

IN BOX DUEL I.A.C. WON 3 TO 0

Defeated St. Anselm's College for Third Time on Saturday Afternoon

BOTH PITCHERS WERE HARD TO SOLVE

Galli of the Locals Was Perhaps Steadier Than Holcombe of St. Anselm's

For the third time in two days victory perched on the banners of the I. A. C. at Berlin street Saturday afternoon...

Probably the strongest outfield combination in the state: Bottigi-Witti-Soldini-Ricciarelli.

Joe Colomelli lifted no less than three flies, although one had started for the bushes when Fielder Walizer pulled it in.

Except for silvery locks, Dannie Ricciarelli might have been Witti in the outfield. The recruit fitted into the outfield hole like a glove.

Witti's absence is accounted for by the fact that Goddard included him in its track team at Burlington.

The Bergen-Devine shift should have been made in the first inning. The former's mistakes were directly responsible for J. A. C. runs.

Joe Holcomb relied chiefly on his speed. Without it he would have been at the mercy of the Athletics' bombarding department.

Galli pitched five balls in the first inning. In five innings the visitors went in order.

Cassidy, coach and former football star at Vermont, looked at home when he filled McCarthy's place in left in the eighth and gracefully accepted his single chance, a fly from Colomelli's stick.

VERMONT WILL GET $67,000. $10,000,000 in Funds of Government to Be Deposited.

DAVIDSON WON HIS OWN GAME

Barre A. C. Pitcher Also Twirled a Good Game Against Hanover, N. H.

BUT HE WAS GIVEN WRETHED SUPPORT

Score See-sawed Along Till Finish, When Locals Were Ahead, 6 to 5

Thomas X. Davidson, premier sharpshooter of the Barre Athletics, adorned himself and his clubmates with laurel wreaths Saturday afternoon, at Inter-city park by pounding out a se reeling bludge in the eighth inning when the bases were crowded, sending two runs across the rubber and snatching a victory from Dudley's Athletics of Hanover, N. H., by the score of 6 to 5.

Davidson, too, twirled a remarkable game and had it not been for the wretched support accorded him he might have registered a lower score game. Barre amassed ten errors in the field. Nute, Brown and Kutz were the worst offenders, each having three chalked up against his name, and in almost every instance runs resulted. Notwithstanding the looseness of the contest, interest was buoyed up throughout. It was anybody's game right through until the last batter was retired. All the way the lead sawed back and forth.

Parrott, a sophomore at Dartmouth college, was ushered out onto the earthworks by Manager Dudley. Parrott is a southpaw and had a peculiar delivery, which was difficult for the locals to fathom. He caused eight batters to retire on strikeouts. The feature of the game was the playing of Wilder at short for the visitors. He seemed to be everywhere on the field. He scooped up every ball within his reach and many times ran into other parts of the field to make putouts. Once he ran well back into left field and pulled down a fly that Dudley had lost in the sun.

In the second inning, Huntington reached first base on shortstop Nute's error. Wilder, the next batter, hit a sharp grounder to Kutz, who booted it. When he recovered the ball he attempted to head Huntington off at third, but the throw went over Johnston's head. Huntington crossing the rubber and Wilder perched on third. Washburn dropped a weak fly into left field, which R. Johnston made a pick-up of. Wilder held up on third. Dudley's outfit then pulled off a double steal. Washburn reaching second and Wilder scoring on the attempt to catch Washburn stealing.

Charlie Hoerne counted first for Barre. He drove a double into right field and stole third while Brown was fanning. W. Johnston sent Hoerne across the rubber with a single to left field. In the subsequent inning Barre evened up the score. Nute was passed, reaching second when Williams threw Wright out at first. W. Johnston produced the necessary double, permitting Nute to tally.

Dudley's bunch forged ahead one run in the fifth. Washburn was safe when Brown dropped his fly in center field. Lindsey hit safely into center field and Brown let the ball roll through his legs and then picked it up and heaved it into the grand stand. Washburn scored and Lindsey reached third base. The next two batters were retired.

In the sixth the Athletics piled up two runs and took the lead. After two batters had been retired Bernstein muffed Wilder's throw of Brown's grounder. Brown moved along a peg on R. Johnston's Texas-leaguer into right field. Brown scoring and R. Johnston landing on third. Then Spillane attempted to catch R. Johnston napping at third and the ball went wild, Johnston counting.

