THE FALL OF MONASTIR.

Was European Turkey's Second City in Importance.

London, Nov. 19.—Any idea that the Turkish government may have had or benefiting by continued resistance must be shattered by the news of the fall of Monastir. In the capture of that important town the Servians took three Pashas, including the commander-in-chief, Zekki, 30,000 men and 47 guns, thus achieving the greatest individual success of the war.

Monastir was the second city of importance in European Turkey. It was Turkey's stronghold in Macedonia and by its downfall Macedonia passes completely out of Turkish hands.

What part the Greeks played in the capture has not yet been ascertained. It is known that the Greek army was marching to the assistance of the Servians, and it is supposed that the Greeks were able to cut off the Turkish retreat to the south.

The Servians naturally will be elated at this victory, which outlines the capture of Saloniki and must have a great moral effect on the future course of the war.

Another of the strange silences which have been characteristic of this war appears to have fallen over Constantinople, from which city only brief dispatches have been received, telling of the resumption of the Tehtaltja battle and that the sultan has made a fresh personal appeal to the European sovereigns to intervene for the termination of the war.

Quite as little may be expected to come of this appeal as of the previous attempt at mediation by the powers.

ON TRIAL FOR MURDER OF SEVEN YEARS AGO

Mrs. Elsie Hobbs Raymond Charged with Killing Mattie Hackett in Readville, Me., in 1905.

Augusta, Me., Nov. 19.—Seven years after the murder of Mattie Hackett, who was found strangled to death at Readville, Mrs. Elsie Raymond was to-day placed on trial, charged with the crime. A verdict is expected before Thanksgiving.

Mrs. Raymond, who has been at liberty under bail since June, arrived in this city from Lewiston at 2 p. m. yesterday and will probably remain with relatives during the trial. She is accompanied by her little daughter, Evelyn, her husband, Bert Raymond, and his brother, Warren Raymond. Mrs. Raymond expressed herself as confident of acquittal.

The court officers believe that the jury will be selected quickly and that the state will open its case in the course of the day. The defense will file a request that the jury be given a view of the locality where the crime was committed, and the state will not oppose. The 40-mile trip will be made by automobile over some exceedingly rough roads.

Newspaper correspondents, photographers and telegraph linesmen besieged the county courthouse yesterday. The grand jury room will be given over to the telegraph companies.

London, Nov. 19.—The nations of the Balkan confederacy to-day signified their willingness to treat for terms of peace at the request of the Turkish empire.

The stillborn defense encountered by the Bulgarian line of fortifications and the enormous slaughter that would be necessary to pierce them at the point of the bayonet, with every prospect that their ranks would be decimated by cholera before they attained much success, doubtless proved to be the deciding factors in inducing the conquerors to refrain from pressing home their victory.

Simultaneously with the dispatch to the Turkish grand vizier of the agreement to appoint peace plenipotentiaries, the allied Balkan nations notified the European powers of the step taken, thanked them for their offer of mediation and added that mediation was not necessary as the Porte had announced itself directly to the Balkan states, who would treat with Turkey without outside intervention.

Sofia, Bulgaria, Nov. 19.—The allied nations to-day assented to the Turkish proposal to discuss the terms of an armistice and eventual peace. The reply sent to the Turkish request says that the Bulgarian government, after an agreement with the allied cabinets of Serbia, Montenegro and Greece, informs the Porte that plenipotentiaries have been appointed with instructions to arrange with the commander-in-chief of the Turkish armies the terms of an armistice and subsequently to proceed to the conclusion of peace.

London, Nov. 19.—For the purpose of burying the dead, an eight hours' armistice between the Turks and Bulgarians at Tehtaltja was agreed to to-day, according to a news agency dispatch from Constantinople.

Rieka, Montenegro, Nov. 19.—The combined army of Serbia and Montenegro troops to-day occupied the town of Alessio near Adrianople. Although having only three thousand inhabitants, Alessio is of great importance as the chief source of supplies for the besiegers of the garrison of Scutari.

Less Severe Fighting at Tehtaltja.

