

ABOUT THE STATE

HAPPENINGS OF INTEREST FROM DIFFERENT SECTIONS

Senator Carroll S. Page has left Atlantic City for Washington, D. C., and will not come to Vermont until the holidays.

A Finn who occupied a shanty in Windham lost about $100 in cash last week when the shack was destroyed by fire during his absence.

Rev. F. A. Krackhardt, pastor of the churches at Westfield and Troy, was married Nov. 16 in Berlin, Mass., to Miss Eula Howard of that place.

Mrs. S. H. Huey of Bellows Falls is the only woman in that locality who has shot a buck this year. She also was fortunate enough last year to kill one.

Rev. John L. Holden was on Tuesday installed as pastor of the Congregational church at Clarendon. He is also an assistant to Rev. Dr. Arthur Bradford of the Rutland church.

At least 300 persons attended the formal opening of the Richmond creamery Tuesday. Public services were held in the hall and Governor Gates was one of the speakers.

Between Saturday night and Monday morning, someone stole about 1,000 feet of lumber from a pile near the old furniture factory in St. Albans, where repairs are being made.

L. K. Osgood, a Rutland farmer, has sold 2,500 bushels of potatoes this fall at $2 per bushel. Most of them have been sent out of the state. He planted 25 acres of land to potatoes.

Howard Kennedy's left hand was caught in a gear at the Elliott mill in Waterbury recently and lacerated so that parts of his forefinger and the middle finger had to be amputated.

J. B. Cross of Highgate, aged 96 years, has just returned from a trip to Denver, Col., making the journey alone. Mr. Cross goes west nearly every year and the western papers call him the "globe trotter."

Homer Gustin was quite badly injured at the railroad shops in Lyndonville a few days ago when a chisel which he was holding while some rivets were being cut flew and hit him in the face, cutting his lip open. It required seven stitches to close the wound.

Carl J. Eskelne, who graduated from Dartmouth college last June and who played on both the baseball and basketball teams at that institution, through which he became generally known in this locality, left Saturday for an extended trip to Russia in the interests of the Standard Oil company. He expects to be at Vladivostok for about three years.

While on his way to work Wednesday morning Fred J. Adams, assistant superintendent of the Brattleboro Water Works Co., shot a 225-pound buck with a Colt 38 revolver. Mr. Adams spied the animal at a distance of about 50 yards and brought it down with the first shot. The deer was an exceptionally fine specimen.

A harness belonging to William E. Harris of East Charlotte, which was stolen from his barn nearly a month ago has been found and restored to its rightful owner. It was found Saturday morning, tied in a bag lying in the highway about a mile south of Mr. Harris' home.

Winooski Mill Hands to Benefit. The employees of the American Woolen mills at Winooski will be richer by $10,000 a month after Dec. 4.

This announcement was made by George E. Whitney, agent of the mills. "We are running night and day," continued Mr. Whitney, "and employ around 2,500 hands on both our day and night shifts.

"Our payroll approximates $100,000 a month and the increase, which is 10 per cent, will add about $10,000 to the monthly incomes of the employees."

TO WALK 100 MILES. George Miner, with 20 Cents, Set Adrift in Rutland at Age of 74.

Rutland, Nov. 24.—Although George Miner of Richmond is 74 years old, a tramp of 100 miles in winter weather is nothing for him. He started out yesterday morning to do the trick as cheerfully as though he were about to take a walk around the block. Miner was sent to the house of correction for tramping in August. He got out on Nov. 4 and since that time has been working at odd jobs about Rutland. Work became slack and Wednesday evening he became hungry and accosted people on the street, asking for the price of a lunch. He succeeded in obtaining 20 cents but the begging eventually landed him in the city jail and yesterday morning he had to face Judge F. G. Swinerton on the charge of tramping.

A plea of guilty was entered and a sentence of four to six months was imposed. Execution of sentence was suspended for two hours, however, and Miner assured the court that he would start immediately to hike to St. Albans which is 100 miles distance from this city. He still had the 20 cents which he had received and the court gave him a quarter which he accepted with a "God bless you."

DEER HUNTING FATALITY. Mrs. Fred Taylor of East Thetford Died of Loss of Blood.

Thetford, Nov. 24.—The funeral of Mrs. Fred Taylor of the east part of the town was held yesterday afternoon, death resulting from a deer-hunting accident which occurred Monday afternoon.

Mrs. Taylor accompanied her husband to the orchard near their house, where he shot a deer. Later she shot at another deer and, as she passed the rifle back to her husband, it was accidentally discharged, the bullet passing through her leg below the knee. She was first taken to the home of a neighbor, but lost much blood and a physician who was called hurried her to the hospital, where she died that night.

