

15 PEOPLE DEAD IN NIGHT RAID BY A ZEPPELIN

Germans this Time Changed Their Direction Going to Northeastern England Rather Than Making in the Direction of London On Southeastern Section

15 MORE PERSONS HURT IN INVADED DISTRICT

Several Fires Were Started By the Projectiles, But by This Morning All of Them Had Been Extinguished, According to Official Statement in London.

A Zeppelin raid over the northeast coast of England last night caused the heaviest loss of life among non-combatants from such attacks during the war, with the exception of yesterday's raid by the French aeroplanes over Karlsruhe, Germany.

The invasion of the province of Trent is proceeding steadily and, according to the Italian general staff, the dominating positions are being occupied generally.

German claims of new success in Galicia are confirmed in part by an official statement from Petrograd. It is said that the Germans brought up fresh troops and the Russians were compelled to fall back.

The British army on the western front has resumed the offensive. It was announced in London to-day that the British had carried another line of German trenches west of LaBassee.

A French torpedo boat has been sunk in collision with a British steamer, and six were drowned.

23 AEROPLANES OVER KARLSRUHE

Determined Assault on German Town by French Aeroplanes and a Large Number of Fires Broke Out.

Paris, June 16.—A great attack by allied airmen on Karlsruhe, capital of Baden, in the Rhine valley, 75 miles from the French frontier, is thus described in last night's official French report.

"In retaliation for the bombardment by the Germans of French and English open towns, the order was given to bombard this morning the capital of the grand duchy of Baden. At 3 o'clock in the morning 23 aeroplanes set out for Karlsruhe.

"Although caught by a northeast wind, they arrived over the town between 5:30 and 6:20 o'clock. They dropped 150 projectiles of 50 and 135 caliber on the objects which had been indicated to them, particularly the station, an arms manufactory and the station.

The Quinry (Mass.) Ledger of June 15 has the following item: "An important meeting of the three Quinry branches of the Granite Cutters' International association was held in Franklin hall Monday night at which time the branches voted to endorse the action of the executive council in relation to the Vermont matter. The branches also resolved the following members delegates to the executive council: Fred Scott, Warren, Charles Johnson and Daniel Scott. Nicholas Williams was re-elected business agent of the Quinry branches for a period of six months."

TUBERCULOSIS IMMUNITY

Claimed for Serum By Dr. Enrico Costelli of Genoa, Italy.

Seattle, Wash., June 16.—Dr. Enrico Costelli, special delegate from the Faculty of Medicine of Genoa, Italy, to the medical profession of the United States, announced at yesterday's meeting of the pathological section of the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis, a method of serum diagnosis of tuberculosis, perfected by himself and his colleagues at the University of Genoa. He stated that by this test he was able to determine the amount of tuberculosis infection, the degree of immunity against the disease, how much tuberculosis matter must be introduced into the body to obtain complete immunity, and how long this immunity will last.

He predicted that in less than 50 years time immunity from tuberculosis would be as thoroughly accomplished as in the case of smallpox.

"We have applied successfully the method of vaccination against tuberculosis, conceived for the first time by Maragliano in 1903. We are able now to apply this vaccination on a large scale among human beings and animals and we have shown that we can even vaccinate pregnant women and animals and obtain products of conception showing features of complete immunization. We also have vaccinated babies during the first six months of life, when the body shows a natural immunity against tuberculosis infection, and we have obtained an immunity which in some cases has proved to be still active four years after the first inoculation of vaccine.

"More important still, acting on the knowledge that much of the tuberculous infection in infancy is contracted through milk, which forms the principal element of infant diet, we concluded that if we adopted for the feeding of babies milk obtained either from immunized animals or vaccinated mothers, we would eliminate the principal source of infection of this disease. The first six months of life is the best period for storing the new organism with all the material defense necessary to react against a future possible infection. In our opinion, the baby that is made immune through the vaccination of the mother and self-vaccination, and kept in a condition of active reactivity against a possible infection by the feeding of immunized milk, is a victim stolen from tuberculosis. We have succeeded in training a group of farmers in the province of Genoa in the technique of immunization of animals and have demonstrated to them that the milk thus obtained does not change, neither in taste nor in its nourishing qualities.