Constantinople, Nov. 19.—The artillery fight along the Tehtaltja lines was less violent yesterday than Sunday, according to the report of Nazim Pasha, the Turkish commander-in-chief. The firing, however, occurred along the whole line of fortifications. The commander-in-chief reports: "We repulsed the enemies' infantry, who tried to advance at some points. Among the wounded arriving at Constantinople yesterday was General Mahmud Lukhtar, who was hit in the leg by a bullet.

DARING MAN SAVED SCORE

But at Least Three People Lost Their Lives

IN LOS ANGELES HOTEL FIRE

Oscar Jones, Elevator Operator, Ran Car Up and Down Until Forced to Desist by Smoke and Flames—Trapped People Jumped.

Los Angeles, Calif., Nov. 19.—Three persons are known to have been killed and about twenty were injured in a fire at the St. George hotel, which started at midnight last night. The flames broke out on the second story of the structure and were drawn up through the elevator shaft. The fire spread so rapidly that the people on the fifth and sixth floors did not receive warning in time. Those who were killed jumped from the upper floors of the hotel.

Many had miraculous escapes from death, and a score or more people owe their lives to the heroism of Oscar Jones, who ran the hotel's single elevator. Jones continued to make trips to the sixth floor until the smoke and the flames made a further trip impossible.

ONE MAN KILLED IN A HOUSE FIRE

Patrik Hawes Dead at Charlestown, Mass.—A Boy Plays the Hero and Rescues a Baby.

Boston, Nov. 19.—Five-year-old Fred Dolan carried a 4-months-old child down two flights of smoke-filled and flame-lighted stairs to safety last night in a fire in a lodging house in the Charlestown district, which cost one man his life and caused probably fatal injuries to two other persons. Half a dozen other children dropped out of windows on the first and second floors to the arms of people below. None was injured.

The dead man was Patrik Hawes, 45 years, of Halifax, N. S. Morris Powers, 18 years, son of the proprietor of the lodging house, and Ellis Ellensburg, aged 23, a lodger, are seriously injured. Little hope for their recovery is held at the relief hospital where they were taken. The cause of the fire is unknown. The building was destroyed, but with small monetary loss.

DENIAL BY GOMPERS.

That He Expressed Satisfaction Over Berger's Defeat.

Rochester, N. Y., Nov. 19.—The question whether the American Federation of Labor is to adopt industrial unionism in place of its present policy of recognizing except in certain instances, the autonomy of trade or craft organizations will be discussed to-day. Near the close of yesterday afternoon's meeting the committee on education reported on a resolution for the adoption of industrial unionism where practicable, and where not practicable, a close federation of trade unions for unified action.

The resolution was introduced by John Mitchell, Dunbar McDonald, John P. White, Frank J. Hayes, William Green and J. H. Walker, of the United Mine Workers of America, and is as follows: "Whereas, the lines are being more closely drawn between capital and labor, and

Whereas, the capitalists of the country have organized the National Manufacturers' association and other large employers' organizations, compact cohesive bodies, having for their purpose the destruction of the trades union movement, and realizing that in unity there is strength, therefore be it,

"Resolved, That in order to combat these compact and powerful organizations of employers and labor, this convention adopts and endorses the plan of organization by industries instead of by crafts, which often divides the forces of labor and that the offices of the American Federation of Labor be instructed to use every effort to bring this about and that they visit the different labor conventions and use their influence to mould sentiment along these lines.

The majority of the committee desired to substitute for the resolution the autonomy declaration of the Seranton convention in 1901, which favored the retention of the policy of recognizing and maintaining craft or trade autonomy in so far as it was compatible with modern organization of industry. By special order of the convention discussion of the resolution was set for to-day directly following the discussion of the influence of the Sherman anti-trust law on the labor movement.

An hour of the afternoon session was given over to an address by Lewis T. Bryant, on the protection of factory employees from accident and fire.

Resolutions adopted at the afternoon session condemned the so-called "private detectives," said to be used to break strikes in West Virginia; favored the development of state universities along the Wisconsin extension plan; commended the movement for wider use of school buildings and urged their use for labor meetings; commended the work of the national conservation congress and approved the participation by American Federation of Labor offices in its proceedings.

Just before the close of the afternoon session President Gompers read a clipping from a newspaper in which he was quoted as expressing satisfaction at the recent defeat for re-election of Victor Berger, the Milwaukee Socialist congressman, and said:

"The report is absolutely untrue. I have not directly or indirectly said or intimated that I found satisfaction in the defeat of Mr. Berger."

