnaughts, headed by Jack Johnson, and see what result there will be. If war there must be over this McCoy matter, let class war for class.

NEARLY TIME FOR SCHOOL OPENING.

Inasmuch as the public schools of Barre will resume their sessions in two weeks, or more it behooves the parents to plan to have the children in their places on the opening day. The long vacation is about ended, and the children have had time enough in which to enjoy themselves unmindful of books and school discipline. There will be particular need that all the children be present at the opening of the school year, because of the fact that a new official will be in charge of the schools, and he will have plenty of details incident to a new position to look after without the added bother of school children straggling into school days and perhaps weeks after the opening. Therefore, parents should make great effort to have their children start the year on time.

To those outside of Barre who are seeking a good public school system, crowned with a high school of merit, the Barre schools can be commended. Already the merit of the high school is recognized over a wide section of the state, and pupils are enrolled from many towns. Doubtless as many tuition pupils as usual will be enrolled during the coming year; possibly there will be more. Those who contemplate entering the

CURRENT COMMENT

Decline of a National Party.

The melancholy showing of an entire national convention of the people's party comparisons, a year or so from now, that in the elections of 20 years ago this party cast over a million votes, received 22 votes in the electoral college and elected several congressmen, besides a senator and governor or so. As a radical reform party, especially in its platform, it had points in common with Mr. Roosevelt's Progressives. As a popular movement it was based on the wants of the farmers and the radical labor men, while the new party represents a more heterogeneous mass of the radically inclined, with the personal followers of their candidate. Of course, the prestige of Mr. Roosevelt, both as a former president and particularly as one who has been in a position to make powerful friends, gives the Progressive party a unique position. With this element discounted, there will be opportunity for interesting comparisons, a year or so from now, with the party of "Sockless Jerry" Simpson, "Bloody Bridles" White, the wonderfully bearded Peffer and Mary Elizabeth Lease. Women orators were a notable part of the old Populist outfit.—Springfield Republican.

Brooks and Farms.

"I have found it at last—the thing I have been dreaming about during all these years of city bondage; the beauty that opens up vistas of busolic beauty and benediction; a rift of blue sky through the smog and smoke of the strenuous strife." And it has every thing on it, except the brook murmuring lazily through the meadows and kicking up its silver heels over pebbled pathways. But you can't have everything on a small farm that some one else laid out in the days when city dwellers were not looking for babbling brooks. If I had had the parceling out of farms, I would have put one, for the pink-footed ducks to frolic in and snap their long bills over juicy bugs and worms. Perhaps the great and good Husbandman did not have enough brooks to go round, and I must worry along without a brook. Perhaps I will make one some of these days. In the meantime, I advise all my neighbors who have babbling brooks to take them in at night.—Tremont A. De Weese in Suburban Life Magazine for August.

Poverty For Sale.

Alcoholism, like tuberculosis and insanity, is a disease. Whether its victims are more responsible, individually for their afflictions than the insane or consumptives may be a question. Probably they are, in the exciting cause of their undoing, strong drink, does not often assert its mastery until after many warnings have been disregarded. If the tubercle bacilli, which cause the medical fraternity and mankind in general such anxiety, could be obtained only in solution over a bar, or a club or restaurant, it would seem as if the disease of which they are exciting the cause could be more easily stamped out. This, however, is doubtful. If money could be made by the manufacture and sale of the liquid poison, through advertising and the clever exploitation of appetites and social instincts, it may well be that sanitarians would have an even harder time than now when the perpetuation of that particular disease is at least free from direct commercial gain.

The anti-saloon crusade is amply justified. We need, however, a wider and more fundamental movement, one in which temperance fanatics—radicals and the brewers' associations—conservatives, might conceivably unite, a movement, however, which neither radicals nor conservatives as such shall dominate, but which shall be under the direction of public-spirited physicians, business men, philologists, statesmen and especially statesmen who are willing to survey patiently and thoroughly the ravages of inebriety, to consider it as a disease, as a weakness, as a vice, as a crime or even, if they can bring themselves to do so, as the desirable emotional outlet which Professor Muensterberg prefers to religious revivals or other forms of emotional excitement. On the basis of such a survey, appropriate preventive and remedial measures could be devised. Surely we have not yet exhausted the effective means of dealing with this omnipresent cause of poverty.—Edward T. Devine, in The Survey.

