

ABOUT THE STATE
HAPPENINGS OF INTEREST FROM DIFFERENT SECTIONS
Mrs. John Hall fractured one hip last week when she slipped on a piece of orange peel on the floor of the kitchen at her home in West Guilford.

Receivers have been named for the Stamford chemical plant and its recent reorganizations, and there are allegations of fraud in the plant's management.

A special town meeting was held in Swanton Saturday, at which time it was voted to abate the taxation for a period of five years on the plant of the Remington U. M. C. Over 500 hands are employed and over $70,000 has been paid for labor since Jan. 1.

H. L. Whittemore has resigned as instructor of the agricultural course in the Vergennes high school to take a position as teacher of agriculture in Robinson academy, Ashfield, Mass. H. B. Little of Colebrook, N. H., succeeds Mr. Whittemore in the Vergennes school.

The Saxtons River woolen mill has been sold by the owner, Mrs. John Horan, to James Walsh and John Roberts, both of Claremont, N. H. Mr. Walsh and Mr. Roberts, who have been operating a shoddy mill at Claremont, have taken possession of the Saxtons River mill.

In the recently issued annual village report of the town of Bennington, an interesting light is thrown on the findings of the village commissioners in regard to the disappearance of liquor from the lockup, when they, at the end of the report concerning the disappearance, recommend that a change be made in the personnel of the police department.

Mrs. Birney Martin had a bad fall Friday evening at the home of her daughter, Mrs. C. M. Boright of Richford. After turning out the electric lights she started for her room, to retire, but opened the cellar door instead and went headlong to the foot of the stairs, striking her head against the cellar wall. No bones were broken, but Mrs. Martin was very badly bruised all over her body.

The effect of the Dunham marriage law, which becomes operative May 1, is already being felt in Bellows Falls, where the call for marriage licenses has dropped off rapidly the past few weeks. Since that town was discovered to be a Gretna Green about 13 months ago, more than 1,500 couples, most of them from out of the state, have been married there. The usual average a month was over 100, but in March that number dropped to 43.

A Stowe man who just returned from a 12 weeks' stay in the South was surprised to hear a hen in his barn, supposing that he sold his best hen before his departure. When investigated, there was a White Leghorn hen, which had evidently been overlooked at the time of the sale, but which had subsisted for three months on what she could pick up around the barn. Although the hen was not in what would be called prime condition, she was cackling over a new-laid egg when found.

Henry Larock, "the laziest man in Vergennes," has been sentenced to six months at hard labor in the house of correction at Rutland. Larock, who is the father of 12 children, had repeatedly refused offers of work at $2.25 per day, although in good health, and anything done for the family had to be done by neighbors, Larock having even refused to get a pail of water and empty a pan of ashes the day before he was sentenced. His wife is critically sick with pneumonia, there is a three-month-old baby, three of the children are in the industrial school and the remainder are cared for by various relatives. The arrest of the man followed complaints entered by neighbors as to conditions at the Larock house.

"Do Your Duty as You see it" is a good precept to follow, but be sure your sight is good enough to see the wisdom of the law. Insurance, National Life Ins. Co., of Vt. (Mutual), S. S. Ballard, general agent, Rialto building, Montpelier, Vt.

MR. AUTOMOBILE MAN:
Those little cuts in your tires may cost you money and trouble later on.
How do you know you have cuts in your tires? We answer: Did you ever see a tire that had been run any distance that didn't have little cuts in it? We don't believe any one did.

These little cuts don't prevent running the car until they result in a blow-out, and so most of us neglect them TOO LONG.
The little cuts let in dirt, the dirt works down into the tire and makes the tire soft; dirt and water loosen the tread from the fabric; a weak spot develops and then, bang! a costly repair on a new tire.

While you are waiting for summer, which is just around the corner, we suggest that you let us look your casings over, which we will do free of charge, and if you have them fixed you will be ALL READY for the first summer day.

When you want to go out, you don't want to bother about getting tires or anything else fixed up.

Remember, a stitch in time saves nine.

