Damage caused by the heavy storm of Wednesday night was repaired at the Barre Drug store yesterday, when glaziers lifted the north display window with a new light of heavy window glass. When the storm was at its height, employees of the drug store were alarmed by the loud noise in the front of the store. Investigation revealed the havoc wrought by the wind. Although the big glass was completely ruined, it did not fall into the display space and the curtain back of the window prevented the goods from being ruined. The north side of the window was boarded up for the night and a heavy cover to a nearby glass firm was followed by the arrival of a new pane yesterday. The glass measures seven by eleven feet and was set in the window frame without mishap.

Beans, rolls, cakes, cookies, oat cakes, scones and other good things will be on sale. Don't forget place and date. An out of town man walked the length of Barre's business section on both sides of the street this forenoon and then inquired of a native where he could get in touch with a lawyer, allowing the while that his trip up and down the main thoroughfare had failed to disclose any signs of an attorney's retreat. And the stranger averred that his vision was still clear, too. It took the native some few moments to convince his chance acquaintance that a disconcerting eye could scarcely escape colliding with a lawyer in Barre, even on the side streets. GRANITEVILLE.
