In Farmhouse Fire Tragedy Near Canfield, O., Early To-day

FIFTH MEMBER OF FAMILY HURT

Curtis Shafer, His Wife and Two Daughters the Other Victims

Canfield, O., Jan. 23.—In a fire which destroyed a farmhouse five miles from this place early to-day two persons were burned to death, two were so badly injured that they are expected to die and one other occupant was severely injured. The dead, the dying and the injured were all members of the family of Curtis Shafer.

Mr. Shafer and his daughter, Effie, died in the fire, while Mrs. Shafer and another daughter, Evelyn, escaped from the building but were so badly burned that this afternoon they were reported to be in a dying condition. A son, William Shafer, was injured seriously, but it is expected that he will recover.

MUST PROVIDE HOMES FOR 120,000 PEOPLE

Paris Has a Formidable Proposition Following Sale of the Antiquated Fortification of the City.

Paris, Jan. 23.—The formidable problem of housing 120,000 people to be evicted from their homes, owing to the sale of the antiquated fortifications of the city to the city authorities, is now before the municipal council for solution. The space occupied by the wall which was twenty-one miles long and 150 yards wide, will be converted into public parks. The space is now covered by thousands of ramshackle houses, occupied in most cases by the poorest class of working people.

ROCHESTER HIT BY STRIKE

Several Thousand Garment Workers Voted to Go Out.

Rochester, N. Y., Jan. 23.—The garment workers of Rochester voted Tuesday night by 2,044 to 228 to strike. Already, organizers say, about 3,000 men are out and the order will swell the total to about 7,000. The manufacturers received news of the vote without comment, except to reiterate that no work is being finished here for the strike-bound houses of New York.

GIVES UP NAUTICAL SCHOOL

Only 769 Have Enrolled Since Newport Was Commissioned in 1873.

New York, Jan. 23.—The high cost of maintenance, the lack of interest among students for a nautical education and the present state of development of the merchant marine, were the reasons given yesterday by the New York board of education for phasing out of commission the nautical school, Newport, which comprises the nautical school conducted by the board since 1873. In its 40 years of existence only 769 students had been enrolled in the school and of this number only 134 followed the sea as a means of livelihood.

Amoy, China, Jan. 23.—The disorderly elements of the province of Fu Kien have become so formidable that the authorities are unable to cope with them. A vessel chartered by the American Oil company was boarded by pirates to-day and the captain killed.

WILL WIN VERY SOON

Said Chancellor George to Deputation of Suffragettes.

London, Jan. 23.—"I am convinced we shall win and very soon," David Lloyd George, lord chancellor of the exchequer, told a deputation of suffragettes to-day. He said the Liberal government was ready to stand by Premier Asquith's pledge. If the House of Commons proved the extension of the suffrage to the women the government would support it.

TAFIT URGED ACTION

On Matters of Legislation Now Before the Country.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 23.—President Taft in an address at the banquet of the National Chamber of Commerce here last night urged that the organization use its influence among the commercial bodies of the country for renewed life for several matters of national legislation which he declared were the most important now before the people of the country. The president asked especially for adequate and comprehensive currency legislation and support for the economy and efficiency commission. In addition he urged that the organization take up the question of the extension of the civil service to all local appointive offices in the government service. He appealed also for increased efficiency of the consular service.

The president, referring to the approaching end of his administration, said that more time was necessary, in order that the guiding influences of an administration might be brought to a successful conclusion. "I am no third termer," he said, "and I don't seem to be even a second term, but there comes a time when a second term is necessary to the carrying out of the work that has been started by an administration that is about to be ended."

Currency reform, the president declared, was the most important subject before the country to-day in that it touched every individual citizen of the country from the richest to the poorest. The need for it, he asserted, should be brought home to Congress. Dr. Charles W. Eliot, president emeritus of Harvard university, addressed the delegates on "The crying need of reform in the civil service."

He advocated the adoption of the merit system in the government system as against the spoils system. He said that the positions in the lower grades in the government service had been open to young men, but that they could not get into the higher places because these places "were spoils." This situation had come about, he said, as the result of bargains between senators and representatives.

ADJUDGED "BIG TIM" INSANE

Congressman-elect Has Been in Private Sanitarium Since September.