"We feel that we are in position now to master in a logical and systematic way the problem of prophylaxis of tuberculosis and that we have acquired a better understanding of its treatment. The faculty of Genoa is convinced that by applying to the prevention of tuberculosis all the means at our disposal, in less than 50 years from now we would accomplish in tuberculosis what Jenner has accomplished in smallpox. As part of a campaign which we had planned in Italy before the war, using the boards of health as agencies, we recommended the following program:

- 1. An extensive and regular use of serum diagnosis in hospitals, dispensaries and private practice to secure earlier recognition of tuberculosis.
2. Compulsory vaccination of all babies under six months of age. The vaccination has been proven absolutely harmless.
3. Advising vaccination of women who are about to have children.
4. Establishment of farms and dairies supplying immunized milk for exclusive use of children or adults showing evidences of tuberculosis.
5. Vaccination of pregnant cows, to secure products of conception.
6. The administration of tuberculin to six patients of the whole blood of immunized animals, including serum and corpuscles. We have shown that not only is the serum of immunized animals impregnated with anti-bodies but also the other elements of the blood as well. We have been able to perfect a technique of modification which makes the blood less disagreeable and more appetizing than in its natural form."

HE HATES WAR LIKE POISON

Bryan Says Neutral Nations Suffer Serious Disturbance—Former Secretary Issues First Section of "The Causeless War."

Washington, D. C., June 16.—Former Secretary Bryan in the first section of his statement on "The Causeless War" today prophesied that the greatest peace-making opportunity in all history is certain to come to the United States and he declared that there would be a demand for an international conference with the return of peace to change the rules of international law, which seem to have been made for nations at war rather than nations at peace.

Aside from sentimental consideration, Bryan asserts that neutral nations suffer serious disturbance because of war. Neutral nations are put to great expense to preserve their neutrality and they constantly are in danger of being embroiled in a war without intention or fault on their own part.

He declared: "The rules of international law seem to have been made for nations at war rather than for nations at peace. As soon as peace returns there will be a demand for an international conference on the subject. If nations are determined to fight they should, as far as possible, bear the burden themselves and not be permitted to transfer it to nations which avoid war by resorting to reason instead of force."

The progress of the infection which started soon after the wound was inflicted has been started, and there is every reason to believe the man will make a quick recovery.

U. S. PERHAPS HOODWINKED

Charges Made That Anton Gerhardt Really Was German Buying Agent

GIVEN SAFE CONDUCT SECURED BY ALLIES

State Department Is Investigating the Sensational Case

Washington, D. C., June 16.—Published charges that Dr. Anton Meyer Gerhardt, for whom the United States arranged a safe conduct with the allies so that he might return to Germany with a personal message from Count Von Bernstorff, the German ambassador, was in reality Dr. Alfred Meyer, chief of the supply department of the German army, who has been secretly in the United States buying ammunition of war, are to be investigated by the state department.

Simultaneously another version of the story that Meyer, while not passing as Meyer-Gerhardt, has been in the country and sailed with the latter incognito will be looked into. State department officials and diplomats know of the story to-day only from published reports.

The state department will look into the story not because it involves only a violation of international law so far as officials could see to-day, but because the charge of the double identity, if substantiated, would involve diplomatic usage and courtesy.

ORDERED RECOMMENDED.

Goldie Sun Bianchi Is Alleged To Have Broken Her Parole.

Acting at the request of Sheriff Frank H. Tracy, who furnished a warrant signed by Governor Gates, Goldie, or G. Sun Bianchi, as she is now known, was arrested in Burlington yesterday by Sheriff Allen. On the allegation that she violated the terms of her parole, the warrant ordered her recommitted to the house of correction at Rutland. Mrs. Bianchi's request that she might come to Barre to arrange her household affairs was honored, and after a brief stay in the city to-day she was taken to Rutland.

Evidence establishing the alleged violation of her parole is said to have been obtained when Frank Barber, an aged Northfield farmer, spent some time at Mrs. Bianchi's house on Railroad street and then reported the loss of a satchel containing much money. On a hearing in Barre city court Mrs. Bianchi was held for county court. Having obtained bail, she returned to Railroad street. It is claimed that she accompanied her husband, Joseph Bianchi, to a Burlington hospital 10 days ago. Mr. Bianchi passed away Monday and his funeral was held here yesterday, but his wife, the authorities say, was not aware of his demise until her arrest yesterday.

DEATH OF YOUNG GIRL

Miss Julia Wilton Came Here From Massachusetts.

Miss Julia Wilton, aged 16 years, passed away at the home of her mother, Mrs. Lettie Wilton, on West street this morning at 3 o'clock. The deceased had been in Barre but a fortnight, having come here from Graniteville on the advice of her physician, who advised her to seek a lower altitude. She had been in failing health for the past three months. Sometime ago she came to Graniteville from Massachusetts in search of health and for a time a tubercular affection which had manifested itself seemed to be receding. Lately, however, her condition grew worse, but the expected relief did not come, even after she was removed to the lower altitude of the city. Besides her mother, the girl leaves three sisters.

It is expected that funeral services will be held in the Church of the Good Shepherd Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock, the pastor, Rev. W. J. M. Beattie, officiating. Interment will probably be made in Hope cemetery.

That of Dr. H. O. Worthen Held From Residence on Keith Avenue.