The Deer Slaughter Record. The total number of deer killed during the present open season, according to reports received by Commissioner John W. Titcomb, to noon Thursday, is 694. The summary by counties is:

Table with 2 columns: County and Number of Deer. Includes Addison (35), Bennington (60), Caledonia (25), Chittenden (27), Essex (68), Grand Isle (37), Lamoille (9), Orange (46), Orleans (25), Rutland (81), Washington (97), Windham (102), Windsor (72).

Frank Kimball Died Last Night of Pneumonia.

Newbury, Nov. 24.—Frank Kimball, one of the best known business men of this section, died at midnight last night of pneumonia, having been ill only a few days. He was 55 years of age and leaves his wife, Mr. Kimball was a director of the bank at Wells River and he represented the town in the legislature several years ago.

He Doesn't Want This Girl to Love Him. The second prize in the contest, "The Worst Bore I Ever Knew," is printed in the December American Magazine. The winner says:

"I am only a schoolboy, and maybe kids are not supposed to be bored. But if older people are ever tortured worse than I have been by a bore, I hate to think of growing up. The worst bore I ever knew was a girl at school. And she followed me from class to class and from grade to grade, like a bad conscience. When we began departmental work I thought I might escape at times; but she was always near by. Close enough to drive me to the verge of murder. To begin with, she was overgrown, long-legged and ugly. She was about my age, but weighed half as much again as I did. Her skin was muddy and swarthy. Her hair black and oily and slick on her peaked head. Her eyes beady and black and sort of crossed, but whichever way they turned, one was always on me. For, in spite of all my snubs and black looks, she was devoted to me in a way that drove me wild. I never failed to send her an ugly valentine every year. (Once I sent ten.) And every year she gave me a pretty, sweet one. I dipped her braid in ink and dragged it across her neck. She giggled and was delighted. I drew hideous pictures of her and she ogled at me and made all the others believe I had written her a note."

Freed from Worms

Familiar signs of worms in children are: Dizziness, stomach, swollen upper lip, sour stomach, offensive breath, hard and full belly with occasional gripings and pains about the navel, pale face, loss of leaden tint, eyes heavy and dull, twitching eyelids, itching of the nose, itching of the rectum, short dry cough, grinding of the teeth, little red spots sticking out on tongue, starting during sleep, slow fever. If your child shows any of these symptoms, start using Dr. True's Elixir, the Family Laxative and Worm Expeller, at once.

"My little son is gaining every day, and I think more of Dr. True's Elixir than all other such medicines put together," writes Mrs. Ida Gagnon of Manchester, N. H.

GREAT ALASKAN EARTHQUAKE.

Account of One of Ten Greatest Earthquakes at Yakutat Bay, Alaska.

Uncle Sam has for sale copies of a report by the United States geological survey, of the department of the interior, one of the ten greatest earthquakes of historic times—that in the Yakutat bay region of Alaska.

The Yakutat bay earthquake occurred on September 3, 1899, and was followed during the next three weeks by many less violent shocks. The area of greatest intensity lay along the flanks of the St. Elias range, in a region of high mountains and superb glaciers, and the movement was accompanied by enormous avalanches and rock slides. This was a vivid demonstration that the growth of mountains is still in progress. At some places in the region the land subsided and forests were submerged. In many places, however, the land rose, and at most places which before had lain below sea level were elevated above it. Barnacles which had lived in ocean water were found 47 feet above the sea.

In addition to making an exhaustive study of the movements of the land which took place in the Yakutat bay region and of the effects of the earthquake on the many glaciers of the region, the writers amassed a great fund of information in regard to the intensity of the quake throughout the whole area within which it was sensible and recorded the testimony of many witnesses. The shock was felt at distances of 670 and 1,200 miles in opposite directions from Yakutat bay, and the area of the region over which the tremblings were felt is more than 1,500,000 square miles. This gives the Yakutat bay earthquake a place among the very greatest earthquakes of historic times. Previous great shocks, without exception, resulted in heavy loss of life, the number of persons killed reaching in one of them the enormous total of over 60,000. The Yakutat bay shock was fortunately free from fatalities because the region in which it occurred is sparsely settled.

This report—"The earthquakes at Yakutat bay, Alaska, in September, 1899"—is illustrated with halftone views, showing the effects of the earthquake, and with maps of the region and seismograms of the shock, as recorded at places as far distant as Batavia, Java; Cape Town, South Africa; and Catania, Italy. The report may be obtained from the superintendent of documents, Washington, D. C., at a cost of 60 cents in paper and 75 cents in cloth binding.