New York, Jan. 23.—Timothy D. Sullivan, congressman-elect from this city, yesterday was adjudged an incompetent and incapable of taking care of his property, estimated to be worth about $1,000,000. Mr. Sullivan has been a patient at a private sanitarium at Yonkers since last September. He is suffering from "maniacal depressive insanity," according to one of the medical witnesses, another of whom testified that a cure was "possible but not probable."

No recommendations regarding committees for the person and the property of Mr. Sullivan were made by the jury and his attorney declared he would not recommend anyone but leave the matter to the discretion of the court.

In the East side, where Sullivan was born 50 years ago and where he built up a strong political following that elected him to the New York assembly four times, to the state Senate four times and to Congress once previous to his election last fall, he is known as "Big Tim."

He was the friend of the poor and it is said that he never turned a begging hand away without a coin. During his last term in the state Senate he was author of the law making the carrying of concealed weapons a penitentiary offense. Much of his estate consists of holdings in amusement enterprises and New York City real estate.

This leaves two indictments pending.

$12,000 FIRE AT KEENE

Several Firemen Had Narrow Escapes From Death.

Keene, N. H., Jan. 23.—A serious fire broke out yesterday afternoon in one of the dry houses of the impervious Package company on Mechanic street, causing a loss of from $8,000 to $12,000, with insurance aggregating about $7,500.

The fire was discovered in the blow-off boiler and it quickly went into the boiler room and into the dry house. The pine heading staves and sawdust caused a great deal of smoke which burst into the main building where the workmen were, and some had difficulty in getting away. Two men were cut off from the stairway by the dense smoke and had to be taken out the window with the aid of ladders. Engineer Russell was burned somewhat about his head and was rendered unconscious by the smoke for a time, recovering later. Some of the firemen fell off the roof of a building about twelve feet high, escaping any serious injuries.

The greater part of the fire was confined in some dry heading over the boiler in the brick building and it was difficult for the firemen to fight the flames. The main building, which is a large three-story building, was not burned but badly damaged by smoke and water. The fire will throw about forty men out of employment, but it is expected that the building may be put into shape to continue work in less than two months.

St. Albans, Jan. 23.—At a special meeting of the board of directors of the Central Vermont railway company, which was held at the offices here to-day, E. H. Fitzhugh resigned as president of the company, and Edson J. Chamberlin, president of the Grand Trunk railroad, was elected to fill the vacancy. In addition, ex-Gov. E. C. Smith of this city was elected a member of the executive committee to fill the vacancy caused by the withdrawal of Mr. Fitzhugh; and E. A. Chittenden, also of St. Albans, was elected a director of the company to fill the Fitzhugh vacancy.

The action is regarded as highly significant in view of the inquiry over the present railroad dispute in New England, following the halting of work on the Grand Trunk's extension into southern New England, work which was in charge of Mr. Fitzhugh as president of the Southern New England railroad.

THE RAILROAD HEARING

Fitzhugh and Traffic Manager of New Haven on the Stand.

New York, Jan. 23.—There was a slight hitch to-day in the federal grand jury investigation of the New Haven railroad. The foreman of the new grand jury reported to the court that one of their number appeared yesterday unfit to deliberate and failed to appear at all to-day's hearing. The foreman said the juror, who was intoxicated, interrupted the testimony of President Fitzhugh of the Central Vermont railway. The principal witness to-day was Benjamin Campbell, traffic manager of the New Haven.

LOAD KILLED DRIVER

Lloyd Naramore Victim of Accident at Keene, N. H.

Keene, N. H., Jan. 23.—Lloyd Naramore, a teamster for G. E. Newman of this city met almost instant death yesterday afternoon by being pinned under a load of lumber which tipped over on him. Naramore was about 21 years of age.

The accident occurred on the Chesterfield road. Naramore was driving a four-horse team down the hill, and in some manner the horses could not hold the load and were running at breakneck speed down the incline. Some people on a distant hill saw the team and then heard Naramore shouting as the team disappeared from view. Later they found him dead under the lumber which had tipped over upon him. Evidently he clung to the team in a vain attempt to guide them safely down the hill, whereas, perhaps, if he had jumped he might possibly have escaped death.

