VERMONT'S FIRST ELECTROCUTION

It Will Take Place in March, 1918, But the Actual Date is Not Settled at This Time.

Windsor, Sept. 4.—For many years the Green Mountain state has inflicted its punishment on convicted murderers by the ancient method of hanging. It sufficed for that purpose and was probably as good as any if they are good. But in the year 1915 it was decided to conform with the method of some other states and thus the electric chair was substituted for the rope.

In the future those unfortunates who pay the extreme penalty of the law in Vermont will meet their fate by what is termed by some as the most genial method. Death will be caused by electric shock.

The first person who will experience this punishment, if he is alive next March, will be Francis Ketchum, aged 23. Mr. Ketchum was convicted of having killed a man named Costello in Bennington county. He has been confined at the prison for the past six weeks. Ketchum has already done one term at this institution. That time it was for burglary.

The common knowledge of the law on capital punishment in Vermont is that a session of the legislature must lapse before a person convicted of murder can be executed. This idea is erroneous. This specification rests entirely with the trial judge as a means of staying the execution. He may or may not grant it.

Corn Pain Stopped Quick

Corns Lift Right Off with "Gets-It" Blended relief from corn pains is simple as A B C with "Gets-It."

When you've been limping around for days trying to get away from a heart-drilling corn or bumpy callous, and everything you've tried has only made it worse, and then you put some "Gets-It" on and the pain ceases right away, and the corn peels right off like a banana skin—"ain't it a grand and heavenly feeling?"

"Gets-It" has revolutionized the corn history of the world. Millions use it and it never fails. Ladies wear smaller shoes and have pain-free feet. We old fellows and young fellows forget our toes and feel frisky as colts. Everybody with a corn or callous needs "Gets-It." We will all walk about and enjoy ourselves as we did without corns. Get a bottle today from your druggist, or sent on receipt of price by E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago, Ill. 25c is all you need to pay.

Sold in Barre and recommended as the world's best corn remedy by Cummings & Lewis.—Adv.

ORANGE COUNTY FARMERS' ASSOCIATION NOTES.

Notes for Week Ending Sept. 1, 1917.

The Chelsea West Hill Farmers' club held a meeting Tuesday evening, Aug. 28, at which committees were appointed for work of the coming season.

These committees are well distributed both in work and number so the club has great possibilities for work this year. An interesting discussion of the possibilities of sheep in that community which lead into one of the desirability of the raising of pure bred stock of all kinds aroused considerable interest and gave food for thought on the upbuilding of many of our hill communities.

West Newbury farmers and their wives to the number of 60 met Wednesday evening in the ladies' aid hall of that place and completed the organization of the West Newbury Farmers' club. This organization is the eighth of these clubs to be started in the county and bids fair to be one of the lustiest, with an initial membership of over 40 and a set of progressive young farmers as officers.

William Putnam is president; S. S. Tucker, vice-president; H. W. Clark, secretary, and John Tyler, treasurer.

For the week ending Sept. 8, the county agent expects to be at Wells River bank, Tuesday forenoon; hold a meeting on Jefferson hill, Newbury, that evening; meet the East Brookfield Farmers' club Wednesday evening.

For the week ending Sept. 15, farm survey records as per schedule below will occupy the time the first three days and meetings with the Bradford and West Newbury Farmers' club Thursday and Friday of that week. Soy bean demonstration meetings will also be held this week as follows:

Monday, Sept. 12—H. E. Reaton, Post Mills, 1:30 p. m.; Sheldon Miller, West Fairlee at 3 p. m.

Thursday, Sept. 13—Will Gove, Bradford, 10 a. m.; Carl Thompson, Bradford, 1 p. m., and Norman Minard, Bradford, 3 p. m.

Saturday, Sept. 15—R. S. Flanders, Orange, 9:30 a. m.; Charles Biddle, Williamstown, 1 p. m.; C. W. Cram, Williamstown, 4 p. m.

Thirty-eight farmers in Orange county had their farm records of the year ending April 1, 1917, studied by the farm bureau, assisted by the farm management department of the Vermont extension service this season. Eight farmers made less than $300 for their year's work, while four others made over $1200. These records will be returned to those from whom they were taken the first three days of next week.

Meetings will be held Monday evening, Sept. 10, in co-operation with the Peth Farmers' club, and Tuesday evening at Randolph center, to discuss these records and the factors influencing farm profits. These meetings are open to all interested whether their records are included in the summary or not. Other meetings will be held later in the co-operation with other farmers' clubs and granges. Successful farm management is the aim of every real farmer. Attend one of these meetings, enter into the discussion of what makes some farms profitable.
