

Relief for Bowel Trouble

Here is a laxative—not a purgative—but a pleasant, easy-to-take tablet that tastes just like candy, that children like, that is ideal for invalids and aged persons. We guarantee it not to cost you a penny if it does not satisfy you. Don't doubt or hesitate—make us prove it.

Consult Your Doctor

We believe your doctor will tell you that about 95 per cent of all human ills are indirectly caused by unclean and constipated bowels. You know the first question the doctor asks when you consult him is, "Are your bowels regular?"

When your bowels are not naturally exercised such as they would be if you took a good brisk walk of six or seven miles a day out in the open, they require artificial exercise and a corrective tonic that will soothe and strengthen while regulating the bowels to natural action.

Free If It Fails

We have so much faith in Rexall Orderlies as the safest, most dependable, easiest-to-take, quietest acting and most thoroughly good remedy for bowel trouble, that we offer them with our positive guarantee that if they do not satisfy for any reason whatever, we will hand back the money you paid for them.

Don't doubt or hesitate. Make us prove our claims. Come and get a box of Rexall Orderlies today.

A Story of the Last War With England

By T. TOWNSEND SMITH

We had good luck in meeting British merchantmen and had secured some prizes, a few of which we carried into port, and some we let go, they not being of much value. We were sailing in longitude west from Greenwich 62 degrees and 40 minutes, latitude 35 degrees 15 minutes, when in the direction of the Bermudas, to the windward of us, appeared on the horizon a sail. She had a good breeze, while we were nearly becalmed. She made straight for us and came up with us, breaking the British flag. She was altogether too strong for us, and after a short fight we surrendered.

I was put down between decks with the others, who, being tired with several days' constant activity ending with a fight, were all very soon asleep. Somehow I couldn't sleep and sat watching our guards, who were as fagged as we. One by one they dropped asleep. There wasn't much use of their keeping awake, for we couldn't run away, and it would have been madness for us to attempt to capture the ship.

But when I saw the last man dozing on a coil of rope with his cutlass across his lap I concluded to take a walk. I didn't expect to get very far, but I found that all hands, having been on duty for several days without sleep, had succumbed, and I didn't see a person awake. Forward I found the bodies of several men who had been killed during the fight, laid out for burial—that is, I saw the sacks in which they were inclosed. The idea occurred to me that if we were near enough to land to swim ashore I might escape by taking a body out of one of the sacks, getting in myself and being slid overboard. I knew we were headed for the Bermudas and I might somehow get to land.

I would need a knife, but had none, and while I was making up my mind to take the risk I thought I would look around for one. A sailor who was sleeping like a log had one in his belt, and, though I risked his killing me if he awakened while relieving him of it, I took the chance and succeeded. I don't believe he would have opened his eyes if I had kicked him.

Having the knife gave me nerve, and I resolved to make a break for liberty. The great difficulty was getting a body out of a sack and tossing it overboard. There was an advantage for me in that the sailors, not relishing sleeping near the dead men, gave them a wide berth. I was some time at the job, but finally I had a bag ready and crawled in. I couldn't lace the opening from the inside and wondered what this might lead to.

I lay perfectly still till morning, when I fancied by sounds near me and words that were spoken that the burial was about to take place. I heard a man say, "Here's a sack not closed," and felt him closing it. Then he tied a cord about my ankles, and after that a chaplain read the burial service. That ended, I heard something slide on a board, and presently I was taken up and was sliding rapidly, plunging feet foremost into cold water.

It seemed that I had gone down a hundred yards before I succeeded in cutting open the bag and two hundred more before I cut the rope that bound my ankles to the sinking shot. When free I commenced to rise, slowly at first, but soon quite rapidly. My breath was gone when I reached the surface, but I knew that if I sank again I would take in water, so I exerted myself and got a few breaths. I didn't sink again and pretty soon was able to look about me.

There was the ship not fifty yards from me and another body just shooting over the side. Fortunately I was astern, and those engaged at the burial work did not see me. I swam for the rudder and as there was but little breeze succeeded in reaching it and hanging on to the chains.

There wasn't much sea on or I would soon have been washed from my hold. I had had nothing to eat since the morning before and hadn't much strength, but during the morning the cook threw some refuse from the galley, and I was enabled to gather some pieces of bread and a few bits of meat. That helped me considerably. About noon I saw land on the port quarter and knew we were approaching the Bermudas. Would I be able to leave the rudder and appear as some one else than a Yankee tar? All I could do was to wait for an opportunity. Once or twice we approached so near the land that I was tempted to let go and swim for it, but feared I would be seen from the ship.