The score was brought to even terms in the seventh inning. Parrott singled cleanly to center field and stole second base. After Washburn fled out to center field, Lindsey got his second hit of the day and brought Parrott home.

Brown singled over second base in the eighth inning with one out, taking second when R. Johnston pounded out his third hit. The base runners showed along another notch when Williams fumbled Peduzzi's grounder. Tommy Davidson then lammed out a bingle into center field, scoring both Brown and R. Johnston.

With two out in the last session, Parrott was ticketed and went to second on a wild pitch. Hoerne attempted to catch Parrott napping at second, the ball going wild, rolling into center field. Brown fumbled the roller and Parrott streaked home. Lindsey, the last batter, had a chance to score Washburn, who had been hit by a pitched ball, but rolled a weak grounder to Kutz, retiring the side. The score:

WOULD REDUCE IMMIGRATION

Sen. Dillingham Introduced Measure in the Senate To-day

LIMITING ADMISSIONS TO 10 PER CENT.

Of Those Already In Northern and Western Europe Helped

Washington, E. C., June 2.—Senator Dillingham, chairman of the former immigration commission, introduced to-day a bill which, if enacted into law, will materially reduce immigration from southern and eastern Europe and western Asia. The bill is similar in many respects to the Dillingham-Burnett bill which was vetoed by President Taft at the last session of Congress on the ground that it provided for the exclusion of illiterate immigrants.

The literacy test for immigrants is omitted from the present bill, however, and as a substitute means of restricting immigration of the class referred to it is provided that the number of aliens of any nationality, exclusive of temporary visitors, who may be admitted to the United States in any fiscal year shall not exceed ten per cent. of the number of persons of such nationality resident in the United States at the time of the United States census next preceding, but the minimum number of any nationality admissible in any fiscal year shall not be less than 5,000. Countries of the western hemisphere are exempted from the operation of the provision. According to the bill, nationality is to be determined by country of birth rather than of residence, but the term country does not include colonies or dependencies, which are considered as separate countries.

The bill provides that when the maximum number of any nationality has been admitted, all other aliens of such nationality who may apply for admission during the same fiscal year shall be excluded, except that aliens returning for a temporary visit abroad, and aliens coming to join near relatives, as well as members of professions and business classes, may be admitted with reference to such maximum number. It is also provided that the secretary of labor may admit aliens in excess of the maximum number, when in his opinion, such action is justifiable as a measure of humanity. Transportation companies are subject to a fine of $100 for each alien brought to the United States in excess of the maximum number allowed.

Based on the immigration experience of the past ten years, the proposed law would not reduce immigration from western Europe, but it would result in a very material reduction of the movement from various countries of southern and eastern Europe. How the various countries of the two sections of Europe referred to would be affected by the law may be seen from the following compilation:

Table with columns: Country, Number of aliens admissible under proposed law, Average annual immigration, 1903-1912.

DEAD AT 92. Ex-Senator Kimball Dies in Home at Concord, N. H.

Concord, N. H., June 2.—Former State Senator John Kimball, ex-mayor and president of a local bank, died here yesterday, aged 92.

He was prominently identified with philanthropic and religious societies, and his brother is President Benjamin A. Kimball of Concord & Montreal railroad.

HAS DECIDED MODERN FLAVOR. Young Buffalo Wild West Has Novelty and Originality.

The program of Young Buffalo Wild West, Vernon C. Seaver's Hippodrome and Col. Cummins Far East, which will exhibit in Barre on June 10, has decided modern flavor. Mr. Vernon C. Seaver, the general manager, claims that in the formation of the combined shows novelty and originality have been the desired goal and that he has dropped from the program every number of the seared and yellow leaf variety.

Among the features to be seen that are entirely new to America this season, is the Etta Myers Quartette, composed of Muggins, the smallest elephant in the world, a midget pony, and an accomplished dog, all directed by Miss Etta Myers. The act presented by this assemblage of stars is said to beggar description.

IN THE FIELD OF SPORTS

Clark Griffith, the manager of the Senators, is at odds with President Ban Johnson of the American league. Clark bombarded Johnson with letters to determine the reason for Altrock's suspension and did not receive an answer until he was notified that Altrock had been reinstated. He says that Altrock's suspension was a bit of nonsense and doesn't care to tolerate the actions of the president further.

