MUCH INTEREST SHOWN.

In 12th Annual Meeting of Vermont Forestry Association.

Lyndonville, July 31—The program for the twelfth annual meeting of the Vermont Forestry association, to be held here August 2, includes an inspection of the state forest plantation in the southern part of Lyndon. This was a sandy, worthless tract on which the young trees have made a remarkable growth and is a demonstration of what may be accomplished along this line. Lunch will be served at the Old Brick Tea Shoppe. The Tea Shoppe enjoys a reputation of more than local extent, and in addition to the excellent menus provided, contains many interesting relics of earlier days.

In the afternoon at 2 o'clock, will take place a fire warden's session at Lyndon Center, when W. R. Brown of the Berlin Mills Co. will give a talk on the possibilities of insuring standing timber. At 3 o'clock a field meeting will take place when Amos J. Eaton will speak on "The Forest" and Mrs. John B. Chase on the work of the Lyndon Boys' and Girls' Home Project Club. The Theodore N. Vail Agricultural school will then be inspected.

In the evening at 8 o'clock a business meeting will be held in Music hall. The program includes music by the local orchestra and addresses by President Ernest Hitchcock, State Forester A. F. Hawes, the Hon. Theodore N. Vail, and Hon. Horace F. Graham. C. M. Darling of this place is taking an active interest in making the occasion a notable one. Much interest in the meeting is taken in this and surrounding towns.

NELSON Motorists expect every gallon of Soquoy Motor Gasoline to do its duty, and they are never disappointed.

CANNING WITHOUT SUGAR.

Fruit Can Be Preserved Otherwise, Says Agricultural Department.

Fruit for use in pie or salads or as stewed fruit can be put up or canned without the use of any sugar at all, according to the canning specialists of the agricultural department. They, therefore, advise those who, because of the high price of sugar, have been thinking of reducing the amount of fruit they put up, to can as much of their surplus as possible by the use of boiling water when sugar syrup is beyond their means. Any fruit, they say, may be successfully sterilized and retained in the pack by simply adding boiling water instead of the hot syrup. The use of sugar, of course, is desirable in the canning of all kinds of fruit and makes a better and roody sweetened product. Moreover, most of the fruits when canned in water alone do not retain their natural flavor, texture and color as well as fruit put up in syrup. Fruit canned without sugar to be used for sauces or desserts must be sweetened.

Directions for Canning Fruits without Syrup.

Can the product the same day it is picked. Cull, stem, or seed, and clean the fruit by placing it in a strainer and pouring water over it until it is clean. Pack the product thoroughly in glass jars or tin cans until they are full, use the handle of a tablespoon, wooden ladle, or table knife for packing purposes. Pour over the fruit boiling water from a kettle, place rubbers and caps in position, partially seal if using glass jars, seal completely if using tin cans. Place the containers in a sterilizing vat such as a water boiler with false bottom, or other receptacle improvised for the purpose. If using a hot water bath outfit, process for 30 minutes; count time after the water has reached the boiling point; the water must cover the highest jar in container. After sterilizing remove packs, seal glass jars, wrap in paper to prevent bleaching and store in a dry, cool place.

If you are canning in tin cans it will improve the product to plunge the cans quickly into cold water immediately after sterilization. When using a steam pressure canner instead of the hot water bath, sterilize for ten minutes with five pounds of steam pressure. Never allow the pressure to go over ten pounds.

WASHINGTON COUNTY FARM BUREAU ASSOCIATION.

Report for week ending July 29: Farmers visited 12, Letters written 24, Persons calling 13, Telephone calls 15, Miles traveled 140.

Several farmers are reporting that their hay is all secured and everywhere barns are full of a good crop. Two of the summer seeded demonstration plots of alfalfa have been put in this week, one at C. A. Badger's at East Montpelier, and the other at D. R. Bisbee's at Watsfield. Part of Mr. Badger's field was sowed last June with a nurse crop of barley. The barley was cut this week. The alfalfa has done well, probably averaging 10 inches in height. The cutting at this time will enable the young alfalfa plant to get a good growth before going into the winter. Mr. Bisbee's sowing was about a third of an acre, taking eight pounds of seed. A portion of the field was left unseeded, the balance being limed at the rate of two and one-half tons to the acre. The ground was in grass last year, plowed last fall, a good coat of manure applied this spring, and was kept harrowed until the sowing. Both Grimm and common seed were sowed and small check plots left, where uninculcated seed of each kind was sowed.

Seedlings of alfalfa will be made this week on the farms of A. E. Smith & Son of east hill, George Dillingham of Northfield, and George Wallis of Watsfield. There will be some seed left over, so if any wish to try a small plot arrangements should be made with the county agent at once, as this is the last week that it will be practical to sow the alfalfa.

George McFarland has just cut this year's second crop from his field. It was nice clean alfalfa hay, about 32 inches high, running about two tons to the acre. You are invited to correspond with the county agent regarding the eradication of witch grass, as it is planned to start some demonstrations at once. We will not find it difficult to rid our fields of the witch grass if we pursue the proper methods and give it the right treatment at the right time. F. H. Abbot, County Agent.

Holland and Herrings.

To the sea the Dutch owe most of their wealth. The art of curing herring was discovered by a poor Dutch fisherman, William Beukels, in 1350, who found that the fish which they caught in great abundance could be smoked and salted away in kegs and then transported to the ends of the world in good condition. Such a trade resulted that it was said that "Amsterdam is built on herring bones." Several hundred years after the death of Beukels the emperor, Charles V., went to the tomb of the fisherman and there ate a herring in gratitude for the invention. And in a church in Biervliet today may be seen a stained glass window in honor of this man. Herring have been one of the chief means of trade to the Hollanders, so that even at the present day the first catch is taken to the royal palace in a coach and six.

The fact that the two dominant political parties of Holland for hundreds of years were called the "Cods" and the "Fishbooks" shows that maritime matters were the uppermost in the people's thoughts.—Exchange.

Concerning the Dolomites.

The fairland about Cortina is familiar to thousands of tourists as "The Dolomites." Dolomite, a rock composed of carbonate of lime and carbonate of magnesia, takes its name from the French geologist Deodat de Grater, Marquis de Dolomieu, who spent his time in 1789 and the following years, while his countrymen were busy with revolution and war, in visiting this and other Alpine districts. He first mentions this kind of rock in 1791, and the word "Dolomite" first occurs in a pamphlet of 1802 describing a tour of his in the Alps about the St. Gothard and the Simplon. The curious point, noted by Mr. Condlige, is that the marquis seems to have paid no attention to the dolomite rocks in the neighborhood of his own home, Dolomieu, near Grenoble.—London Mirror.