Then we ran into the harbor, and a man fishing in a small boat was for a few minutes within a hundred feet of me. Before he saw me I dived and came up directly before him. He was too astonished to say anything for a few moments, then helped me into his boat.

I told him that I was one of the crew of the ship that had passed. My clothes didn't give me away, for there were very few clothes left on me, and they were of the most ordinary character. I won the man's sympathy by telling him I had been dogged nearly to death for some slight delinquency, and he took me ashore to his house, where he kept me for several weeks, at the end of which time I found a small vessel leaving for Charleston and soon after landed at that port.

ATTEMPTED ROBBERY AT N. ADAMS

Amateurs' Safe-Wrecking Fails to Yield a Dollar.

North Adams, Mass., Feb. 24.—A bold attempt at robbery was made here yesterday, when an attempt was made to blow open the large safe at the Blackinton store, in which there was more than $500 in money, besides a large quantity of stamps. The attempt was unsuccessful.

The police believe it was the work of amateurs, because of the crude manner in which the safe was attacked. Two strange men were seen in the locality Saturday.

Manager W. R. Brown found the safe badly shattered. A large piece of steel was blown from the bottom and was lodged under the sash of one of the windows. One of the steel doors was almost bent in two from the force of the explosion. The office was considerably damaged.

The tools for the job were secured by robbing the Boston & Maine tool-house in Williamstown. A large quantity of nitroglycerine was used, hoping to break the combination, but without success. The combination of the safe had the appearance of having been badly hammered.

NEW TESTS FOR CHILD PSYCHIC.

Munsterberg to Ask Her to Read Book Under Pillow.

Boston, Feb. 24.—Prof. Hugo Munsterberg of Harvard university will make further tests with ten-year-old Beulah Miller, the child psychic of Warren, R. I. He proposes to see if she can read from the pages of a school book placed under her head. The professor declares that he believes Beulah can do it.

"A most unusual thing about Beulah is the fact that she appeared to be able to read words and figures by placing her hand upon a book or a paper," he said to-day. "It is possible that some psychological solution may be worked out to account for the superstition that a child could learn a lesson by placing the school book under the pillow at night."

NAMES J. ANHUT THAW BRIBER

Dr. Russell Tells Sulzer "Thinks" That Was the Lawyer's Name

GOV. SULZER

IS INDIGNANT

Says He Is Not in Sympathy with Thaw—No Effort To Get Him Out

New York, Feb. 24.—Gov. Sulzer announced at Albany, N. Y., Saturday night that Dr. John W. Russell, superintendent of Matteawan state hospital for the criminal insane, had told him that "the thinks" the man who offered him $20,000 if he would aid in releasing Harry K. Thaw "is named John Anhut." As a result of this information, the governor said the committee of inquiry had issued a subpoena for "John Nicholson Anhut, whom we have learned maintained an office on Wall street in New York City and who has a residence at White Plains." The governor explained that the subpoena was issued because the name was found in the New York City telephone directory. Mr. Anhut, if located, will be asked to appear before the committee to-day, when the inquiry into charges that William F. Clark, secretary of the committee, had used the governor's name without authority in an attempt to secure Thaw's release will be resumed. The governor Saturday night issued this statement concerning the Thaw case:

"Dr. Russell, the superintendent of Matteawan state hospital, called yesterday to discuss the Thaw matter. It is the first time I ever met him. Dr. Russell volunteered to tell me all he knew concerning the attempts to bribe him in the interest of Thaw's freedom. "Substantially he told me this: That some time last December he was invited by telephone to New York to meet a man whom he thinks is named John Anhut. Dr. Russell went to New York in response to this invitation and met this man, who told him he could make $20,000 if he would help to get Thaw out of the insane asylum. Subsequently this man Anhut met him again in New York and made the same offer. Dr. Russell said he declined the offer on both occasions and said nothing about it to any one except Col. Scott. Just who John Anhut is appears to be a mystery. I never heard of John Anhut, but we are having him looked up. Dr. Russell thinks he is a lawyer, but is as vague in this and his description as he is as to just what was said, and how it was said, and when and where it was said.