Young Naramore was the son of Herbert L. Naramore of 14 Water street, and is also survived by several sisters.

CLARK PORTRAIT UNVEILED

Gen. Charles K. Darling of Boston Gave Address Before General Assembly.

The unveiling of the portrait of Col. Albert Clark took place at the State House in Montpelier last evening in the presence of the House and Senate, in the representatives hall. Mr. C. Webster of Rutland presented the portrait in behalf of the donors, Julia and Ellen Pierce of Rochester, and Scott Clifton Carbee of Boston, the artist, unveiled it.

Governor Fletcher accepted the gift for the state, taking occasion to give personal reminiscences of his acquaintanceship with Colonel Clark.

The address of the evening was by Gen. Charles K. Darling of Boston, who spoke in part as follows: "Albert Clark was born in Granville, Oct. 13, 1840, the great grandson of a Revolutionary soldier. He passed his boyhood on a farm in Rochester and graduated in 1859, from Barre academy. While a young lawyer in this city he took up arms for his country, in Co. I of the 13th regiment, serving with high honor.

"On his return home as a lieutenant he resumed the practice of law, later becoming a captain of one of the companies raised after the St. Albans raid. He was widely read and accurately informed, was utterly devoid of duplicity, with never a taint of double dealing. His life was full of effort, his nature was deep and life-long, and the circumstances of his death were peculiarly sad, passing out at Highgate Center on July 15, 1911."

SUES BROTHER FOR $1,500

Plaintiff Claims He Agreed Not to Contest Mother's Will.

Rutland, Jan. 23.—J. C. Merithew of Hartford, N. Y., has brought suit in Rutland county court against Hiram R. Merithew and Edward S. Merithew of Ira, his brothers, to recover $1,500 on a contract having to do with the settlement of the estate of their mother, Mrs. Ann Merithew, who died in May, 1911. T. W. Moloney and George W. Platt of this city are counsel for the plaintiff.

The plaintiff alleges that he is one of four heirs of Ann Merithew as there is a sister besides the three brothers, who are in litigation. The plaintiff was left $800 in his mother's will. He claims that this is much less than one-fourth the value of her estate. He intended to contest the will but promised not to do so on the ground that his brothers turn over to him one-fourth the par value of 47 shares of certain stock, or the equivalent of $1,425. They have failed to make the transfer, he claims, and he sues to get the stock. He claims that his mother, in making her will, was unduly influenced by the defendants.

HOPE TO SETTLE NEW YORK STRIKE

Three Large Independent Waist Manufacturers Have Signed an Agreement With the Strikers.

New York, Jan. 23.—Hope for peace in the garment trades was held out last night at the first of a series of conferences between representatives of the manufacturers and the striking garment workers, held in an effort to settle the differences resulting from the demands of the various unions for increased wages and shorter working hours. President Thomas A. Rickett of the United Garment Workers of America explained the position of the executive board of the union regarding the tentative proposal of the manufacturers which offered a five per cent. increase now and a further five per cent. increase April 1. The board decided, he said, that the increase should be larger and for this reason the proposition was rejected. A new proposition is expected to be made by the manufacturers within a few days.

Three of the largest independent manufacturers of waists and dresses yesterday signed an agreement with the strikers embodying terms similar to those in the protocol signed by other manufacturers last week.

Mobs of striking garment workers and their sympathizers, demonstrating on the East side last night, fought the police when the latter interfered and a series of riots that lasted for an hour resulted. Reserves from three stations defended themselves with night sticks in a hand-to-hand battle after advancing under an assault of bricks and stones.

During a running fight when the strikers turned and fled, two policemen were stung by missiles. Vito Catalano, declared to be a striker, whose friends attempted to rescue him from a policeman's grasp, was seriously injured. He was arrested, with nine other men and ten women.

LEGALITY IS QUESTIONED

So Proposed New Tax Law Has Been Ordered To Lie

NEW OBSTACLE PUT IN ITS WAY TO-DAY

Attorney General Thinks Amended Bill May Contravene the Law

WORTHY OF PROFESSIONALS

Was Stage Work of Barre Amateurs Last Evening.

