Three days of heavy rain have restored optimism among the farmers on the outskirts, and there are few who will predict a repetition of last year's water scarcity. All three of the city's water sources are brimful, and the prolonged precipitation will have the effect of keeping the basins well supplied for months to come.

At 36 Maple avenue Saturday evening there gathered a company unique in its personnel, inasmuch as it included all the boarders, past and present, as well as many other friends, of Mrs. Mary Smith. The party assembled to extend their best wishes and farewell to Mrs. Smith, who is leaving this week on an extended journey to California. Social features of the evening included dancing, singing, etc., and toward the close a luncheon was served, consisting of ice cream, cake, coffee. As a token of its esteem, the company presented Mrs. Smith a handsome leather suitcase.

H. of this city for the reception to be tendered to Mrs. Ellen Ryan Joly, president of the national organization, which will be held on Wednesday evening. A banquet will be served at the City hotel, to be followed by postprandial exercises. At the Howland hall, a reception will be given to Mrs. Joly and an entertainment will follow. It is expected that there will be officers of the ladies' auxiliary from all over the state present at the reception.

In the North Main street display window of the G. M. Marston cigar store is exhibited a fine specimen of the tobacco plant, which was grown on David McLean's farm near Williamstown. The plant has an altitudinous measurement of nearly three feet, while the leaves extend a distance of twelve inches from the stem. Unlike the tobacco raised so extensively in the Connecticut valley, the plant is of the variety commonly cultivated in the Carolinas. The Williamstown man thinks he has solved the problem of raising southern varieties of tobacco on northern soil, and he will double his seedling next year.

Head Coach Agnew of the Spaulding high school football team has planned a campaign for the coming three weeks that will call for the most strenuous work the football squad has experienced this fall. During the past two weeks the Spaulding team has shown a great reversal of form and steps will now be taken to perfect their play in order to make favorable impressions against Montpelier high school and Goddard seminary. The Spaulding team has but three games left on its schedule. On Saturday, Montpelier seminary will be their opponents at Montpelier. Nov. 8, a week later, the second Spaulding-Montpelier game will be played and on the following week the final Goddard-Spaulding contest will be played. John Seaton, Spaulding's quarterback who was injured about three weeks ago, is able to be out of doors, but will not don football togs again this season. The team during the rest of the season will be run by Capt. Brown with "Black" Smith for his understudy. T. Tomasi, Gordon and Cowie will constitute the remainder of the backfield, although shifts may be made at any time.

News received here of the death of William Sweeney, which occurred at his home in Sheldon Springs October 18. Mr. Sweeney will be remembered here as a former student at Goddard seminary, which institution he entered in 1873. After finishing a course at the seminary, he was employed in Barre for some time. Afterwards he went to North Hero and was employed in a store for a few years and again he lived in Winthrop, N. Y., until he purchased a farm in Georgia, which he tilled for several years before moving to Sheldon. Among several children who survive, there is a son, William C. Sweeney, of Lakeside, who was formerly a member of the Barre fire department.

The October number of The Goddard Record, published by the students of Goddard seminary, is just off the press. It is an interesting recounting of the affairs of life at the school on the hill, together with some literary contributions. One article is devoted to "The New Year" and it tells of the remarkable gain in attendance made at the school since last year. There are 96 boarding students, as against 57 last year; the main building has 10 more students than ever before and 14 boys are rooming in private families in the city. The Thompson Memorial building, built to accommodate 28 pupils, has 35. The number of day students brings the total registration in the regular courses to 186, an increase of 48 over last year. There are now 40 in the evening school, in which business subjects, English, spelling, arithmetic, etc., are taught. The aggregate of the whole school attendance is 240. Of that number 34 begin the four-year course.

Rev. George H. Holt of Barre will deliver his lecture, "Oklahoma in Pioneer Days," at the Websterville Baptist church Tuesday evening, at 7 o'clock. The lecture will be illustrated with stereoscopic views.

Harry Batchelder and William J. Blakebrough of Brookfield were business visitors in town Friday.

The venerable George Bradshaw, who lives with his son, Albert G. Bradshaw, on the west hill, has so far recovered from his late illness as to be able to be out of doors again, while his grandson, George Bradshaw, who was dangerously ill at the same time, although improving, is yet in a critical condition, and is cared for by a trained nurse.

Mrs. Carl Moxley, who has been visiting for two weeks in Boston and Winchendon, Mass., has returned home.

Orrin Lyford, who has occupied his brother's, George, house during the past year, has moved his family to Vershire, where he will work for his brother, James Lyford.

Mrs. E. Ralph Walker has recently entertained as her guests two aunts, Mrs. Carr and Mrs. Blake, both of Woodbury.

At the sheriff sale at the Leslie A. Bragg farm last Saturday forenoon, hay sold as high as $11.25 per ton at the barn; straw at 85c; oats at 50 cents per bushel, and India wheat at 55 cents per bushel. Deputy Sheriff George A. Tracy wielded the hammer.

Rev. Carl H. Corwin, who has been with his family at the home of his wife in Old Mission, Mich., arrived in town Saturday and spoke at the Congregational church Sunday morning. He expects to sail for Porto Rico Nov. 3 to resume his labors there as a missionary. His wife, who came from Porto Rico with him in a very feeble condition last August, is not sufficiently strong to return with him.

Mrs. Celia Flanders, who recently broke up housekeeping on Maple avenue, has engaged to work as cook in the hotel at South Royalton, where she will go in the near future. Her daughter, Miss Hazel, will accompany her to South Royalton.

News has been received here of the recent marriage of Nathan P. Dillingham and Miss Lora E. Hill. The bride, who is well known here, is a niece of Mrs. Jennie Atwood and Mrs. Alice Hadley, and the groom is quite well known here also, having been here during the past season as chauffeur for Mrs. Hadley. Mr. Dillingham is proprietor of a stock farm in Danby, where they will make their home.

The E. J. Cook auction, which was billed for last Saturday afternoon was, on account of the pouring rain, postponed until Tuesday afternoon, Nov. 4.

Mrs. Genevieve Farnham Heath, wife of Percy J. Heath, passed away Friday afternoon after a lingering illness from cancerous affection at the age of 36 years. The funeral was held from her late home on South Main street Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. A. B. Enright officiating. Interment was in the family lot in Highland cemetery, the bearers being John M. Bicknell, Herman E. Slack, Ralph Sanborn and Thomas J. Hill. Mrs. Heath was one of our most enterprising, energetic and popular ladies, and is mourned by a wide circle of friends. Besides her husband, she is survived by her mother, Mrs. Farnham,

Arthur Barnard is home from Bristol on business for a few days.

Owing to the inclement weather rally Sunday at the Congregational church was postponed to November 9.

The first number of the Star lecture course was given last Saturday evening by the Strollers quartet. In spite of the heavy rain, there was a full house and those 300 present enjoyed an exceptional treat. The program consisted of quartet singing, solos, readings and impersonations and ringing of Swiss hand bells. The selections were of the highest order, and rendered in an inimitable manner, and the personality of each and every member of the quartet was most wholesome and pleasing. The program was a propitious opening of the lecture course. There was but one mar to the evening's enjoyment—the bad ventilation—so that Miss Douglas and Mrs. Annette Savage were overcome by the lack of pure air. Before leaving town Sunday, the Strollers quartet rendered Dudley Buck's "Lead, Kindly Light," at the Congregational church.

The congregational choir will meet with Mrs. A. W. Bigelow Thursday evening.

All schools in town were closed Thursday and Friday of last week on account of the state teachers' convention at Montpelier. Our town has reason to be proud of the large representation that went from here.