GRIEVANCES AND ERRORS.

Judge Scott replied that the non-appearance of Mr. Braley didn't necessarily mean that he had property not taxed. He continued by saying that the state tax commissioner's object was to squeeze out as much tax money as possible and raise a revenue for a luxurious legislature to spend. It was just a matter of principle, said the judge, and if the assessors can assess $5,000 without tangible evidence then there is no limit to the amount they can impose by assessment. The original motion that "the amount of taxes paid under protest be rebated" was again stated and here the question arose as to whether the assessors could vote on the issue. The statutes showed that they could vote on all matters of abatement. The motion was put to voters, declared lost, and Mr. Braley's case was dismissed.

Many Names Duplicated.

City Clerk Mackay then read a list of 75 names, which he explained had been either duplicated or "triplicated" on the list. A discussion arose as to how these perennial errors could be avoided, and the responsibility seemed to rest on the canvassers. It was argued that more care exercised on the part of the young men with the slips would reduce these mistakes to a minimum. On the motion of Daniel J. Sullivan, taxes charged against the duplicated names were abated.

The clerk then reported on the following cases, and a motion to abate was carried: Nathaniel Bond, veteran of rebellion; John Cruekshank, deceased; James Duran, blacksmith minor; James M. Fraser, deceased; James Grant, killed in accident on C. V. railroad; Frank Machis, real estate not owned for seven years; Rodney L. Mills, crippled; Robert Philip, minor; Howard H. Reid, student and soldier; Cora A. Royce, rebats on $1,000; Harvey Rouelle, veteran of rebellion; Gilbert Small, 76 years old; William M. Stewart, 76 years old; Marcello Calogangi, deceased; John Carson, inability to work; William Cruekshank, bedridden for nine months; R. Clearley, removed to Waterbury; Eva Blake, shares in Granite Savings bank; Alex. Bird, deceased; James Dawley, residence, Quincy, Mass.; L. H. Farnsworth, abated as last year; A. J. W. Greig, removed to Barre Town; George B. Milne, rebats on 10 shares in Barre Savings Bank 3 Trust Co.; Lester A. Richardson, not a resident of Barre; N. J. Roberts, error in listing machinery under two heads; Trow & Holden Co., error in listing property under two heads; Mary Reid, abated as last year; G. H. Anker, poll tax, deceased; Florence L. Smith, guardian over two children, error 800; P. J. Carrigan, error.

On account of illness, Fred A. Chaney and Harry Dingwall asked for extension of time in paying taxes. On the motion of Judge Scott, their taxes were abated. Tax accounts of Alex. Simpson and George L. Ross were abated on account of the petitioners' illness.

A communication was read from E. A. Drown, asking for rebate on $6,000 of garage assessment and $500 of Main street property. The letter stated that the garage was in unfinished stage of construction April 1, and that it represented an investment of only $8,000 at that time. It was listed at $14,000. The list on the Main street property had been increased because of the rear addition and the petitioner believe that such action was unjust in view of the fact that he paid a considerable sum as his share as an abutting landowner on the river-bed project. Assessor Ribley said he believed that the garage building represented an investment of more than $8,000 April 1. Assessor August M. Rossi said that the assessors took particular pains in looking over the garage property. On the motion of C. W. Melcher, the petition of Mr. Drown was dismissed.

The last action of the board was taken when the sum of $216.25 was abated from the tax of Howland Bros. & Cave, and the company was allowed to pay its taxes without extra costs. The action was taken on the recommendation of the assessors. At 11:30 o'clock, the board adjourned until August 28, when it will reconvene in the court room at 7 o'clock in the evening.
