ECZEMA ON BABY'S FACE AND KNEES

Very Tiny Red Pimples. Changed To Dry, Scaly Crusts. Kept Hands in Bags.

HEALED BY CUTICURA SOAP AND OINTMENT

"When my little girl was a baby she had patches of eczema on her face and over her knees. The breaking out was like very tiny red pimples at first and soon changed to dry scaly crusts, giving a very rough appearance, and causing her much discomfort, and I kept her hands in bags to keep her from scratching. I tried several kinds of salves and liquids which did not benefit her and she looked worse. Then I began to use Cuticura Soap and Ointment and soon after she grew better and was quickly healed. I have always kept the Cuticura Soap and Ointment in the house since." (Signed) Mrs. W. H. Knight, 5 East High St., Newbury, Mass., Oct. 19, 1915.

WHEN SMALL GOT THE NEWS

Conner Tells Story of Trip to Boston on Fatal Day

PRINCIPAL OF HIGH SCHOOL TESTIFIES

Chief Witness in Preliminary Hearing at Mountaintown, N. H.

Mountain View, N. H., Oct. 6.—Whether Frederic L. Small, the former Boston stock broker, should be held pending grand jury investigation of the murder of his wife, Mrs. Florence A. Small, who was beaten, shot and strangled to death at her home here, which was burned to cover the crime, on Sept. 28, or relieved of the charge of murder on which he is being held, was the issue of a hearing in the district court yesterday.

The prosecution, prior to the afternoon recess, introduced testimony from E. C. Conner, principal of the high school, that the cord which strangled Mrs. Small resembled closely a cord which her husband used to manipulate the lever on his motor boat.

This cord, the witness said, had been removed recently from the boat, together with other articles.

Conner, who also writes insurance, told of Small's summoning him to his home last February and, after subsequent negotiations growing out of that call, buying a joint insurance policy for $20,000 covering both himself and his wife.

The trip which Small made to Boston on the afternoon of Sept. 28, which was ended with his receipt of news of the fire and the disappearance of his wife, was described by Conner, who accompanied Small as his guest. Small changed the plans for the Boston visit, according to the witness, deciding only Thursday morning to make the trip that day. Conner told of their visit to Boston, with a dinner at a hotel, attendance at a theatre, and return to the hotel, where a telephone call awaited Small.

Because he stood just outside the door of the booth, Conner testified, he heard the entire conversation. Frank O. Ferren, hotel proprietor at Mountaintown, told Small, he said: "We've had a big fire up here. Where is your wife? We've searched everywhere and cannot find her. We're afraid she is in the ruins."

Conner testified that Small exclaimed: "My God, can it be true? I'm all alone in the world. I've lost my pet. It can't be true."

The hurried return trip by automobile and the arrival of Small at the ruins were described by the witness, who stated that the defendant's conversation and bearing were natural. In his examination of the ruins of the Small home Conner said he saw a shining object, which he covered with water and found it to be a rusty, later identified as that of Mrs. Small. The cause which had caused it to drop into a pool of water in the basement and preserved from the flames the head, with evidence of a knotted cord around the neck. A jaw which had fractured the skull and a bullet wound.

Small did not see the body at that time. On leaving the ruins of his home, Conner testified, Small exclaimed: "There's $6,000 worth of jewelry in there that I have no more use for. Anybody can have it."

Conner testified he was positive of the close resemblance between the cord which encircled Mrs. Small's neck and that which directed the motor boat lever, because, he said, on a cruise with the Smalls and Mrs. Conner the lever had become jammed and Conner was called upon to fix it. He noted especially, he said, the composition of the cord at that time.

On a visit to Small's boathouse since the murder, Conner said he found the cord had been removed from the boat. Mrs. Conner corroborated her husband's testimony as to the resemblance between the cords, and Ferren testified in corroboration of the telephone conversation with Small.

Small's actions when he left home for the trip to Boston were described by George Kennett, who drove him to the station. Kennett said he went to the Small home in response to a telephone call. Arriving there half an hour before the appointed time, he found Small awaiting him at the door. In leaving, the witness said, Small turned and said "Good bye" apparently to Mrs. Small. He did not see her, he testified, nor did he see any waving of hands or anything else to indicate her presence in the house.

Under cross examination Kennett testified that Small had greeted him with the words: "Well, George, I'm glad you got here early."

W. S. Chase, a rural free delivery carrier, who also writes insurance, told of negotiations with Small regarding insurance, and Charles Sagell, a grocer, testified to his observations of the Small household.

Various Forms Of Headache

"It is necessary in order to treat headaches properly to understand the causes which produce the affection," says Dr. J. W. Bay, of Hockton, Ala. Continuing, he says, "Physicians cannot even begin the treatment of a disease without knowing what causes give rise to it, and we must remember that headaches is to be treated accordingly to the same rule. We must not only be particular to give a remedy intended to counteract the cause which produces the headache, but we must also give a remedy to relieve the pain until the cause of the trouble has been removed. To answer this purpose, anti-kamnia tablets will be found a most convenient and satisfactory remedy. One tablet every one to three hours gives comfort and rest in the most severe cases of headache, neuralgia and particularly the headaches of women. When we have a patient subject to regular attacks of sick headache, we should caution him to keep his bowels regular, for which nothing is better than 'Actoids,' and when he feels the least sign of an oncoming attack, he should take two A-K Tablets. Such patients should always be instructed to carry a few anti-kamnia tablets, so as to have them ready for instant use. These tablets are prompt in action and can be depended on to produce relief in a very few minutes. Ask for A-K Tablets. Anti-kamnia tablets at all druggists."
