OVER TYPE OF MAN FOR PRESIDENT

The Disruption of Conference Is Now Seriously Threatened

MEDIATOR GOES TO WASHINGTON

Minister Naon Probably Intends to Confer with President Wilson or Secretary Bryan.

Washington, D. C., June 19.—Romulo S. Naon, minister from Argentina and a Mexican mediator, arrived here unexpectedly to-day.

Late to-day when Ambassador Naon of Argentina returns after receiving degrees at Harvard and Yale, it is expected that a conference will be held between the mediators and the two sets of delegates, and it may be determined that the delegates still have some names to submit for provisional president; but there is little likelihood any will be considered seriously by the Huerta delegates.

A controversy also has developed between the American and the Huerta delegates as to how the election for permanent president to be conducted by the provisional president should be supervised.

The United States will insist to the last for a man of constitutionalist principles for provisional president.

Late last night Miss DiCocco recovered consciousness and dispelled the suicide pact theory. She told the police who were waiting at the hospital that Ticoetto and she had planned to elope, but that after hiring her to a lonely spot yesterday he had told her that he had no money to take her away.

Or the Constitutional Cause Is Lost in Mexico.

El Paso, Tex., June 19.—The success or failure of the constitutionalist cause depends on a complete settlement of the difficulties between General Carranza, political head of the Mexican revolutionists, and General Villa, his chief military leader, in the opinion of prominent members of both factions here, who yesterday anxiously awaited developments following the dispatch, Wednesday night, of a joint appeal for harmony to both leaders.

The rumor that the cargo of the steamship Antilla, which was landed for the constitutionalists at Tampico a fortnight ago, has fallen into the hands of Villa's lieutenants, has served to intensify the feeling of uneasiness.

Mrs. Holman, Plaintiff in $50,000 Suit, Is Roundly Scored by Witness

A MORAL IMBECILE WAS PRESUMPTION

Doctors Tell of Her Condition While in Retreat at Brattleboro

Hartford, Conn., June 19.—The hearing of the $50,000 damage suit of Mrs. Elizabeth Curtis Holman of Waterville, Me., against her former husband, Prof. Cranston Brewster and Doctors Paul Waterman and O. C. Smith, was resumed in federal court yesterday. Dr. Waterman concluded his testimony.

He said in his opinion Mrs. Holman, during the time with which the suit deals, before and when she was confined in the Brattleboro, Vt., retreat was suffering from two abnormal mental disorders and there was strong presumption that she was a moral imbecile and to that had been added a transient condition of insanity to which he could not give a definite term.

In the course of cross-examination, Mr. Fitzgerald, counsel for Mrs. Holman, asked what ground Dr. Waterman predicated his opinion of Sept. 3, 1912, that she was insane. The answer: "I found a woman whose sense of truthfulness was markedly defective; whose sense of duty to her husband, mother, her child and society defective; a woman whose maternal instincts were defective, one who had suicidal and homicidal ideas, one who had exaggerated sexual impulses, who was selfish and showed self-aggrandizement and cunning."

TALK OF THE TOWN

"Life is emancipation, the slowly setting free of the mind and soul. Through freedom comes that enlargement of opportunity and growth of spirit. Out of all the story of human history comes the same story of emancipation. It began with the power and passion of war and the search for that which will satisfy the hunger of the body.

"The further back we go the less of humanity we find. You and I have not yet half emerged from the bondage of passion, circumstance and the lure of the world. All that is won must come through the fight of the soldiers of freedom. Struggle, effort and strife are at the basis of every freedom and every great gift humanity has conquered for itself.

"Freedom to live is only won by giving something of ourselves, something of our time, thought, action, hope and love, but searching and trying, beaten back and then coming again, yet in the end winning for those coming after us the freedom we could not ourselves have.

"The man who helps others to rise, helps himself. The soldier of freedom is he who stops to pity and help the fallen and the weak. Not in the mere word of emancipation is man free. The inner bondage is still there, and one by one we must lift the shackles of the spirit and be free."

This morning Professor A. B. Gifford of the University of Vermont gave an address on "Idealism and Action," in which he criticized the church for not taking a more active part in the social problems of the communities in which they are located. He told how the churches might get to work and he made the following recommendations: Church federation for social work; complete organization of philanthropic activities; organization of men's brotherhoods; skilled directors for the social work. In cities, neighborhood, settlement or social center work. In both cities and towns be urged more aggressive action as regards legislation.

Following this address, Rev. C. L. Eaton spoke on "Our Church and Our Youth," shortly after which the convention was brought to a close.

The following officers were elected: President, J. B. Estee, Montpelier; vice president, W. H. Gladding, Randolph; secretary and treasurer, Rev. J. B. Reardon; program committee, J. B. Estee, Rev. Thomas Stratton, Richmond, Rev. C. J. Staples, Burlington, and Miss Carrie Wheelock, Barre.

Resolutions were adopted, expressing appreciation to the Church of the Messiah, Professor A. B. Gifford of the University of Vermont, Rev. C. L. Eaton of Newport, Professor Louis Hathaway of Montpelier; also resolutions commending the work of the state superintendent and another expressing the love of the convention for Rev. J. Edward Wright of Montpelier.

The present Mrs. Beaudry has been Theodore's wife about 15 months. He had 15 other children, all living, when they were married. Four of them are at home now, the others being married.