"However, Dr. Russell has promised me to look up certain dates and memoranda to refresh his memory and come before the committee of inquiry this afternoon to testify truthfully to everything he knows in connection with the case. Let me say again as emphatically as I can that no one is or was authorized to use my name, directly or indirectly, in connection with the liberation of Thaw. The first knowledge I had of it was a week ago, when Dr. May called my attention to the fact that an effort was being made to get Thaw out. I told Dr. May at that time no one had any authority to use my name in this matter or any other matter; that I was not in sympathy with Thaw; that I would do nothing directly or indirectly, to get him out of the lunatic asylum. "and that the only way Thaw could be discharged was through due process of law and by the order of a supreme court judge. So far as I am concerned, Thaw will stay in the asylum until the end."

Anhut Not at His Hotel. John Nicholson Anhut is a lawyer of Bronxville, Westchester county. Inquiry at his hotel Saturday night elicited the information that Mr. Anhut left there Saturday afternoon, saying he would not return until this week. It was said no information was available as to his present whereabouts.

ROB A STORE IN BROAD DAYLIGHT

Daring Crooks Make Raid and Secure $300 in Cash on Busy Corner in New York City.

New York, Feb. 24.—In broad daylight yesterday three men entered a branch cigar store on a busy corner in the theatrical district, took the lone clerk by surprise at the point of a revolver, bound and gagged him and rifled the safe and cash register of $300.

The clerk, who was bound by wire, rolled to the door and attracted attention.

Dr. Greene's NERVURA

is always a safe remedy for children's diseases.

Lancaster City, Pa., Jan. 14, 1913.

Dear Sir:—I just feel that I have to inform you of the wonderful work your NERVURA has done for my little girl. She had a stroke, paralyzing her whole right side. We doctored with our family doctor and there seemed to be no help for her.

Then we heard of Dr. Greene's NERVURA. My little girl was almost three years old and seemed heavy, but was still paralyzed and could not walk. Well, I tried the NERVURA and she had only taken half a bottle until she started off one day and walked back and forth across the room several times. She is now seven years old and weighs 55 pounds, and is well and happy.

AMERICANS DRINKING MORE.

Tax Returns Show Increase of Consumption of Liquors.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 24.—Americans are drinking more whiskey, smoking more cigars and cigarettes and chewing more tobacco than ever before in history, according to latest tax returns to Rayol E. Cabel, commissioner of internal revenue.

From July to February the nation has consumed 94,000,000 gallons of whiskey, an increase of 5,000,000 gallons over the corresponding period the previous year; 8,500,000,000 cigarettes, an increase of 2,250,000,000; 4,500,000,000 cigars, an increase of 250,000,000; and 230,000,000 pounds of smoking and chewing tobacco, an increase of 12,000,000 pounds. These are record-breaking figures.

In addition drinkers of beer are resuming their stride. During the fiscal year 1912 the consumption of beer fell off materially, but for the first seven months of the current fiscal year the people of the United States have drunk 38,554,000 barrels, an increase of 1,850,400 barrels over last year. Drinkers, smokers and chewers are thus enriching the federal government. Internal revenue taxes from July 1 to date are $12,500,000 greater than any previous record for a similar period.

WILSON GIVES SEAT TO STANDING WOMAN

Same Seat Had Been Offered to Him After He Had Been Standing For An Hour.

Princeton, Feb. 24.—The next president of the United States gave up his seat on a train Saturday to a woman who was standing in the aisle. She was not near him at that, but at the other end of the car when he spied her, arose, bowed and beckoned for her to take the seat he had vacated. She smiled, thanked him and took it.

Gov. Wilson made the trip here from New York on an accommodation train. A holiday crowd was aboard and he stood for nearly an hour till the train reached Rahway. He was hardly settled down in his seat when he saw the woman standing and promptly surrendered it. Many of the other seats in the car were occupied by men.

Providence, R. I., Feb. 24.—The proposition of President Chamberlin of the Grand Trunk railway for a bond issue of $6,000,000 guaranteed by the Central Vermont and the state of Rhode Island, to secure the completion of the Southern New England railway, was explained to the city committee on relations with the Southern New England railway Saturday at a conference between the committee and Vice-President John S. Murdock of the Southern New England.

At the close of the conference, the committee held a short session and Chairman Frederick L. Pierce announced at its conclusion that he, with Mayor Gainer and City Solicitor Albert A. Baker, would consult with Gov. Pothier Tuesday relative to the matter. Murdock insisted that the shortage of funds stopped the construction of the Southern New England.