Sea Tyranny.
It is part of the scientific efficiency of German diplomacy to work up old grudges just as German chemists systematically seek neglected by-products. Not only does it incite rebellion in Ireland, India, Mexico, or wherever a rebellion might be useful, but it does not hesitate to stir up trouble between the friendly nations. Its agents in the United States are to war against Mexico; the Mexican government is offered Texas as a reward for attacking the United States. The same agents have agitated in the United States for a war on Japan; we may be sure that not less ingenuously has been used to incite Japan to attack the United States. To stir up feeling against England, strenuous use is made of the old grudges left by the war in 1912, and to win sympathy or at least tolerance, Germany is represented as the champion of the freedom of the seas against British tyranny.

The argument would be more effective if the war had not by this time given neutrals an opportunity to observe both that Germany has used whatever sea power it has even more unscrupulously than Great Britain and that the methods of German imperialism on land put Germany out of court as the spokesman of freedom of any sort. We cannot question the sincerity of its desire to destroy British sea power, but the conduct of the war from its very beginning shows that if Germany should outstrip England in the competition of armaments it could not be trusted to use sea power with the moderation which England has learned. If there is to be a predominant sea power, the world as a whole would rather have it England than almost any other country, not because the English are more virtuous, but because the use which England makes of it is now fairly well known and measured. It has its empire, and if only for selfish reasons, desires peace and the status quo. It has hitherto been wise enough also to recognize that with wide empire based on sea power free trade is essential. Its government everywhere, too, has been of a loose, tolerant sort, which German efficiency despises, but which has greatly reduced the friction involved in international trade and the ubiquitous sea power on which it rests. None of these conditions would exist if control of the sea should be won by Germany, a new empire, hungry for conquest, strongly militaristic in temper, highly organized and correspondingly dictatorial.

If the war should end with Germany dominant on land and England still the first naval power, it would undoubtedly be to Germany's interest, for the time being, at least, to seek by international policy to curb sea power in the interest of land power. Before the present war it had an excellent opportunity to press such a movement by postponing its challenge to Great Britain until it had made its position secure on the continent. The drift was all toward the neutralizing of the seas, and even in England feeling was growing that the time approached for laying aside the old prerogatives. By the Tirpitz challenge which began in 1898 Germany did the best to increase "navalism" as taught by Mahan, and thereby to perpetuate the chief force available against military conquest.

The war has given neutrals a broader view and in particular has let them see that the problem is not single but double. They have seen that the inconveniences caused to neutrals by sea power, while widely diffused, are not comparable to the violence offered to neutrals which like Belgium are unhappy enough to lie within reach of German land power. They have seen that to carry out immediately the highly desirable reform of war at sea for which America has worked since Franklin's day, would bring about an enormous derangement in the balance of forces which in some way would have to be compensated.

The present war, and not least the USE ALLEN'S FOOT-EASE, the antiseptic powder to be shaken into the shoes which like Belgium are unhappy enough to lie within reach of German land power. They have seen that to carry out immediately the highly desirable reform of war at sea for which America has worked since Franklin's day, would bring about an enormous derangement in the balance of forces which in some way would have to be compensated.

Valuable Property for Sale
One of the Nicest Locations in Montpelier
As my practice is such as to prevent me giving proper attention to the care and management of this property, I have decided to dispose of the so-called Buckley farm, consisting of about 60 acres on Northfield street, opposite my residence, which is only about 10 minutes' walk from business center and railroads.

This property has a street frontage of about 1,750 feet and is divided into about 28 acres of tillage, balance woodland and pasture. There is a good double brick house and large barn in good condition. Experts have estimated over 450,000 feet of lumber on the woodlot, mostly old-growth spruce and hemlock.

This property is very desirable from an investment standpoint, as every foot of tillage land is well suited for building lot purposes.

Property will be shown to anyone interested and particulars given by C. E. Lowe, agent, telephone office 688, residence 402-W.

Own Your Home
The man who owns his home becomes a better citizen and an asset to the community. It also pays.
Every man owes it to his wife and children to provide them with a home. It anchors him to the best in the community and improves his credit. If he rents, he assumes a debt which becomes due each month with the regularity of the rising sun as long as he lives. If he buys, he soon will owe no man and can leave an inheritance to his children.

If a man rents a house for $25 per month, at the end of 10 years he will have for his $3,000 nothing but a bundle of rent receipts. The same amount applied on the purchase price will buy him a home. It pays to own your home.

Obtain full particulars concerning some of the desirable homes we have on our list. There are many good, honest values, which we are offering on terms that cannot fail to be satisfactory.