Washington, Nov. 19.—Philip M. Henry of Louisville, Ky., a freshman at Georgetown university, was killed last night while playing pranks on his fellow students. He was climbing on a narrow ledge of the building, peeping in windows, when he slipped and fell. His neck was broken.

ARREST SUSPECT IN MONTREAL.

Eugene Delarge Accused of Robbing a Burlington Man.

Burlington, Nov. 19.—The Montreal police last evening arrested Eugene Delarge of Winooski in accordance with instructions from the local police, who will charge him with robbing Joseph Gerot of $102 last Thursday night on North Winooski avenue. A telegram announcing the fact was received at about 11 o'clock from Acting Chief of Detectives Carpenter.

Gerot's tardiness in making his complaint to the police was responsible for the man's escape in the first place, as he did not notify them until Delarge had left the city. When the investigation started, it was soon learned that the man who bought the wine and who was seen with Gerot at the car barn and later at a house on First street was Delarge. The police were set on his trail following the robbery at a house on Battery street. He was seen to have a large roll of bills at this place.

How he got out of the city was a more difficult matter to learn, as he was not seen to leave by either boat or train. It developed, however, that he left in an automobile and spent one day in St. Albans. From that place he was traced to Montreal.

TRAIN JUMPED RAILS NEAR MIDDLEBURY

Only One Passenger on Rutland Railroad Train Complained of Injuries as Result of Last Evening's Wreck.

Burlington, Nov. 19.—Running at the rate of about 40 miles an hour the New York section of the Green Mountain flyer, due in Burlington at 6:40 o'clock, was wrecked last evening shortly after six o'clock, a quarter of a mile before the Spring Grove camp ground, six miles from Middlebury. Fortunately the cars were precipitated to the east of the track. Had they gone to the west, it would have meant a plunge down a 50-foot embankment. Only one passenger of the 25 complained of injury, and he was Gen. E. L. Bates of Bennington, whose back was wrenched. There were several physicians on the train. Dr. B. H. Stone and Dr. C. F. Dalton of this city, Dr. F. M. Rogers of Vergennes and Dr. Wright of Brandon, but the services of none were required.

The Boston section was not attached as it was late. The train passed through Middlebury about on time with Conductor and Engineer Edward Sweeney of Rutland in charge. The train consisted of three milk cars, a combination smoker, mail and baggage car, a passenger coach and a Pullman. Of the 25 passengers four were women and three were children.

The engine and the last car, the passenger coach, were badly damaged. The tender lay between the tracks. The first milk car rolled on its side to the east, and the second car lay directly across the track. The combination coach and the passenger car ploughed the roadbed for several hundred feet, so that the ties were a mass of kindling wood. The passengers were greatly shaken up, but not injured.

The Boston section of the train which was late, was employed in taking the passenger car back to Middlebury with some of the passengers. A train was made up in this city and sent down to bring the remaining passengers to this city, arriving at 11:45 p. m. A wrecking train was dispatched to the scene from Rutland, and will probably arrive this noon to-day, it was said last evening, to clear the track. The actual damage to the cars was not great, the running part being mostly torn to pieces.

Various reasons for the accident were given. The engine is one of the heaviest on the road and there is said to be a soft spot in the track. The milk cars were light, and it is thought they jumped the track. The engine and the last car, a passenger coach, were the only ones to remain on the track.

In the Pullman dinner was being served, and when the shock came crockery flew in every direction, but fortunately did not hit any one. Glass from the broken windows also flew, but nobody was cut.

Some of the people in the train were Dr. C. F. Dalton, Dr. B. H. Stone and Mrs. Lottie E. Stowe of this city, Mrs. F. M. Thral and child of Rutland, coming to this city to join her husband, Gen. E. L. Bates and W. B. Sheldon of Bennington, Dr. S. S. Eddy of Middlebury, Dr. F. M. Rogers of Vergennes, Robert Haley of Rutland, and Dr. Wright of Brandon.

Salem, Mass., Leather Workers Suffocated Last Night.

