Cheap and Easily Made, But Ends a Cough Quickly

How to Make the Very Best Cough Remedy

This pint of cough syrup is easily made at home and saves you about $2.00 as compared with ordinary cough remedies. It relieves obstinate coughs—even whooping cough—quickly, and is splendid, too, for bronchial asthma, spasmodic croup and hoarseness.

Mix one pint of granulated sugar with 1/2 pint of warm water, and stir for 2 minutes. Put 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex (fifty cents' worth) in a pint bottle, and add the Sugar Syrup. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours. Tastes good.

This takes right hold of a cough and gives almost instant relief. It stimulates the appetite, and is slightly laxative—both excellent features.

Pinex, as perhaps you know, is a most valuable concentrated compound of refined honey, exact, rich in quaiacul and the other natural healing pine elements.

No other preparation will do the work of Pinex in this mixture. It stimulates the appetite, and is slightly laxative—both excellent features.

Thousands of housewives in the United States and Canada now use this Pinex and Sugar Syrup remedy. This plan has often been imitated, but the old successful combination has never been equalled.

Its low cost and quick results have made it immensely popular. It gives you absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this preparation. Your druggist has Pinex, or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

HELD VERMONT PASTORATE.

And Rev. Samuel Warren Dike Married a Montpelier Woman.

Boston, Dec. 4.—Rev. Samuel Warren Dike, a clergyman of the Congregational denomination, died yesterday at his home in Auburndale, in his seventy-fifth year. He had been seriously ill only a few days, but had not been strong for about the past three years.

He was born in Thompson, Conn., on Feb. 13, 1839, the son of George and Hannah Waters (Spow) Dike. After his graduation from Williston seminary, in 1863, he became a student at Hartford theological seminary, where he remained for two years. He then went to Andover theological seminary, where he was graduated in 1866. He was honored by Williams college in 1888 with the degree of D. D.

He was ordained to the Congregational ministry in 1869 and later held pastorates in Royalton and Randolph, remaining in each of those towns in Vermont for eight years. Afterwards he was pastor of a parish in Pomfret, Conn., for a shorter time. In his general work since then, outside of the pulpit, he had been a contributor to various periodicals, writing upon such subjects as marriage, the family life, divorces, methods of sociology and its study, and also political and religious questions. His writings, in part, led to the organization of the divorce reform league in 1881, which afterward became the national league for the protection of the family, of which Dr. Dike became corresponding secretary. It was he who conceived the idea of the "Home Department of Sunday Schools," which has since spread rapidly and widely with notable success.

Dr. Dike was married on Oct. 29, 1872, to Miss Augusta M. Smith of Montpelier, Vt., who survives him, together with four children: Miss Alice Dike, who has been a teacher at Simmons college almost from its foundation; George P. Dike, a patent lawyer of Boston and member of a well-known law firm; Miss Elizabeth A. Dike, long a teacher in the Winsor school in the Longwood section of Brookline, and Theodore W. Dike, who lives in Alberta, Canada.
