V. S. A. NOTES.

The potatoes are all planted, the garden is nearly all in and spring's work is well along at V. S. A.

Baseball seems to be the all-important topic just now. Two games were played last week, both resulting in victories for V. S. A., making seven victories to her credit for the seven games played this season. Friday, May 19, the team met their brother Aggies from the state school at Lyndon Center on the school field here and defeated them 14 to 3 in an interesting, though rather easy, game. The fact that the Lyndon Aggies had traveled a distance of 75 miles by automobile was doubtless in a measure responsible for the result of the score. The boys spent the night at the Maplewood, Saturday morning at 10 o'clock they played the Randolph V. S. A. team and were defeated 4 to 2. They then returned to the Center and left at 3:20 p. m. for home.

S. C. Clarke, who has been gaining late from his severe heart trouble, is again not so comfortable and is suffering constantly.

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Monroe of Windsor have been with Mrs. Monroe's parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Esterbrook, for a few days, and Mr. Monroe left for his home on Tuesday.

E. A. Heath has rented the rooms just vacated by the Randolph telephone exchange in the McIntyre block, and the repairs are already begun on the same.

When they are completed it is expected that Mr. Heath will move his business from the basement tenement of the Bass block to this place.

W. H. Crane is enlarging the C. W. A. Putnam house on Highland avenue, owned by his sister, by the addition of a bay window, the upper portion of which can be used as a sleeping porch if desired.

BERLIN

The pleasant Sunday evenings at the Berlin Corners church, designed for the benefit of the whole community, have been a decided success. Last Sunday evening Mr. Estee of Montpelier gave an address on "Rural Life One Hundred Per Cent Efficiency," that was much enjoyed by a numerous audience. Next Sunday at 8 p. m., Harold W. Slocum of the Vermont state board of health will give an exhibit of motion pictures that entertain and instruct. This will be the last of the present series of meetings.

Our Immigrant Boys.

The Boston bootblack of Greek name who threw aside brush and box to join the ranks of the sculptors, and has just won the Stewardson prize awarded by the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts, represents a type of immigrant which we cannot do too much to encourage. In the last dozen years we have seen several of our city boys of immigrant stock make excellent showing, not only in the plastic arts, but also in music and in English composition. A test recently applied by the Civic Service house and the Old South association brought out a remarkable series of essays on Abraham Lincoln, written by lads of Hebrew, Italian, Greek and English inheritance. We have a newsboys' society which commands the aid of our public men, conducts its proceedings in a parliamentary manner and marches in procession with the best of us on patriotic occasions; nor is it unusual for a newsboy of foreign birth or parentage to win a scholarship in a university.

None of these, of course, are "boy prodigies," developed by special methods of training. They are the average lads who come fresh to these shores on the immigrant ships or are born here after the arrival of their parents—born into a new world which beats in upon them with its vast horizons, its countless opportunities and its wonder-working stimulus. You see them busy in our schools, bright-eyed and alert, eager for every chance of making the most of themselves. They learn our language in "next to no time"; they take part in the school declamations and carry off many of the prizes. In conservative homes they become themselves the teachers of progress, and there is perhaps no preparation of our immigrants for American citizenship which equals in directness and potency the lessons which these young people impress upon their elders.

Here in this favored land they find no fixed stations in life into which the individual is born and in which he must remain. Nowhere else to the same extent is "the career open to talents."

Newcomers from whatever country, of whatever race and language, enter here into an atmosphere of hope and help where effort is appreciated and achievement tells.—Boston Herald.