Under the auspices of the Newman Dramatic club of St. Monica's church, the four-act drama, "Philonena," was presented in the opera house last evening to an audience that taxed the auditorium and filled the gallery to the back seats. It was an initial effort for the newly formed dramatic organization of St. Monica's parish and it needs no perfunctory play of words to say the first attempt was marked by an auspicious degree of success. Amateurs, everyone of them, (and some of them made their maiden bow before the spotlight) the participants gave a remarkably accurate and easy interpretation to the stage story of the early Christians. To portray truthfully the life of Diocletian and his times, the club was put to considerable of an outlay in costumery, while the same fine regard for stage investiture was quite as essential. Nevertheless, the real merit of the performance rested with the participants.

"Philonena" is a story of the Roman empire's reconstruction in the third century. Jovius Diocletian, then ruler of an empire that extended from Britain to Egypt, was compelled on account of threatening dangers, to share the government with M. Valerius Maximianus of the city of Rome. In his reign, he was induced to sanction a persecution of the Christians and the web of last night's drama is woven around the early followers of the cross and the tenacity with which they cling to their chosen faith. It was a vivid picture of an epoch that placed its seal on declining paganism and to many it must have furnished a rather inspiring lesson of faith.

The cast was evenly balanced and to mention any one portion of the play as particularly noteworthy, or on the other hand to ascribe peculiar ability to individual participants would be hardly justifiable. Every member of the company contributed his or her fair share to the sum total of labor and patience involved in the production and no more merited expression of approval could be desired than the whole-hearted applause that greeted the players at every turn. Credit of another kind, however, should be given to those who have had charge of training the personnel for several weeks back. From the outset, Rev. A. C. Griffin and the Sisters of the Sacred Heart convent have given freely of their time and labor to insure a success of the affair.

Prominent among those who assisted in the program were the soloists who sang during the interludes and if the applause that greeted such numbers is any criterion, their efforts were not unappreciated. All of the singers were in excellent voice and the Barre opera orchestra furnished able accompaniments. The new dramatic company has a wealth of talent and there are many who will encourage its members to make other attempts in the line of amateur theatricals.

The cast of characters for "Philonena" follows: Diocletian, Walter Tierney; Maximianus, James Mackie; Tertullian, Matthew Hagen; Publius, Raymond Tierney; Paul, Theodore Lascor; Servus, Henry Carroll; Nobilius, Raymond Tierney; Flavius, James Bennett; Galvion, S. J. Daniels; Ortau, Henry Carroll; Macrian, Fred Macquay; Claudius, Edmond Sprague; Kephorus, Patrick Hale; Marcullus, Bolmans; Torquatus, Corvino; B. Orilla, Mary Tomasi; Teresa Bianchi; Dellius, John Jordan; Philomena, Margaret Brown; The Vision, Loraine Loranger; Agra, Ruth Humphrey; Dobbo, Henry Carroll; Virgilius, James Bennett; soldiers, guards and archers.

Musical numbers were as follows: "Faust," (Gounod), soldiers; "In the Garden of My Heart," James Bennett; "Whisper," Carl Nelson; "Somewhere," Miss E. Humphrey; "You'll Remember Me," Rev. Father Griffin; "How Lovely is Zion" (cantata of Daniel), Miss Alice MacDonald, soloist, and chorus.

SENATE HOLDS UP CONSERVATION BILLS

The Senate yesterday afternoon laid over two bills relating to conservation.

The bill creating a conservation commission and appropriating funds for building and developing reservoirs for the storage of flood waters. On motion of Mr. Mower the bill was ordered to lie and made a special order for next Tuesday afternoon.

On the bill to regulate the sale and distribution of the electrical energy, Mr. Hatchelder offered amendments requiring petitions under the act to be brought in the first instance to the public service commission instead of the supreme court.

Mr. Blanchard of Orleans moved that the bill be made a special order for Tuesday morning and was supported by Mr. Dale. Mr. Hatchelder, Mr. Johnson and Mr. Laird opposed. On explanation the opposition was withdrawn and the motion prevailed.

The Senate passed the following: Consolidating the Fairbanks and Chelsea and Barre railroads; establishing a state station farm; relating to the regulation of pawnbrokers; consolidating the Montpelier & Wells River and the branch railroads; extending the term of performance of certain bills by the commissioner of tax collecting to salaries of state's attorneys; providing for the teaching of agriculture, the manual arts and domestic economy; relating to the punishment of murder (21 to 6); relating to village of Essex Junction.

