Is the Negro Fairly Treated?
"Is the Negro Having a Fair Chance?" Booker T. Washington will answer the question in the November Century in an article that is remarkable for its candid, dispassionate quality. He contends that his race has its best opportunity in America, and that none is so fair to the negro as the American—this despite many adverse influences, which he enumerates. No article of recent years deals with the race problem so calmly or with such evident desire to weigh carefully all facts.
Together with Dr. Washington's article there also appear in the November Century three striking examples of the negro's progress in art, music and poetry. An engraving of H. O. Tanner's painting, "The Annunciation," is shown, also the full score of a song composed by Will Marion Cook, and two poems of much merit by James D. Carothers.

TUBERCULAR GERMS

flourish in the most unexpected places and quickly attack a body weakened from colds or general debility, but if the lungs are fortified with SCOTT'S EMULSION their progress can be prevented and often overcome. SCOTT'S EMULSION is used in tuberculosis camps because its highly concentrated nourishment builds strength and resistive-power faster than disease destroys. It assimilates without taxing digestion, and contains no alcohol. Absolutely nothing equals SCOTT'S EMULSION to strengthen the lungs and drive out colds and coughs.
