F. hall Sunday at 1:30 p. m. for the purpose of attending the funeral of our late brother, L. J. Mead. Per order N. G. James E. Gregory returned this morning from a three months' visit with friends in Boston, Attleboro and Providence. Before leaving for his home in New York City, he will spend several days with his brother, D. F. Gregory. The officers and members of Bright Star Rebekah lodge, No. 18, are requested to meet at their hall in Gordon block on Sunday, March 30, at 1 o'clock for the purpose of attending the funeral of L. J. Mead. Bring badges. Per order vice grand. The Pearl street barber shop, which was transferred this week from 12 Pearl street to the quarters formerly occupied by the office of the Hotel Otis, was formally opened today. There are three chairs in the shop, which has been attractively renovated. Death came to Bruno, the one-month-old baby of Joseph Barberi of Brown avenue this morning at 4 o'clock, the cause being whooping cough. The funeral will be held from the house Sunday afternoon at 1 o'clock, burial taking place in Hope cemetery. At the Congregational church tomorrow, the choir will render, "I Will Magnify Thee, O God," by Churchill, and "Nearer, My God, To Thee," by Liebeschilling, in the morning, and "O Be Joyful in the Lord," by Nevin, and "Emmanuel," by Nevin, at the vesper service. Charles Southgate, ticket agent at the Montpelier & Wells River station in this city, was sent yesterday to Groton, where he will remain for a few days as station agent. The transfer was made when the ticket agent at Groton was brought to Montpelier to fill the coterie of train despatchers. Usually the services of but two despatchers are needed at Montpelier to direct the transportation over their lines, but now as the Central Vermont trains are using the tracks in conjunction with the Wells River road, three men are required at the despatchers' posts, working in three shifts of eight hours each, the maximum time for the despatchers to stay at their posts. Mr. Southgate will stay at Groton until traffic is resumed over the Central Vermont tracks. GRANITEVILLE. Many will be interested in the following Burlington item taken from the Burlington Free Press, as Miss Donahue, who taught in Upper Graniteville for several terms, was among those who were received into the Order of Mercy last Tuesday: "The sisters' chapel at Mt. St. Mary was the scene of a solemn and impressive ceremony yesterday morning when three young ladies were clothed with the habit of the order, and three novices pronounced their vows and received the black veil. "The Rev. Bishop Rice, D. D., was the celebrant of the mass, and was assisted by the Rev. Father Cray of East Albany and the Rev. Father Nichol of St. Michael's Institute. The Rev. J. M. Kennedy of the cathedral was the master of ceremonies. Present in the sanctuary were the Rev. Father Leonard of St. Johnsbury, the Rev. Fathers Hendee, Cassidy, Welch and Penders of the cathedral and Father Alliott of St. Michael's Institute. "The sisters who made their profession were Sister Mary Regis of Harbor Grace, Newfoundland; Sister Mary Paula of St. Albans; Sister Mary Imelda of Harrison, N. Y. The young women who were received into the order were: Miss Agnes Donahue of Montpelier (Sister Mary Clotilde); Miss Delia Cuminsky of Bellows Falls (Sister Mary Marcella); and Miss Stella Brady of Bakersfield (Sister Mary Bertille). "The Rev. Father Leonard delivered an eloquent and soul-stirring sermon on the sublimity of the religious state and the special work of the Sisters of Mercy. H. R. Sutor is gaining rapidly in health. Miss Sutherland, who has been caring for him, has returned to Barre. Miss Queenie Macarthur, who has been attending the New England Conservatory of Music in Boston, is expected home this evening for the Easter holidays. William Francis Barnard will deliver his lecture Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the opera house hall, East Barre, subject, "What is Socialism?" Admission, 25c. Everybody invited. Why Flowers Change Color.

The causes of color changes in plants is still somewhat obscure. Probably they are due to chemical processes in the cells, which are stimulated into activity by the pollination of the flower. This appears to be the more probable, since different chemicals in the soil are regarded as the cause of color changes in other flowers. In New England the meadow lily is yellow; in the middle states, red. Kerner has noted several species in the Alps that change color with location. A bellwort with white flowers in one soil produced blue ones in another. A violet was blue in one locality and yellow in another. A vetch found in the Tyrol was yellow, and the same species in Hungary was violet. In the central Alps, the alpine anemone is sulphur yellow, in the eastern Alps it is white. A botanist who recently experimented with the color changes in flowers, was able to turn yellow, blue, pink, and red flowers to green by adding alkali, and to turn them back to their original color when acids were added. From his experiments he concludes that flowers have but three pigments, red, yellow and blue, and that from these, by various combinations, all the others are produced.—From Suburban Life for April.