Joe Tinker says that he will be greatly surprised if Ames doesn't win more games for the Reds than Fromme does for the Giants. He claims he traded Fromme to the New Yorkers because he lacked sand. Tinker has already received an offer from the Phillies for Josh Devore, whom he received in the deal with McGraw.

The newspaper men of Chicago, who formed the Cubs around the circuit, have retaliated on Murphy and refused to put his name in print. Murphy a short time ago issued orders that the Cubs should not talk with any of these newspaper writers, placing a heavy fine for each offense by the writers.

The members of the Philadelphia National baseball club have a hunch that their success this season is attributed to having Pitches Maher with them. Ever since this young pitcher joined Locke's gang they have been playing winning ball. Maher is a Hebrew and one of the very few playing organized baseball. The Phillies are striving to win the National league pennant, and are making the big world's series dividends their goal.

Baseball has ceased to be an occupation or a pleasure to Larry Pape, the former Red Sox pitcher who has been with Rochester. Pape has given up the game and will return to his home in Pittsburgh, where he will ply the trade of an electrician to earn a livelihood. Pape reached his decision when he was notified by the Rochester president that he was to be farmed out to a club in the Canadian league.

The Tufts college baseball team has been visited with another misfortune. This week Capt. Bennett was lost to the team by receiving a split finger on his right hand while catching behind the bat. It is not thought that he will take part in any more games this season. The Tufts' team has been running into adverse luck all season; those who have been compelled to retire because of injuries are many.

Manager Kip Eberfeld of the Chattanooga club has made several changes in his line-up. Pitches Golden of the St. Louis Cards, and Pitcher Troy of the Detroit club have greatly strengthened their line-up. Eberfeld has secured Outfielder Kelley from the Jersey City club and Johnson from the Spokane club.

James Donahue of Graniteville is slated for membership of the University of Vermont baseball team for next season. Dredick is this season managing the outfit and Donahue acting as assistant manager. Donahue has charge of the second team and has been mentioned as the likely candidate to succeed Tredick.

The announcement has been made at Yale quarters that the Yale crew will leave for Gates Ferry, where they will commence training for the annual Harvard boat race. This is a week earlier than the crew have formerly made their appearance on the Thames river. The race will take place the latter part of June.

Ty Cobb is once again showing his true form. The Georgia Peach has been winking the ball consistently and hard. Hardly a game passes but what the Tiger outfit is causing some sensation. His playing is well worth his demands.

When Mathewson of the Giants is working hard Walter Johnson is receiving the attention of the public at present by his achievement of consecutive scoreless innings. Never before has Mathewson had better control of his ball.

Plattsburg high school was defeated this week at Burlington in a decisive fashion by Burlington high school. Plattsburg came across the lake with an enviable record, but fell before the Burlington batters 11 to 5.

Manager Huggins of the Cards regards Walter Maraville of the Braves as a great judge of ground balls. Huggins doesn't think that Maraville is a flake of the next but that he is a fixture in the big leagues. He is of the opinion that he is as strong with the bat as in his fielding.

The crew of the University of Washington has received the sanction of the college president to row at the inter-collegiate regatta at Poughkeepsie on June 21. The management of the crew has set about June 1 for the departure to the East so that the crew may have two full weeks of practice before the regatta.

What Some Pupils Learned. In an article in Suburban Life Magazine for June advocating vocational training in public schools, the following answers from written tests in a city school are cited as showing the lack of thoroughness of modern instruction.

"Panama is a town of Colombo, where they are trying to make an isthmus." "The pyramids are a range of mountains between France and Spain." "The line opposite the right angle in a right-angled triangle is called the hippopotamus." "Queen Elizabeth rode a white horse from Kenilworth through Coventry with nothing on, and Raleigh offered her his cloak." "Tennyson wrote a poem called 'Grave's Energy'."

NO OTHER POWDER SO HEALING, SAYS TRAINED NURSE GRIGGS. She says: "I find Comfort Powder most excellent for invalids and babies. No other powder is so healing and comforting to the skin as this." "This is because Comfort Powder is a truly medicated powder, no more like ordinary talcum powders than cream is like skimmed milk, and physicians trained nurses and mothers call it the 'skin-healing wonder'."
