

There is Charm and Beauty to the new fashions all through our store

Most women will be interested in seeing the new things NOW. Everything so fresh, fascinating, and at its very best — for the question of what you are going to wear this spring is becoming more and more important every moment. The question can best be answered by our large assortments — notable for their cleverly designed and exclusive styles, and at unusually low prices, made possible by our many buying advantages. It is always a pleasure to show goods at this store.

Later Mrs. King will go to Albany, N. Y., where she is to be the guest of her sister, Miss Genevieve King, in a convent.

Fred J. Baird of upper Elm street has returned to the city from Irasville, where he has been superintending preparations for sugaring on his farm. Dozens of trees were tapped last week, although Mr. Baird depended upon his employees to hang the bulk of his buckets yesterday. Some of the first maple sugar made in the Mad river valley this year was graded in Mr. Baird's sugar bush last week.

A real estate transaction involving the transfer of property valued at $25,000 was recorded at the Barre office of the D. A. Perry Real Estate agency this morning when the sale of the Sanborn farm, so called, in South Royalton, was completed for C. H. Taft of that village. The purchaser is O. M. Johnson of Rochester, who will take possession of the farm, stock and tools, the consideration being $10,000. In the deal Mr. Taft becomes the possessor of a four-tenement apartment house in Boston, which is valued at $15,000. He will continue to use it as an investment proposition. Mr. Taft is moving his household goods to a house which he owns in the village of Royalton. The sales were consummated through W. W. Perkins, the Bethel representative of the Barre agency.

A number of local people followed the auction trail to South Royalton yesterday, when D. A. Perry wielded the hammer at a sale of farm realty, stock and tools owned by J. H. and J. W. Patten. One of the surprises of the day was the sale of hay at the barn for $17.75 per ton, but South Royalton buyers explained the prevalence of high hay prices in that vicinity by pointing out the continued scarcity of the commodity for several weeks. The farm, containing 400 acres, was sold to Joseph Waldo of Royalton for $3,300. The property is located on the road to Barnard. Geese brought $2.50 each and a pair of four-year-old steers sold for $197.50. Cows ranged from $25.50 to $40 and straw went under the hammer at $9.75 the ton. Farming implements also brought good prices.

Regular meeting of Inopuqua tribe, No. 16, to-night at 7 o'clock; work, adoption degree; business, nomination of great chiefs.

Regular stated convention of Vinetia lodge, No. 10, K. of P., will be held to-night at 7:30 o'clock. Work, rank of esquire. Lunch.