The funeral of Dr. Hiram O. Worthen, held at his late residence, 19 Keith avenue, yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock, was largely attended, there being present many members of the medical profession, representatives of banks, long-time fellow-citizens and relatives from Massachusetts, from Caledonia county and from places nearer Barre. A profusion of floral tributes, including many handsome sets of pieces, attested to the respect in which Dr. Worthen was held.

Rev. J. W. Barnett, pastor of the Congregational church, officiated, and the bearers were Dr. Clarence F. Ernest N. and Dr. Ray O. Worthen, sons of the deceased, and Dean H. Perry. Burial was in the family lot in Elmwood cemetery.

WOMAN WAS RELEASED

Mrs. C. Abbiatti, Charged With Assault, Was Allowed to Go.

An end to the $2,000 bail case of state vs. Mrs. C. Abbiatti of Circle street was reached to-day when an entry of no prosecution was made on the records at city court. After reviewing the circumstances the authorities, it is said, decided that the burden of responsibility for trouble created on Circle street one night last week did not rest with Mrs. Abbiatti.

The request of the authorities to stay prosecution was made this forenoon and Mrs. Abbiatti's bail was released. Mrs. Abbiatti, said to be a lecturer who has done propaganda work in Barre and Northfield, and on whom, it was alleged, the assault was made, has packed her trunks and gone to Hardwick to reside.

RESERVE FORCE OF POLICEMEN

But No More Regular Patrolmen Authorized By Barre City Council

DOZEN MEN WOULD BE SELECTED

Police Committee Reported Complaint of Business Men

Repression of misdemeanor and law violation in normal times by an augmented force of regular police, as well as an emergency program for more protection at the present time, was argued by the aldermanic police committee at a special meeting of the city council which followed the regular meeting of the board of aldermen last night. Besides enlarging and defining the requests and protests of a committee of business men at a police committee meeting last week, the extra session had the effect of opening for discussion the subject of policing and policemen in its broadest aspects.

Briefly speaking, the session paved the way for a strong reserve force of policemen without adding to the city's financial burden by authorizing more regular police. But before this action, Sheriff Frank Tracy had come forward with a vigorous defense of Chief Sinclair, Ottavio Grami had lifted his voice against more police, and to cap it all, requests and counter requests served to clarify the atmosphere surrounding the steps taken to preserve order in Barre since the first of March. The business men who asked for more protection at the committee meeting last Friday night were conspicuously absent last evening.

Sheriff Tracy's opportunity for giving his opinion came after the committee had reported the criticisms offered by the business men. In a few words Mr. Tracy corroborated the mayor's statement as to how the deputies were mobilized a few weeks ago, and then turned to defend Chief Sinclair against what he claimed to be unjust criticisms and complaints.

"Your chief of police has not been treated fairly," said the sheriff. "Much of the criticism current on the street and complaints that have proceeded from other sources is due to ignorance of the facts. He is a capable and efficient official and he lacks the united support of the police committee, the council and the public at large. Night after night he labored while others were sleeping. Day after day he worked 18 and 20 hours, but he is surely big enough for the job he now holds. Give him what other cities in Vermont have got—a policeman to every thousand of population; give him your undivided support and encouragement. I have no criticism to make of the personnel of the Barre police force, but I do criticize those who have been unwilling to hold up the hands of the force in its conscientious effort to do its duty in a time of stress.

Mr. Tracy said if there was any complaint to register against the deputies that he would take it any time. He reviewed the circumstances leading up to the mustering of the deputies, told of the action of the manufacturers in requesting that the governor order the state militia and of the governor's refusal to go to such an extreme. The sheriff also reiterated the statement that this request from the manufacturers came several hours after the mayor and the sheriff had arranged with the chief executive for the special deputy service. In defense of the deputies' conduct, he declared that they came to Barre to avert trouble and not to start it.

Sheriff Tracy's commendations of the chief was endorsed by the mayor and Aldermen Bruce and Shurtleff, among others.

Ottavio Grami, who had appealed to the council for conservative action in the matter of providing police, asked the sheriff if Montpelier had a policeman for each 1,000 inhabitants. He was furnished the information that the capital city has four regular police. Mr. Grami gave it as his opinion that Montpelier stands in need of more police than Barre; that three months of industrial inactivity in Barre had not been productive of vandalism, incendiarism or much trouble. He argued that an increase in the payroll of permanent police would work a hardship on the taxpayers.

Alderman Glysson was the spokesman for the police committee in reporting the conference because he had heard none of the reports. Sheriff Tracy stated that the mayor called on him one Monday night a few weeks ago for special deputies. It developed that Barre deputies had been on duty in Montpelier that day. Sheriff Tracy suggested that the mayor get in touch with Governor Gates. This also former did in the same evening. Deputies were authorized by the