LEGISLATIVE NOTES

By a bill signed by Governor Fletcher yesterday Vermont undertakes to secure to the farmers prompt payment for milk sold to foreign creamery associations. Such companies doing business in the state will be compelled to file with the secretary of state a bond of $5,000, from which collection will be made of accounts not settled by the 25th of the month following that in which they were contracted.

Governor Fletcher announced yesterday afternoon that he had granted a reprieve to Arthur Bosworth until January, 1914. Bosworth was sentenced to be hanged this month for the murder of Mae LaBelle at Essex Junction, but the fact of his insanity was not known until take place until the first January after the adjournment of an intervening session of the legislature. A pending bill provides that such execution shall not be carried out until 30 days after the adjournment of the legislature, which will remove the necessity of such a long reprieve in the future.

The amended station bill, which came from the Senate, was ordered to lie in the House yesterday afternoon.

A further extension of time has become necessary for the commissioner of taxes to make out his statements in regard to certain corporation taxes, owing to the continued illness of the commissioner, and a bill granting an extension till the middle of February was passed under suspension of the rules. About half a million of taxes is involved in this matter and the state cannot afford to lose the money.

Rev. Jonathan K. Fuller committed suicide at his home early this morning by shooting himself through the head. He had been ill with grippe and it is thought to have been unbalanced mentally. The body was found by his son, Robert Fuller, about 7 o'clock and it is thought the act was committed at about 5 o'clock.

Rev. Mr. Fuller is survived by his wife and three sons, Harold, Brandon and Raymond G. Fuller.

Rev. Mr. Fuller was born at Montgomery on May 13, 1848, and was educated in the public schools. He was ordained in the Congregational ministry and held several pastorates, throughout Vermont, among them at Barton, Bakerfield and Johnson. He recently had retired from the ministry.

While at Barton he was for ten years superintendent of schools, was a school director and was a school trustee. He also represented the town of Barton in the legislature, being a member of the committee on education. For a time he served as chaplain of the Vermont state prison, being there at the time Mary Rogers was executed.

PLAN SKATING RINKS

Barre Boys Met Last Evening and Considered Project.

A meeting of boys of varying ages was held at the city court room last evening for the purpose of talking over the plan for having ice skating rinks. The room was nearly filled with winter sport enthusiasts and they entered into the discussion interestedly under the guidance of John W. Gordon, who acted as chairman of the meeting. It was finally decided to have two rinks, one to be located in the north end of the city and the other to be located at Gospel village, on the athletic field in the rear of the Lincoln school.

The projects were placed under the guidance of some of the older boys, committees being named for each rink. Those to have charge of the North End rink are: Henry Drummond, 573 No. Main street; Edward Milne, 88 No. Seminary street; Louis Cook, 11 First street; David McKnight, 5 Forsyth place and George Macintosh, Elmwood avenue. Those in charge of the Gospel village rink are: James Langley, Belmont ave.; Edward Mackay, Cliff street; Freeman Walker, Abbott avenue; Earl Smith, Highland avenue and James Levis, Hill street. Besides having supervision of the rinks these committees are to encourage the boys to keep order and to maintain good bearing and refrain from improper language.

FEDERATION DANCE BIG SUCCESS

Nearly 200 Couples Were Present in Howland Hall.

Nearly 200 couples congregated at the Howland hall last evening to attend the old and young folks' ball under the auspices of the Barre civic federation, which was one of the most successful dances ever held in the city. The federation held the dance for the purpose of raising money for the coming year's work and the ample returns justified the untiring efforts that members of the organization put forth. Mrs. D. J. Morse, Mrs. Rufus Robinson, Mrs. D. J. McLeod, Mrs. F. Cutler, Mrs. Charles Wishart and Miss Annie Averill, who comprise the ways and means committee of the federation, were in charge of the dance. During the evening punch and wafers were dispensed from a booth at the lower end of the hall by Misses Ruth Glysson, Evelyn Bugbee, Cleora Morse, Rachael Robinson and Pinkie Rickett. Riley's singing orchestra furnished music for the dance.
