George S. Demerell of Jefferson street, well known among the younger granite manufacturers of the Barre district, left this morning for Fort Ethan Allen, there to rejoin C company in the 1st Vermont regiment of infantry. Mr. Demerell is a member of the granite manufacturing firm of Brown, Carroll & Co., and while he is with the colors the management of the business will be in charge of the senior partner, Charles A. Brown. A number of the young man's friends were at the station this morning to bid him farewell.

Private funeral services for Wilder Stanley Bartlett, the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bartlett of South Barre, whose death Thursday followed a short illness, were held Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Because of the uncertainty surrounding the symptoms which developed in the little fellow's illness, no services were held at the house, which is now under quarantine. The body was taken to Elmwood cemetery, where the committal service at the graveside was read by Rev. J. B. Reardon, pastor of the Universalist church. Doctors representing the state board of health, who conducted an autopsy over the body of the child, have not reported their findings as yet.

Search for George Robinson, an elderly man who was wanted for an alleged breach of the peace in Williamstown, ended in Barre Saturday when Robinson was taken in custody by Constable Norman J. Pratt. Arriving in Williamstown with the man, Constable Pratt arraigned him before a justice of the peace, who received from the prisoner a plea of not guilty. Later in the day the man was removed to the Orange county jail in Chelsea, where he remained until this afternoon, when it was expected that a hearing would be held in Williamstown. It is alleged by the authorities that Robinson, upon hearing that his wife, whom he has not lived with for 25 years, had returned to Williamstown from Texas, went to the house where she is staying and started to make trouble. It is specified in the breach of the peace complaint that the respondent grabbed a shotgun and threatened to make a mark of tenants of the house unless his wife returned to him. Before officers could be summoned, it is claimed, Robinson disappeared.
