Bearers at the funeral of Fred E. Gouldberg, which was held in Barre yesterday following the transfer of his remains to this city from Swanton, where his death took place Friday night, were as follows: John H. Griffin, Peter Thom, William Carson and John Bresaw. Interment was made in Elmwood cemetery. Through The Times the family wishes to thank the neighbors and friends for their expressions of sympathy and the flowers contributed.

A prolonged blast from the fire whistle at the gas plant this morning at 8:10 o'clock had many people on their toes in anticipation of a fire. Acting Chief Carpenter turned in the test alarm from box 21 at the corner of North Main street and Depot square and when he attempted to stop the blast, the whistle continued screaming. Upon investigation it was learned that the whistle had "stuck" and eventually likened to the condition that exists when the tongue cleaves to the palate.

Special instructions received this week by H. W. Britton, local agent for the American Express Co., indicate that the express people, together with connecting express companies, have thrown open their entire organization to the aid of the American Red Cross in getting supplies to the Mexican border. The bulletin states that the express company, represented locally, has instructed its agents everywhere to accept shipments of the kind designated at a special rate of two-thirds of the regular shipping charge. It is stated that this will not only make a very material difference to the Red Cross in shipping expenses, but will also insure the quick arrival of relief supplies where they are needed.

City street laborers ditched the big steam roller near the northern extremity of North Main street yesterday and spent a part of their time in extricating the machine before work on the resurfacing project at that point could continue satisfactorily. The roller found its temporary abiding place in a strip of bog on the east side of the highway not far from Jones Bros' plant. Apparently the condition of the ground was an unknown quantity to the laborers, for they got their first inkling of the roller's immobility when they saw it settling toward the equator. In order the easier to release the rollers from the clutches of the bog, the laborers built a substantial emplacement under the machine and succeeded finally in moving the apparatus to firmer ground.

Not An Epicure.

One afternoon a sad eyed hobo rambled up the garden walk of a suburban home and meekly tapped on the back door.

"Lady," said he in a tearful voice to the woman who answered his knock, "I hain't had a thing to eat since last week. If you would only give me some bread or—"

"Mary," suddenly interjected the woman, addressing some invisible person, "bring Towser out here at once."

"All right, dear lady," said the hobo in a resigned voice; "even dog meat is better than starvin' to death."—Philadelphia Telegraph.