Salem, Mass., Nov. 19.—Two men, both leather workers, were suffocated last night in a small fire in their bedroom in the Hayes block, at the corner of Boston and Watson streets. The men, Daniel Crowley, 32 years, of Lynn, and Samuel Fadogan, 35 years, of Woburn, went to their room early in the afternoon. They had a habit of smoking in bed, neighbors say. The fire was not discovered until sometime after it started, and both men were almost dead. Crowley died on the way to the hospital and Fadogan after he reached there. There were no distinct marks of violence, however, and an autopsy will be necessary to learn the cause of death. Two boys who were hunting ran across the body. Tracks of a wagon leading to the spot prompted the belief that the man was murdered at some distant point and his body brought there. O'Neill had been missing from his boarding house since Friday. He was 35 years old.

NEW HAMPSHIRE MAN HELD FOR A DEATH

John Stokes of Freedom Was Out in Woods with Charles DeMerritt When the Latter Was Killed.

Ossipee, N. H., Nov. 19.—John Stokes of Freedom, a farmer, was arrested here yesterday, charged with responsibility for the death of his friend, Charles DeMerritt, who was shot through the back while the two men were hunting together Thursday. Stokes was arraigned before Justice A. E. Kenniston and held for the next session of the superior court.

It was Stokes who notified the county authorities of the death of his companion, but he said DeMerritt had fallen over a wall and thus discharged his gun. Investigation by the officials is said to have shown that the man could not have met his death in this way, and Stokes then admitted he had not.

In court Stokes said that he and his companion had set traps for deer. Each mounted his gun on one side of a path, so fixing a rope to the triggers as to cause it to explode if an animal passed. Stokes says that DeMerritt crossed the path, tugged against the rope and discharged the gun. It was DeMerritt's own gun which killed him, Stokes claims.

WITH THE DEER SLAYERS.

Adolpho Comelli Secured a Large Buck That Had Been Wounded.

Returns from the deer slayers continue to come in slowly and the situation at present points to a season of few killings among local nimrods who started for the woods early last Thursday morning. After the light snowfall of Sunday night, it was believed that the mortality among the deer would be greatly augmented, but thus far reports fail to indicate such an increase. One of the Barre men who has been successful is Adolpho Comelli.

While traveling the woods around Moretown in company with Fred P लेकर, Mr. Comelli learned that a wounded buck had been seen in the vicinity, and not long afterwards he was rewarded with a sight of the animal. Mr. Comelli brought his quarry down at a distance of ten rods and found that he had bagged a buck weighing 300 pounds. The deer had been lugging a charge of buckshot in one of his forelegs and further examination showed that the member had been broken. The hunter's trophy is exhibited at the H. J. Smith market on North Main street.

Gibb Knapp, an employe of the Barre & Montpelier Traction company, who resides near the Pioneer at Montpelier, brought to earth a spike-horned buck, weighing about 150 pounds. His hunting ground was in the town of Moretown.

Officer George Carle, who has been patrolling the mountains on Roxbury heights, was rewarded with a handsome specimen of the nimble-footed animals, weighing 145 pounds. Mr. Carle will return to the city to-night.

Lanson Hyde and Homer Sowles returned from Waterbury yesterday afternoon with a 200-pound buck they secured there.

The white deer which was shot in Waterbury, was brought down by Clarence Bartlett instead of Bert Bartlett, as stated in yesterday's paper.

Nelson Gay brought a handsome buck into Montpelier to-day, the animal having been secured yesterday at the head of Peacham pond. The buck weighed 200 pounds dressed and horns with eight perfect points. The head is so good that it will be mounted.

BUILT FIRE ON FLOOR.

Montpelier Three-Year-Old Soon Had Threatening Blaze.

A three-year-old child of Clyde Wilson of Pearl street, Montpelier, in wandering about the house this forenoon, ran across some matches in a match tray. The child grabbed the matches and scrambled up-stairs, where she collected some papers and rags in one corner of a room and soon had a brisk fire blazing. The house became filled with smoke, and presently Mrs. Wilson, who was working in the kitchen, heard the crackling of flames. Mrs. Wilson ran upstairs to find the cause, and a still alarm was sent to the fire department.

It was found that the fire had made considerable progress about the bottom of the room and if allowed to go much longer would have threatened the whole house. As it was, the damage was slight. This is not the first time that the child has played with matches, it is said.
